W. BOURK COCKRAN DIES OF STROKE OF APOPLEXY

Noted Political Leader Is Mourned by Thousands
Throughout U. S.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 1.—W. Bourk Cockran, Democratic congressman from New York, and one of the most famous orators of his time, died at his home here, following an illness of only a few hours.

He became ill last night, suffered a stroke of apoplexy in the early morning hours, and his death soon followed. He was 69 years old.

News of the death of Representative Cockran came as a profound shock to the capital, where few men in public life enjoyed a wider acquaintance or a greater host of friends than did the picturesque New Yorker.

Not alone in New York and Washington, where he spent the greater part of his life, but in many states, he was noted for the brilliance of his oratory and the independence and vigor of his views on public questions in the lobbies of congress. News of his death was received with sorrow and political friends and foes hastened to pay tribute to his eminence.

Birthday Battle
Representative Cockran spent all of yesterday, his birthday, at the capital, and only late yesterday afternoon made a powerful speech in the house against the administration's farm credit legislation. He went to his home in Rhode Island avenue after adjournment. A birthday dinner had been arranged in his honor, at which the principal guests were Mr. and Mrs. Sanburg, Field.

Field's birthday also was yesterday. He was in fine spirits and in his usual good health. About 1 o'clock a. m. he complained about feeling ill. Mrs. Cockran called two physicians who came immediately and remained with him throughout the night. Death came shortly after 7 o'clock this morning. The immediate cause of death, physicians said, was a hemorrhage of the brain, induced by the stroke which he suffered.

Representative Cockran made a striking figure on the platform. He was of average height and slight and heavy of frame, with an unusually large head adorned with a shock of snow white hair. He remained unthinned despite his 69 years.

He spoke in a deep resonant voice of exceptional carrying power, and the gestures that accompanied his forensic thrusts combined to make him one of the most finished and convincing speakers in public life.

Democratic Warhorse
Cockran was Democrat, identified for years with Tammany hall in the heyday of its power, but the vigor and independence of his views on public questions often ran him crosswise to the purposes of his party. This was especially noted in 1884, when he leaped into national prominence by making a brilliant speech against the nomination of Grover Cleveland. Again in 1896, when Bryan was nominated for the presidency, his independence of views ran counter to his party and he forsook the standard of McKinley and campaigned for McKinley on the gold standard. Four years later, on the issue of "anti-imperialism," he returned to his party and campaigned for Bryan.

Representative Cockran was in and out of congress during his long and memorable career, serving, all told, seven terms. He was first elected to the 50th congress in 1887 at the age of 37, and later served in the 52nd, 53rd, 54th, 55th, 56th and 57th. He was re-elected to the 58th last November. In the years he was not in congress, he practiced law in New York and was identified with many famous cases.

Believe Missing Woman Sailed On Steamship
LONG BEACH, March 1.—Clinging to the belief that his missing daughter, Mrs. Grace L. Smith, 36, is still alive despite a suicide note found with articles of her clothing here last Monday, Arthur W. Moore, wealthy retired jeweler, today led the police in a systematic search of the beach cities for the missing woman. Moore said today he believes his daughter is wandering about in a dazed condition.

Authorities, however, were inclined to believe that the missing woman boarded a steamship out of Los Angeles harbor Monday night for reasons unknown, and deliberately gave her disappearance the aspect of suicide to cover her movements.

Shoots Brother's Wife; Turns Pistol on Self
CHICAGO, March 1.—After hiding three days in the cellar of his brother's house, Rocco Fazzolari today shot and killed his sister-in-law, Mrs. Dora Fazzolari, and then wounded himself so seriously that physicians said he would die. The "brother's wife" resulted from his brother's plans to have him confined as insane.

GLORIA'S FATHER IS ARMY CLERK

Could Lead Life of Ease, He Prefers to Be Active In Quartermaster Corps

By WILLIAM G. CAYCE
For International News Service
LOS ANGELES, March 1.—

Rather than lead the life of a gentleman of leisure, enjoying all the comfort of such living, there is a man stationed at Fort MacArthur, near Los Angeles, whose gray hairs are beginning to show at the temples, who selected the life of a chief clerk in the quartermaster's department of the coast artillery corps.

He is Joseph Swanson, father of Gloria Swanson, screen celebrity, whose name is symbolic of pretty girls and such things dear to women. Swanson is quiet, genial, of engaging personality and possessing an amazing knowledge of motion pictures. If he wished, the pretty star's father could live a life of luxury. But such, he says, is not his desire.

Joseph Swanson is forty-seven years old and was a captain in the American engineering corps in France during the World War. He served for more than a year with distinction and after the armistice returned to Los Angeles to make his home.

Active and Traveler
"I have spent many a week-end at Gloria's Beverly Hills home," he said with a smile, "but I've always led an active life. I've traveled a lot, too, and I'm naturally a lot heavier on my hands. So I got this berth in the coast artillery."

He talked at length about his daughter, but next in affection to her is his little granddaughter, the two-year-old child of the star, who is also named Gloria.

Then his face grew serious. "Some people seem to think that because they've never seen a picture of Gloria's little girl that she is deformed. The baby is even more perfect and prettier than Gloria was at her age."

Before the war Swanson was an attaché of the state department, stationed in Japan. It was while in that country that he learned he had been divorced. He laughed when he told about returning home.

"Although Gloria wrote me regularly, she never told me about it," he said.

As for himself—he is contented with his duties in the artillery corps so long as he can go over to Beverly Hills every so often and see his granddaughter.

EMERGENCY FLEET GOING FAST TO PRIVATE DOCKS

Cost Three Billion Dollars and Will Pass Out of U. S.
Control by June 1

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
For International News Service
WASHINGTON, March 1.—The United States emergency fleet, which cost the government more than three billion dollars, will be in the hands of private ship owners by June 1, officials of the shipping board predicted today.

In the liquidation project 1,380 passengers and cargo ships, the shipyards at Hog Island and Alameda, Cal., railways, dry docks and other physical assets of the United States emergency fleet corporation, will be placed on the market.

Vessels to be disposed of cost a billion and a half dollars. Of the original fleet of 2,312 steamers, 932 have already been sold by the government.

Big Craft For Sale
The giant Leviathan, acquired from Germany after the armistice, is among the thirty liners the shipping board will put up for sale. The former Vaterland, rebuilt by the government at a cost of $8,500,000, is to be formally inspected at Newport News, Va., tomorrow and in June is expected to make her maiden voyage.

Assets of the fleet corporation, other than ships, cost $500,000,000. While figures were not available, officials of the shipping board estimated over three quarters of this class of property has been sold.

Property representing an investment of probably close to two billion dollars remains for disposal. Officials refused to guess at what the government will get for the marine holdings. It is not likely, however, the figure will approach half the cost.

Plans Being Guarded
The plans of Chairman A. D. Lasker to place the merchant marine on the market were being guarded closely today. The method will be "surprising and novel," and one which will give the government the maximum return for its huge investment, officials of the board said.

Assets of the emergency fleet corporation will be disclosed under terms of the merchant marine act of 1920. It is provided that any other property may be sold, leased or chartered "on the best available terms."

That the sale or lease contracts will stipulate certain of the vessels be maintained in the trades which they are now operating or in other trades fixed by the government, was the understanding. Only 393 steamers, passenger and cargo, are now operated by the government because of unfavorable shipping conditions, making impracticable operation of the entire fleet.

Losing Large Sum
The government is at present losing at the rate of $7,000,000 annually on the merchant marine fleet.

Vessels tied up include 867 steel ships, six of wood, two concrete, while ten cargo steamers are under charter to independent companies.

The dead weight tonnage of the active fleet is approximately 3,300,000 and of the inactive fleet 9,800,000. A majority of the steamers are docked at Newport News, Pensacola, Mobile and New Orleans.

The Glendale of Ten Years Ago

By J. C. SHERER, City Treasurer and One of the Pioneer Residents of Glendale.

A DECADE in the life of a community in this age and generation, when the world is moving at a speed that the globe never before attained, may work great transformations. That the ten years just ending has done this in the case of Glendale becomes apparent to any one who will simply stop for awhile and watch the procession of events rush by.

Indeed, one might go further and assert that the period mentioned has been fraught with more significance in the life of the whole world than any other period of similar brevity in the record of universal history. And, yet, it out of this period we should be able to take that very considerable portion covered by the great world war, and substitute an equal number of years of world peace, would the result add to or take from the sum of the things achieved? Perhaps the change in Glendale is simply of degree and not of kind. The quality of our people has not changed; increasing numbers have brought no new element essential to progress, and, fortunately, none that has tended to retard it.

As a progressive people built in the beginning, so have their progressive successors in ever increasing numbers, continued the building under favoring conditions supplied by nature, as they have been, now are and as we fervently hope they may continue in the decade now beginning and in those to follow.

The estimated population of Glendale in 1913 was 6,000 people. The city was in the midst of a charter election; that instrument, having been framed by a committee of free-holders, was being discussed in the press, in mass meetings and between citizens all over the city. In a short time it came to an issue at the polls and was rejected, for a period of eight years, as it proved, for the one under which the city is now working is not radically different. As we glance over the papers of that date, the impression is received that the people used the columns of the local newspaper in which to express themselves in regard to matters of local importance more than they do today. It had just been decided that the city would allow Andrew Carnegie to donate Glendale the sum of $12,500 for a library. It strikes the reader of the issue of the same paper in which this decision is announced, that the citizen who writes favoring the rejection of Mr. Carnegie's gift, need not have worried about it on account of the rising or any other generation, for, as a matter of fact, but few of Glendale's people ever give the donor the tribute of a thought, as they enjoy the fruits of his favor.

The assessment roll of the city in 1913 gave Glendale a valuation of $3,643,635. This has been multiplied about six times by our most recent assessed valuation. The city lighting department had been functioning since 1909, and had about 1,800 consumers. The question of municipal water was being debated, but did not materialize into city ownership until two years later.

There was considerable doing in real estate, the market being considerably better in fact than it became a little later, as a period of inaction set in shortly afterward which lasted until after the close of the war. Messrs. Jones and Evans had just bought eight lots on Brand boulevard north of the Country Club house, for a consideration of about $16,000. The best corner lots on Broadway were worth not over $4,000. The Peckham building on Broadway, corner of Isabel street, had just been completed. J. H. Flower was starting a brick block on Broadway, west of Brand. The park question was being considered, various citizens expressing themselves on the subject in the columns of the two weekly papers then existing. The subject seems to have been made a live one by a park committee of the Tuesday Afternoon club. The favorite plan appears to have favored four small parks in different portions of the city.

Reverting to real estate, the town-site of Montrose had its opening on Washington's birthday, 1913. The First National bank building on the corner of Broadway and Brand was in course of construction, to cost $13,000, and it is Glendale's first three-story building. The Central avenue school building had been contracted for at a cost of $12,000.

There was a lively Chamber of Commerce functioning, although it was, of course, a small concern compared with the one that Glendale boasts of today. The News of that day was located in a small frame building on Glendale avenue north of Broadway. The proprietor had been conducting it as a weekly newspaper for six years, in competition for the most of the time with another weekly publication located on the other side of town. It had a very fair subscription list and was well established. But the time had come when it should pass into the hands of another who was ready to take up the work and carry it into a wider field of usefulness, and so it passed, on March 1, 1913, into the possession of the present proprietor of the paper, who has established it in quarters that suggest, only by contrast, the humble surroundings in which he found it.

In January of 1913 Southern California had a "cold spell," such as had not been experienced here for many years, resulting in serious damage to the citrus crop. The Iowa papers were commenting on it with a spirit of commiseration that was beautiful to see. In appreciation of the efforts of the eastern editors, the editor of the News of an issue of January, 1913, perpetrated the following:

MY FROSTED FRIEND FROM IOWA
A man blew in from Iowa; the bloom upon his nose
Showed plainly that quite recently that organ had been froze.
An ulcer of tremendous size his bony form encased:
A fur cap with the earflaps down upon his head was placed;
The arctic on his hobbling feet were number twenty-one—
And if I lie an inch in this I'd better not begun,
For I do love the word of truth and from it rarely swerve,
Tho' I confess that Iowan did get upon my nerve.
I noticed by his halting gait that tender were his toes:
Quoth I, "What is the matter, sir?" He simply answered "Froze."
He brought an orange at a stand—no sooner did he close
His hand upon the pesky fruit than it right up and froze.
I missed him for a week or two, and to myself I said,
I guess my friend from Iowa has taken to his bed.
Or else that freezing turn of his has gone into his groin,
And they have postmarked him, in ice, back to De Moine.
And then one day I came on him out in a sunny place,
A frozen orange in his hand and heaven in his face.
Said I to him, "Good sir, reflect, those oranges are froze."
Says he, "Young man, I've bought this place, here where this orange grows;
I'd rather have the frost in it than have it in my toes."

Federal Whiskey Probe Implicates Physician

ROVILLE, Cal., March 1.—An investigation by federal authorities of alleged irregularities in the withdrawal of whiskey by Dr. W. F. Gates, state senator from Butte county, while county physician, was recommended by the county grand jury, it became known today when the report was made public.

The grand jury, it appeared from the report, investigated the withdrawal of liquor for the county infirmary and found that, while Dr. Gates was county physician, whiskey to the wholesale value of $3600 had been received. Further investigation, the report declares, showed that none of it had been billed to or paid for by the county and that from the number of inmates in the county infirmary it would have been impossible to have used such an amount.

The report points out that Dr. Gates' salary as county physician was only $100 a month. Beyond recommending a federal investigation of the circumstances, the grand jury took no action.

Dr. Gates was out of the city on business connected with his position as state senator and could not be reached for a statement.

"I would rather have it anyone else's child but my husband's, but it really is his."

Association Tries to Save Historic Spot for Use
Of Community Art

The joint mass meeting of the Casa Verdugo Park and Art and Welfare associations, held last night at "La Ramada" on North Brand boulevard, with the object of obtaining the financial support necessary to preserve this old adobe as a permanent civic asset, succeeded in bringing together numerous groups and individuals of influence.

Talks were made by H. C. Swartz, L. T. Rowley, Alexander Mitchell, Mrs. Roy A. Ballagh and others, each stressing a particular reason why this magnificent example of early Spanish architecture, with its 160 acres, should be saved for the city as a park and art center, and not allowed to fall under the sub-divider's hammer.

Offer Arguments
Mr. Swartz indicated in his remarks some of the ways in which an art center can serve and enrich the community, bringing to it a culture that is as necessary to continued growth as is material wealth.

Mr. Rowley brought out that every city that hopes to become outstanding must have its museums as well as its banks, and that the time to acquire these institutions is when the city is still (Continued on Page 4)

GOVERNMENT COST $22.50 PER CAPITA YEARLY, CLAIM

Financial Wizards Estimate
Expenses; Administration Proves Economical

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON.
For International News Service
WASHINGTON, March 1.—The cost of the United States government will be $2,475,700,000 during the current fiscal year, which ends June 30, it was estimated today by financial wizards in the senate with the third deficiency appropriation bill awaiting consideration.

This sum—averaging about $22.50 for every man, woman and child in the nation—includes appropriations for congress, the governmental departments and all independent agencies. It will be the most economical year of governmental administration since before the war.

With all the great supply bills already passed for the fiscal year of 1924, which begins July 1, it was also estimated the cost of future government would be reduced. Appropriations to date for the fiscal year 1924 totaled $2,286,513,000, with only one bill—the bonus for civilian employees—pending.

Higher Than Estimate

The cost of government in the present twelve months was higher than estimated before the year began. Additional needs for expenditures resulted in three deficiency bills, the last one of which was before the senate today. The three bills totaled $231,000,000, of which $153,000,000 was carried in the one now before the senate.

Although two of the regular supply bills for 1924—those of the war department and for the District of Columbia—have not yet been signed by the president, their totals will not be changed.

START WORK ON NEW HIGH SCHOOL BUILDINGS

Plant May Be Enlarged Without Interfering With Architecture

The North Pacific Construction company of Los Angeles is now busily at work upon the construction of a new educational plant for Glendale Union high school. The site on the southeast corner of Verdugo road and Broadway is claimed by those with knowledge of the subject to be one of the most beautiful in all of Southern California.

Classrooms for 2,500 students and an auditorium to accommodate 1,800 will be included in the initial unit of the new plant. This can be enlarged without interfering with the architectural beauty.

The beauty of old Spain with the practical dignity of a California school have been combined in the architecture. The design was evolved in the brains of architects John C. Austin, Frederick M. Ashley and George M. Lindsey.

Reinforced concrete will furnish a backbone for rough plaster. The roof will be of mission style. The main buildings will surround a picturesque courtyard. The even line of the buildings will be broken by a Spanish tower.

FASCISTI MAKING DRASTIC REFORMS

Minister De Stefani Tells Of Government Plans;
Attracts Capital

By GUGLIELMO EMMANUEL

ROME, March 1.—Drastic financial reforms are being made by the fascist government of Italy to encourage private enterprise, to attract foreign capital and to reduce taxes. In an exclusive statement to International News Service today, Minister De Stefani outlined the government's program as follows:

"The government does not want to contract any more loans to the state. It is our aim to meet the loans already outstanding. We wish to encourage private employment."

"In order to attract money from the outside it is proposed to exempt foreign capital from income taxes until the end of 1925."

Express Amusement

Credit for the reforms is given to Premier Benito Mussolini, the indomitable fascist leader, who has dedicated his life to the reconstruction of Italy. Prominent American tourists who have visited Italy recently, notably E. H. Gary, of the United States steel corporation, have expressed amazement over the achievements of the Mussolini government during the short time it has been in power.

Minister of Posts and Telegraph Di Cesare said the government has decided to transfer the Italian telephone system and part of the telegraph system to a private enterprise. Heretofore they have been owned and operated by the government, but it is believed that the services will be cheaper and more efficient if taken out of politics.

"A decree releasing the public communications service has just been signed," he said. "The government already is receiving offers from American, English, Italian and Scandinavian syndicates to operate the national telephone system."

Situation In Ruhr Is Serious, Say Germans

BERLIN, March 1.—"A serious situation exists in the Ruhr," the German government today formally notified the world powers.

Germany attributed the growing tension and seriousness of the Ruhr situation to "French plundering and threats."

German officials said they feared that widespread violence would break out and they wanted to warn the powers in advance.

young and the prices are not prohibitive. In this connection he cited the well-known instance of the Metropolitan Art Museum site, New York, that at one time could have been acquired for $50,000—and that a few years later, comparatively speaking, cost the city $50,000,000 to purchase.

Mr. Mitchell added a little humor to the occasion, telling some of his inimitable anecdotes and putting everyone in a happy frame of mind. He stated that the acquisition of "La Ramada" was a move along the right track, the track along which Glendale must go to become a leading city.

Now Is Time to Act

Mrs. Ballagh, who is president of the Casa Verdugo Park and Art association, stressed in her talk the fact that now is the time to acquire an art center for Glendale, while one is available in an accessible location, and at a reasonable price. There is no excuse, she brought out, for people of this city to have to go in to Los Angeles and borrow its culture. Why not have a cultural center of our own? was her thought. She particularly stressed the need for training up the children to an appreciation of some of the finer things of life, pointing out that such influences in their lives make them better citizens.

The following committee was appointed to act between the association and those willing to back this thing with sufficient finances to assure its success—L. T. Rowley, Alexander Mitchell and R. L. Young.

Germans Build Arms Factories In Russia

RIGA, March 1.—Germans are establishing munitions factories in Russia in preparation for the "next war," according to a report current here today.

German scientists are said to be inventing new kinds of poison gas more deadly than anything known in the world. They are said to be working on new kinds of explosives also.

Farmer Relief Bills Are Passed by House

WASHINGTON, March 1.—The administration's agricultural relief program was approved by the house this afternoon in passing the composite Capper-Lenroot-Anderson bill, providing enlarged credit facilities.

STOCKS, MARKETS

NEW YORK, March 1.—The stock market was irregular in the late dealings today, many of the active issues reacting about one point under profit taking sales while some stocks made new highs for the day in the last few minutes. California Petroleum was in urgent demand, the common touching 96 1/2, a gain of over 7 points, while the preferred rose over six points to above 107. American Smelting was another strong feature. Stocks like Baldwin locomotive and Studebaker reacted about one point. Utah Copper was in supply, dropping nearly two points to 74 3/8.

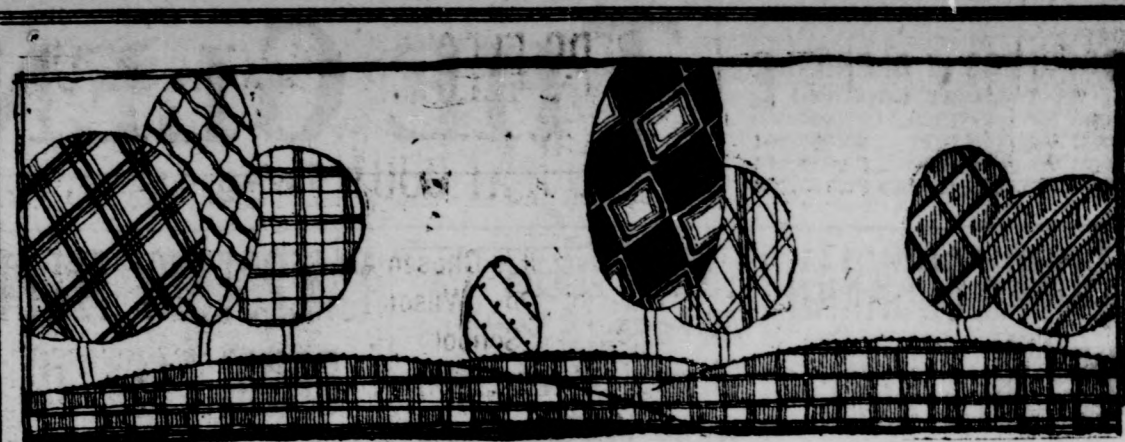

Government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds irregular.

Grain Markets

CHICAGO, March 1.—A firm undertone prevailed in the grain markets today. All the grains opened slightly higher, then the market ran into a dull period and hung listlessly. The finish, however, was better and closing prices were higher. The nearness of publication of the government report on farm reserves was regarded as one of the influences underlying the strength in corn.

Wheat closed 1-4 to 3-8 higher; corn 1-8 up and oats 1-4 higher. Provisions finished steady.

Nero spent an equivalent of about $200,000 for roses for one festival.

STORAGE CO. HAS MODERN BUILDING

Robinson Bros.' New Home At Elk and Central Nears Completion

The five story modern reinforced concrete warehouse of the Robinson Brothers Transfer & Fireproof Storage company, rising on the southwest corner of Central and Elk, will be completed about the middle of March, announces Hearn Robinson, president of the company.

This structure, which contains 20,000 square feet of storage space, 4000 feet to a floor, will meet every storage demand of the people in Glendale and surrounding points, states Mr. Robinson. All the latest and most approved warehouse engineering and architectural principles have been embodied, with resultant safety, efficiency and convenience.

The ground floor contains the main lobby, the offices, a massive burglar-proof vault, a spacious piano room finished in plate glass, a large packing room and a big garage in the rear. In addition, the north corner is given over to a space 18x50 feet, which will be leased as a shop or store.

Private Store Rooms
The second floor is all open storage, the third all private rooms, the fourth open and the fifth private rooms. The open floors are designed to accommodate automobiles; the closed floors, with their many private rooms of varying sizes, to store furniture and household effects.

An elevator 8x16 feet runs from the bottom of the building to the top and is large enough to carry up the most ponderous car or other article with ease.

This building, states Mr. Robinson, is the answer to an increasing volume of business that has crowded the company out of its present quarters at 304 South Brand boulevard, where for seven years they have been located.

Begun on the first day of November, 1922, it is with warrantable pride that its owners have watched this fine fireproof structure take its place among Glendale's growing monuments to progress.

Speeding Milk Wagon Driver Is Arrested

Paul Revere had a right to speed, but milk wagon drivers have not.

Such is the opinion of the local police department, which seems to take no cognizance of the fact that, if the milk doesn't arrive in time for the morning "java," the whole day will be ruined for thousands of breakfasters.

Anyhow, Russell W. Flippin of 227 South Flower street, who was driving a milk truck, was arrested at 6:30 this morning at the intersection of Los Feliz and San Fernando roads by Sergeant Louis Nunn. He was given a ticket for speeding and obliged to deposit $20 at police headquarters.

HERMAN NELSON PIONEER HERE

HERMAN NELSON came to Glendale in 1912, when it was a town of about 3000. He is a native of Iowa, where he was trained in the banking business. He is a vice president of the Pacific Southwest Trust & Savings Bank and manager of its Glendale avenue branch.

There is no Glendallian more vitally interested in Glendale and the 100 per cent Glendale spirit than Herman Nelson, manager of the Pacific Southwest Trust & Savings bank, Glendale avenue branch. The recognition today of the closing a decade in Glendale's history is of special interest to Mr. Nelson, for he arrived in Glendale in 1912, just when the little town of 3,000 or more persons was waking to its possibilities to become the fastest growing city of its kind in the United States.

Mr. Nelson is a native of the state of Iowa and after he grew to manhood at his home, 525 South Central avenue, came to California with this business background. His business ability and financial experience were readily sensed by California bankers and Mr. Nelson became manager of the Glendale avenue branch bank, which he has developed into one of the prospering financial organizations of the city and county.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson and their daughter, Edith Mae, and two sons, Herman C. and H. Vincent, make their home at 641 East Harvard street. Recently, in recognition of his ability as a financier, Mr. Nelson was made a vice president of the Pacific Southwest Trust & Savings bank. He is a member of Glendale organizations looking to the furthering of Glendale and, in brief, is one of the leaders in the advancement of Greater Glendale.

SOCIAL EVENTS

Delphian Meeting

The Lotus group of the Alpha chapter of Glendale Delphians surprised their leader, Mrs. Charles Marshall, Tuesday afternoon, February 27, with a 1 o'clock luncheon at her home, 525 South Central avenue, the occasion being her birthday.

The menu, which the women brought with them, was in tableau form, as follows: Act One, "An Irish Folk Song," "Roll On, Sweet Chariot," "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia," Specialty, "Song of the Old Salt," "Just a Bit of Sweet," Act Two, "The Wearing of the Green," "A Bunch of Sweet Peas," "In a Pickle," Act Three, "From Greenland's Icy Mountains," "Angels' Serenade," and as a grand finale, "Drinking Song."

The guests were invited to order their luncheon from the above menu, which created much amusement as no one but the maker of each particular dish knew what to expect.

The women brought a profusion of flowers with which to decorate the rooms. The table was a mass of pink sweet peas.

A beautiful tribute was paid to Mrs. Marshall by Mrs. P. C. Mason, by the reading of a toast poem whose theme was: "To tell you, Mrs. Marshall, As a leader, you're second to none."

Receives P. E. O.

The members of Chapter L. P. E. O. were entertained Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Albert Pearce, 119 West Lexington drive. The rooms were most attractively decorated with spring flowers, calendas being used effectively in the living room and a basket of sweet peas and freesias in the dining room.

Sewing for the Red Cross occupied the members of the chapter during the afternoon. The president of the chapter, Mrs. Lotitia Lusby, after some weeks of illness, was able to be present and preside over the business session. The study of the amendments to the Constitution of the United States, was conducted by Mrs. Emma Burket and a program of patriotic music was presented by Mrs. Ann P. Bartlett, which consisted of the following numbers, singing of "America" by the members, "Keep the Home Fires Burning," "A Song of Liberty," sung by a quartet consisting of Miss Isabel Isgrig, Miss Jennie Lacy, Mrs. Genevieve Goss and Mrs. Charlotte Goss, with Mrs. Harriet Randall at the piano.

Dance on Friday

A large attendance, good music and a well waxed floor, not to mention free refreshments, are features announced by Dr. B. S. Warner, consul, for the Woodmen's dance to be held Friday night in the I. O. O. F. hall on West Broadway.

This is the second affair of the kind given by the local camp, and those who enjoyed the first affair are planning to attend and urging their friends to go with them.

Studio Musical

Mrs. Virginia Freeman was hostess last night at a musical, taking place at her studio home at 216 West Dryden street. The affair was given by Mrs. Freeman as a benefit for the fund being raised by the Music Section of the Tuesday Afternoon Club to buy a grand piano for the new club house. Each member of the section pledged herself to contribute a certain amount to the fund and Mrs. Freeman secured her quota last night.

The studio home was decorated in a red color scheme, sweet peas and carnations being used by the hostess.

A pleasant surprise of the evening was the participation in the program of Mrs. Freeman's brother, George B. Cooper, of West Harvard street. He sang a number of solos and a group of duets with Mrs. Freeman.

Others taking part in the program were Mayor and Mrs. Spencer Robinson, Mesdames John Cotton, Helen McMullen, Charles A. Parker, Lura Burris, Gretta Corday, Lena Roberts, Miss Alda Arnold, Harold Treedy, and Mrs. Roberta Young, accompanist.

Late in the evening refreshments were served. Other guests were Mrs. Spencer, Mrs. Montgomery, Mrs. George Roach, Mrs. Kilpatrick, Thomas C. Dunn, Gene Corday, Paxton Holden of Washington, D. C.

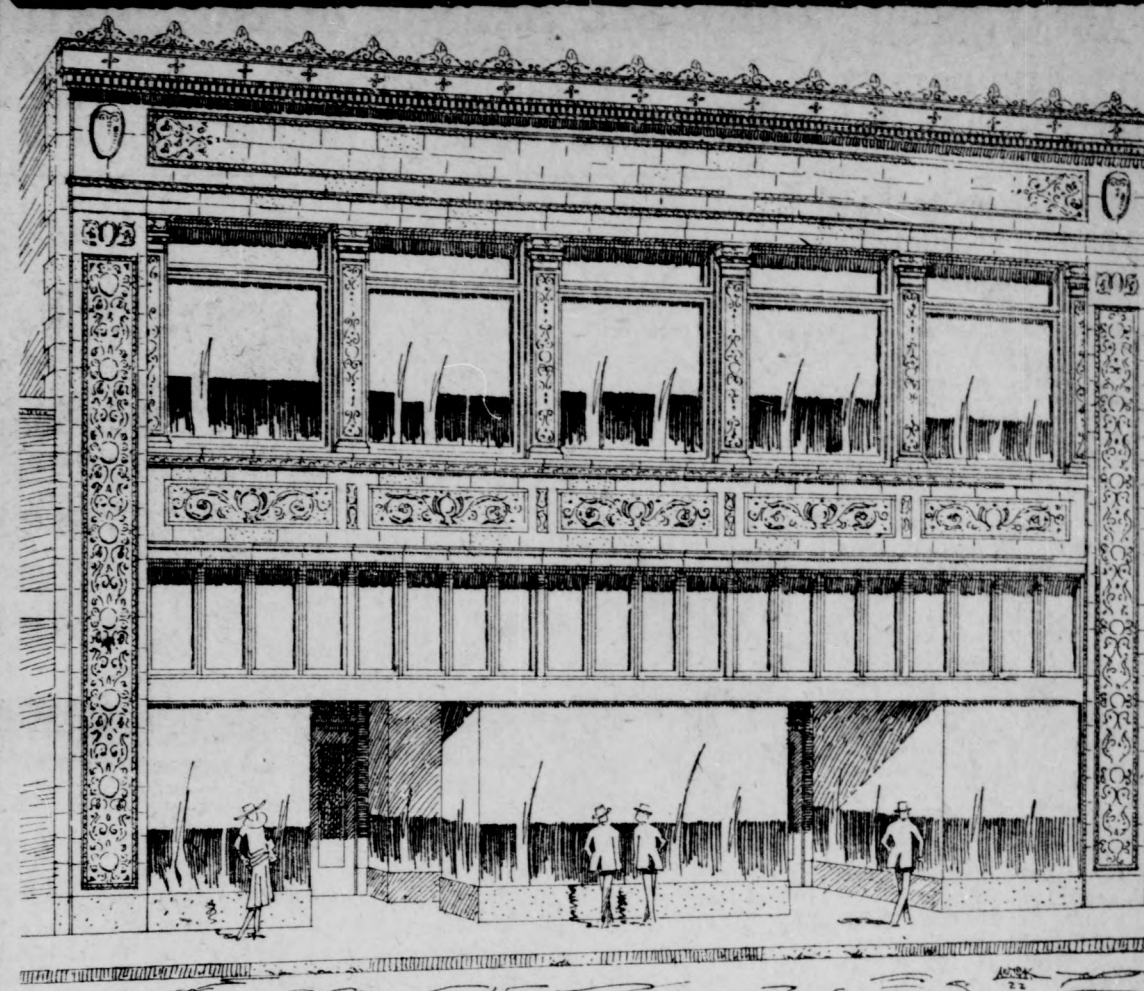

Birthday Surprise

The birthday of Mrs. Fred E. Cole, of 1471 East California avenue, was celebrated Tuesday night with a "surprise" party, a number of members of the family dropping in unexpectedly with well-laden baskets.

The evening was enjoyed keenly by Mrs. Cole, who had not the faintest suspicion that any such affair was in the wind. A social time was enjoyed, and later refreshments were served, consisting of birthday cake, tea and fruit.

Those tendering the surprise were Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Cole and Mrs. N. J. Murray, Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Westbrook and daughters Evelyn and Eloise, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Cole, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Chase and son Rawson and daughter Miss Annie Chase, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Buzzell, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Pollard and daughter, Miss Sara Pollard.

Postpones Program

Owing to unavoidable circumstances the Tuesday Afternoon section of the Tuesday Afternoon club has postponed the musical announced for Saturday night at the Harrower laboratory. The program will be given at a later date in March.

DINNER SETS HIM BACK NINE CENTS

Dr. Harrower Tells of Eating On German Train for Bundle of Marks

Nine cents for a dinner in a dining car—and a good one at that! No, tender-hearted railroad executives have not decided to operate traveling "soup kitchens" for the benefit of the riders-of-the-roads who are now en route by thousands for Southern California.

Dr. Henry R. Harrower of 1510 East Broadway found it necessary to do a LOT of shopping even at these absurd prices, for export of anything is "strictly forbidden." However, I bought a couple of pairs of Solingen (the German Sheffield) scissors for 5000 marks apiece, or nine cents, and a couple of ties one for 7500 and the other for 18,000 marks, a total cost of say 55 cents.

"I saw all sorts of bargains in the windows, which, if Pendroy were to advertise in Glendale, would literally cause a riot. Think of a perfectly decent looking dress shirt for 60 cents; or a safety razor for 5 1/2 cents; or a watch for $2.35, not an Ingersoll, either!"

Exchange Falling
"The exchange is falling so rapidly that it is impossible to figure it out," says a German exchange agent.

The luncheon and bridge was for Mesdames Lyman, Allen, Baker of Santa Monica; Mrs. Ray Morrow, Mrs. Hattie Hoodinghaus of Glendale; and Mrs. Harold Hammer of Ramona Acres.

Mrs. A. E. Moore substituted for Mrs. Griffith Jones.

With Mrs. Russell

The regular business and social meeting of the Women's Bible class of the Tropico Presbyterian church, will be held Friday, March 2, at 2:30 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. W. A. Russell, 336 Mira Loma street.

and so far that nobody knows what to do.

"The evening papers, with prices ranging from 70 to 100 marks apiece, are stuck up in certain shop windows so that the passerby can save his money. While 100 marks is veritably nothing to us, to them it is a considerable sum.

"Wages fluctuate every month. This variation is far too slow to keep up with the changes in prices. They are changed every day, sometimes several times a day.

"For instance, I had to get some passport photos taken in order to comply with the regulations. The price was 450 marks (one cent) for half a dozen. When I went to get them the next day the price was 750 marks. It is an invariable rule that everything must be paid for in advance.

"Yesterday afternoon I did a LITTLE shopping; it is useless to do a LOT of shopping even at these absurd prices, for export of anything is 'strictly forbidden.' However, I bought a couple of pairs of Solingen (the German Sheffield) scissors for 5000 marks apiece, or nine cents, and a couple of ties one for 7500 and the other for 18,000 marks, a total cost of say 55 cents.

"I saw all sorts of bargains in the windows, which, if Pendroy were to advertise in Glendale, would literally cause a riot. Think of a perfectly decent looking dress shirt for 60 cents; or a safety razor for 5 1/2 cents; or a watch for $2.35, not an Ingersoll, either!"

Compute Taxi Fares
"The taxi rates are figured by multiplying the meter rate by 1206. It is amusing to see the drivers commence to figure, looking sort of blank and making their lips move while doing their multiplication stunt. Then the trip, which may have lasted 20 or 30 minutes, costs six or seven thousand marks, or nearly 15 cents.

"The things my old acquaintances—for it is nearly nine years since I was here before—talk to me about are pitiful. Everybody has lost their money, for their money is so terribly depreciated.

"The situation as regards the French in the Ruhr is being used to arouse more of the very thing that originally caused the war. These Germans, the ordinary folks, the doctors, the 'man of the street,' and the 'average man,' are decent human beings like we are trying to be, but they have a bad handicap."

CAR LINES REACH WOODLAND SCENES

Glendale & Montrose Railway Reveals Beauties of Nearby Mountains

Round hillside, by roadside, On highway, through byway, Past orchards and vineyards, From our valley to your valley Run the little red cars.

It needs another John Greenleaf Whittier to tell you, in the poetry of nature, about the Glendale & Montrose railway line which runs from this city to Eagle Rock, Verdugo Woodlands, Sparr Heights, Montrose and La Crescenta.

Real inspiration is found in the green Verdugo hills, through which the "safety" cars go trundling along on their purposeful mission of furnishing transportation to the commuters. You will find all that the little lines of rhyme imply; you will find painters in the field picturing for themselves the beauties of the hill; you will find happy homes surrounded by trees and shrubs and in the lawns children will be playing to the music of the zephyr breeze.

The Glendale & Montrose lines, according to P. L. Hatch, general manager, now are paying operating expenses, for serving this little Switzerland has been more or less of a paternal duty with only the future to look forward to for recompense.

Lines Are Extended. Ten years ago the lines extended to Eagle Rock and Verdugo Park. The Eagle Rock line was built to supply Glendale with an outlet to Los Angeles via Eagle Rock by E. D. Goodie and associates. Then the Los Angeles and Arizona Land Company got the cars to run out to Verdugo Canyon, where Verdugo Woodlands now flourishes.

About eight years ago the Walters-Walton Company, who placed Montrose on the market, got the line to that place and later it continued on to La Crescenta. Some day it may continue to Tujunga, where population is more numerous. And shortly the Glendale & Montrose Company will electrify the old Salt Lake route into Los Angeles, where cars will shuttle back and forth down Glendale avenue to Verdugo and San Fernando roads for another ingress and egress to Los Angeles.

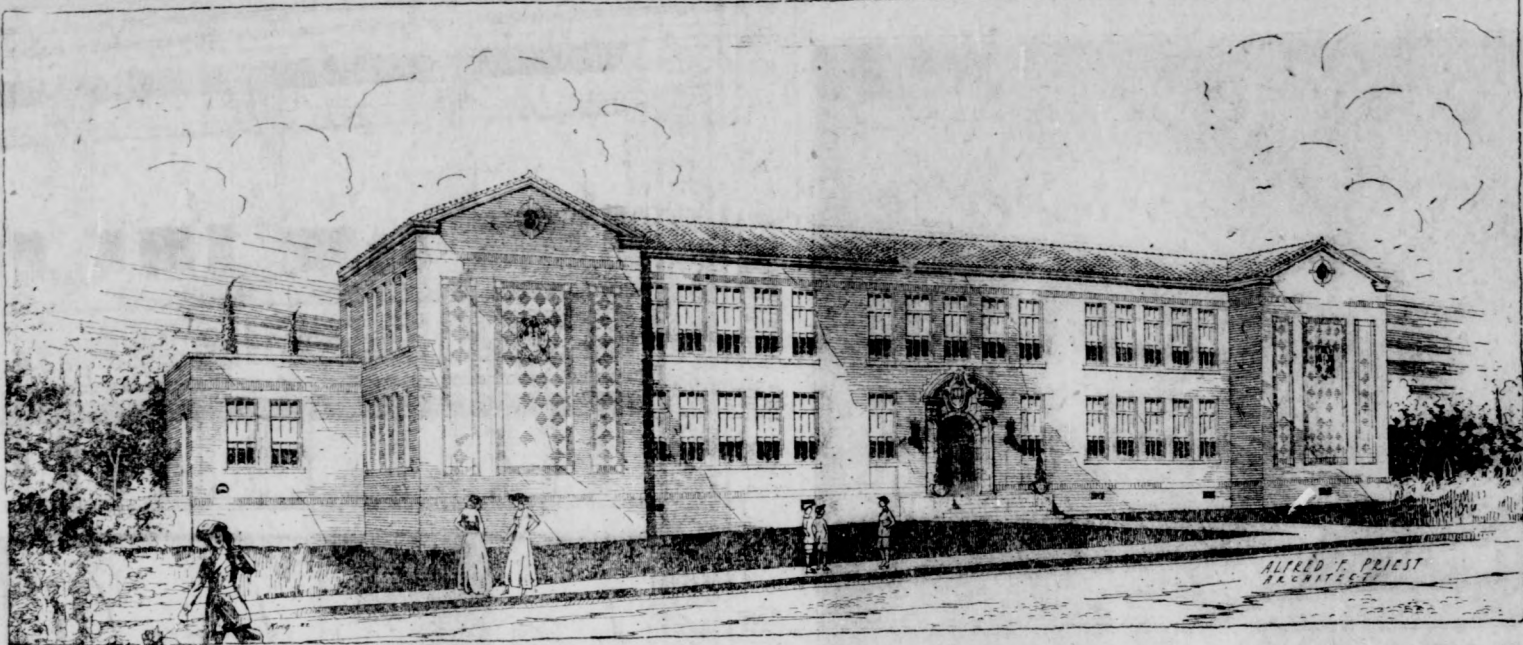

History is written around the territory which this interurban line traverses. First it was an Indian trail. Later the Mission fathers wended their weary way along the sloping hills to the two or three haciendas in the vicinity of Glendale. Then came the bandits, who rode riotously through Verdugo canyon and back into the mountain fastnesses.

But with the new era and a greater Glendale came the need for modern transportation, economical and efficient. The founders of the line gave up the task. The Great Western Development company carried on and appointed Mr. Hatch to look after their interests.

He has done more than that.

GLENDALE AVENUE INTERMEDIATE SCHOOL OF CALIFORNIA DESIGN

Building Is Surrounded by Number of Fine Old Trees That Add Much to Structure's Beauty

The Glendale Avenue Intermediate school is one of the proud new possessions of the local grammar school system. This school which now has an enrollment of over 339 pupils has been arranged so as to give each of them a maximum of fresh air and California sunshine while at the business of absorbing knowledge. The architecture is Italian Renaissance with brown rug brick, relieved by the terra cotta entrance and the Spanish tile roof. It was designed by Alfred F. Priest of 1422 Central avenue who has a number of monuments in the form of ornamental and useful buildings to his credit in this vicinity. The possibility of enlarging this building without ruining its architectural beauty is one of the most pleasing things about it in the opinion of the grammar school Board of Education which is having trouble keeping classroom accommodations equal to the growth of Glendale. The present arrangement of the school provides seven classrooms and fine manual training and home economics equipment. Pupils are making good use of the educational advantages offered according to Principal Norman R. Whytock.

Fine old trees, which were well along in years before Glendale started to grow, add much to the beauty of the premises and are sheltering to the youngsters on warm days. Sometime there will be a front lawn.

He has been instrumental in rehabilitating the rolling stock, personally works the freight trains, relieves the motormen when they are sick and attends to the development program which now calls for an expenditure of upwards of a quarter million of dollars. It is Mr. Hatch who invites the residents of Glendale to take a trip this week-end on the Glendale & Montrose lines. It is his company that looks forward to the time when the hillside will provide a homing place for thousands of happy people in Glendale's vicinity.

You should see the subdivisions offered at this time, for therein lies a wonderful opportunity of investment. You should enjoy the privilege of owning a home in some nook or cranny in the hills, far away from the torments of the town.

That is what the Glendale & Montrose railway brings to you!

Glendale's Public School System

FROM the days of the New England colonists the free public school has been an institution that has distinguished the United States and has been largely responsible for her growth and development. The perpetuity of the Republic, the welfare of the nation and the progress of civilization depend very largely upon universal education. Self-preservation prompts the Republic to look well to the training of its future citizens.

A community is known by the status of its public schools. Ten years ago Glendale was a mere village, but the excellence of its school system was one of the things that distinguished the community and marked it for advancement even at that early day. From then until now the schools of Glendale have kept pace with the city, if not a little in advance, and a big proportion of Glendale's growth in population may be traced to the excellence of its schools, the completeness of the curriculum, the devotion of the officials and faculty and the up-to-date equipment.

While no one countenances extravagance in the expenditure of school money, there is no investment that pays bigger returns than liberal sums spent in improving our public schools. No community, state or nation can long endure without patriotic citizenship, and money spent for public schools is an investment in citizens.

Newcomers by the hundreds, who have contemplated settling in Glendale, have made inquiries of the Glendale Evening News during the last ten years about our public school system. The News has never hesitated to tell these people that Glendale schools were second to none, and we have always taken a pride in being able to tell them this.

During the ten years we have been in Glendale the men and women who have administered the affairs of the schools have been, we believe, almost without exception, devoted and patriotic citizens, who have realized their responsibility to the young as well as to the people who elected them. Bringing to mind the names of principals and teachers of Glendale schools the past ten years, we think it would be difficult to find a body of men and women more faithful, efficient and conscientious. And, of course, the youth of Glendale, from the tots in the kindergartens, to the young men and women in the Senior class of the high school come from the very best families of the land.

Daniel C. Gilman, one of the early presidents of Johns-Hopkins university, said: "That tenacity of purpose with which a few settlers in the wilderness held on to the idea of a liberal education, in spite of their scanty crops and scantier libraries, their wide separation from the old-world seats of learning, and their lack of professional teachers, is one of the noblest traits possessed by our forefathers, who were never so weary or so poor that they could not keep alive the altar fires in the temples of religion and learning."

We owe it to our forefathers, who founded free schools, to keep our school system up to its greatest possible efficiency. The fine plant of the Glendale Union High school now in course of construction, and the program of development contemplated by the city schools, will add luster to our community and serve to make Glendale more than ever the mecca for hundreds of homeseekers.

Secretary Hughes to Answer Borah Query

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Secretary Hughes will have no difficulty in answering the main questions put to him in the Borah resolution. They inquire as to whether or not this government is willing to submit all justifiable questions for decision by the permanent International Court of Justice at The Hague, and whether or not it is willing to ask other powers if they will do so. The manifest answer is contained in the well known and consistent record of the Senate itself, which, throughout the years, has steadily declined to permit this government to arbitrate anything without the consent of the Senate.

When the last arbitration treaties which even suggested compulsory arbitration of any kind were before the Senate in 1908, the Senate itself ordained that all questions to be arbitrated by the government should first be submitted to the Senate.

The question which remains to be answered, therefore, is not what is the attitude of the administration, but whether or not the Senate itself has changed its own mind on this subject.

To the second question Secretary Hughes can reply that, in addition to justifiable questions which have been agreed to as subject to arbitration by all powers, there is an optional clause provided for the court, by signing of which any nation can bind itself to arbitrate any question with any power. This optional clause has been signed by a few nations, but by none of the great powers.

Fifty Per Cent Gain In Visits By Stork

LOS ANGELES, March 1.—The stork put in a busy time during the year of 1922, when he completed a total of 13,310 deliveries in Los Angeles, an increase of nearly 50 per cent over the previous year, according to the annual report of Dr. L. M. Powers, city health commissioner, which has just been compiled.

The long billed bird outstripped his grim competitor, death, for the year, births exceeding deaths by 4304 in number. During the twelve months of 1922 there were a total of 9608 deaths in the city, the report shows. Tuberculosis was the disease reaping the heaviest toll of lives, a total of 1170 persons succumbing to it. Pneumonia was second, claiming 718 lives, while influenza was third with 196 deaths.

The ages of from 1 to 2 years apparently are the most virile years of disease resistance, the report shows. But 166 children between these ages were claimed by death during the year, while the heaviest toll came from the ranks of persons over 65 years of age, of whom 2910 persons died. The infant mortality rate, the report states, is extremely favorable for Los Angeles. The total deaths of babies under 1 year of age were 991, it was shown.

Singer and Violinist Will Furnish Program For Music Club

Glendale Music club members and guests meeting tonight in the auditorium of the Glendale Union High school are to be entertained by a program given by Carl Gantvoort, baritone, and Calmon Luboviski, Russian violinist, assisted by William Tyroler, pianist. Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, club president, and other officers and members are considering the program as the big event of the year.

Guests are to be admitted to the concert and Mrs. Warren Roberts, secretary, is to be at the door to receive money in payment of dues.

Congress Authorizes Anti-Dope Agreement

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 1.—President Harding was authorized and requested by congress today to enter into negotiations with foreign governments for the limitation of production of habit-forming drugs to the amount necessary for medical and scientific purposes.

The senate unanimously adopted the Porter resolution to this effect.

The resolution was sponsored in the senate by Senator Lodge, Republican, of Massachusetts, who declared the present production of opium to be 1500 tons a year, of which only 100 tons are necessary for legitimate purposes. The remainder, Lodge said, is used by drug addicts.

BE-RIBBONED SPRING

A great call for ribbons is promised during spring and summer. They are being used for dress trimming, and to create all sorts of clever dress ornaments: to cover hat and bonnet boxes, to create rainbow corsage for evening dress and for many other decorative features.

FRENCH MOVE TO AVERT OUTBREAK

Populace of Bochum Sullen As Invaders Disarm German Policemen

BERLIN, March 1.—A virtual reign of terror exists at Bochum, according to word from there today. The populace is said to be in a bitterly resentful mood and a serious outbreak is expected.

Early reports from there said the German "green" police in Rockingham and Bochum. Later word was received that French were tearing the clothes from some of the German officers and horsewhipping them.

Trouble has been brewing at Bochum since last week, when French fired into a mob there, killing one and wounding others. The French have sent reinforcements there.

FEBRUARY BUILDING PERMITS REACH TOTAL OF $1,019,613

Year's Shortest Month Came Within $4,723 Of Equaling Glendale's Record Figure

FEBRUARY'S books were closed last night in the building office at the city hall with the credit of having been the third largest month in the history of Glendale. The month's total of $1,019,613 was exceeded by only $4,723 by January's total of $1,024,336—the largest on record. The next highest month, last April, which had a total of $1,022,699, was only $3086 ahead. However, February is a short month and if it had been as long as an ordinary month, it would undoubtedly have broken all records.

February's total is over twice the total of $421,890 for the same month last year; over five times the total of $197,678 for February 1921; and seven times the total of $144,715 for February 1920.

March is here and H. C. Vandewater, superintendent of the building department, predicts that it will be another record-breaker. It has to stimulate $521,265 worth of building activity before it will equal the record of last March.

The total for the first two months of this year is $2,043,949. This is over one-third the total of $6,305,971 for last year—in one-sixth the time. If the same ratio is maintained, this year will continue the pace set by its predecessors.

HALF MILLION DOLLAR BANK, OFFICE BUILDING

Magnificent Structure Will Rise On Old Pacific Electric Station Site

The old Pacific Electric depot at Brand and Broadway has already been removed to make way for this imposing structure, a six story building to house the Security Trust & Savings Bank and a large number of offices. Two elevators will serve the upper floors. There will be a safe deposit department in the basement. The building will be substantial, ornamental and a real addition to Glendale's "sky line."

Drawing by Alfred F. Priest, architect, showing the bank and office building for Security Trust & Savings Bank to be erected at a cost of $500,000.

Glendale's first half a million dollar bank and office building is now about to be started on the northeast corner of Brand boulevard and Broadway for the Security Trust and Savings Bank. The site of the old Pacific Electric station, upon which this six story building will be located, has been fenced and excavation is expected to commence within a few days. The property has a frontage of eighty-nine feet on Brand boulevard and a depth of eighty-six feet on Broadway. It was formerly owned by the Pacific Electric Railway Company. The Glendale branch of the Security Trust & Savings Bank of Los Angeles will occupy the entire first floor and mezzanine balcony. Arrangements are being made for nine double cages for tellers. There will be a meeting room for directors and quarters for bank officials. The elevator entrance will be on Brand boulevard. Two elevators will serve the five upper floors which will be divided into 114 offices. A completely appointed safe deposit department with coupon booths, a consultation room and other facilities for the convenience of the patrons will occupy the basement. This will contain the bank vaults, also.

PLUMBING HOUSE EMPLOYS 65 MEN

Coker & Taylor's Growth
Keeps Pace with Glendale's
Rapid Advancement

Coker & Taylor, plumbers, 209 South Brand boulevard, offer one more of many examples where Glendale firms have grown great with the city.

Starting very small in 1916, when Glendale was less than one-third its present size, this concern has built up its business steadily, by offering real service and honest materials, until today it owns and occupies its own building at the above address and employs in the neighborhood of sixty-five men.

The new building is a thoroughly up-to-date plumbing plant, one of the finest in Southern California. It is divided into two parts—one a show room of large dimensions, where are on display all manner of plumbing fixtures, ranges, furnaces, heating devices and the like; the other a completely equipped shop, able to care for every job from the biggest to the smallest.

The stocks carried by Coker & Taylor are so large and varied, the service so prompt and satisfactory, announces the firm, that every plumbing need of Glendale can be cared for efficiently and economically.

PLAYERS SLOW TO SIGN CONTRACTS

Many Major Leaguers Are Holding Out for More Pay for Season

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service
NEW YORK, March 1.—Right at the moment there are enough holdouts on the three major league clubs of greater New York to form a ball club that might very well be reckoned to coast on through to a championship. From the official lips of Ed Barrow, megaphone man of the Yankee organization, comes the statement today that Wally Pipp, Bob Meusel, Herb Pennock, Fred Hoffman and Frank Baker remain unsigned, "owing to salary differences."

The same might be said of Dutch Reuther, Zach Wheat and Andy High, of the Dodgers. "It seems, from what we have learned of Reuther's case, that the young man really is dissatisfied. Messrs. Wheat and High have attempted, in a general way, to give the same impression. They are not satisfied. Neither is the average occupant of the electric chair."

Giant Holdouts
Among the prima donnas of the world's champion Giants, the "bitter-enders" include Dave Bancroft, John Scott John Rawlings, Earl Smith and Jack Bentley. In addition, Emil Meusel, George Kelly and Casey Stengel remain unsigned because they will not be tendered contracts until McGraw has determined just what, if anything, their tour of the Orient did to their playing ability. It is also believed that Frank Snyder is not saying it with fountain pens, because he resides in San Antonio, and can talk with McGraw there personally.

The remainder of them, however, give every evidence of being sincere in their stand. Scott, Bancroft and Bentley have politely declined to appear at the training camp. Bentley is said to be quite pleased with the terms offered him, but wants a $5000 bonus from some one to recompense him for the disappointment of having been transferred from a minor league to a world's champion club. As for the Yanks, Frank Baker wants to retire from the big leagues, and has no salary differences with the management; Pipp thinks he deserves more money and may get it; Meusel is affronted by the wording of his contract; Bannock is seized by the unique desire for an extra dollar or so, and Hoffman is balking for reasons unknown. It is also said that Sam Jones is by no means cheered by the numerals quoted

In The Spotlight Of Sport

By Wood Cowan

Here's a mild mannered thump-er who has the speed and fury of attack that made Terry McGovern such a favorite with the fighting public. His name is Carl Tremaine.

Carl is a French Canadian, born at Listowel, Ontario, 23 years ago. Although deeply interested in boxing, Canada has given us few good fighters, but in Tremaine she has certainly produced a bird that will come as near to lifting the bantamweight crown from Lynch as any man in that division, if he can ever get the champion into a ring with him.

Cool as a cucumber, Tremaine does not give the slightest hint of the bottled up energy that is about to explode until he has drawn the fire of his opponent—then he lets loose. He is not a straight hitter, but hooks and swings. Still he plants his punches with great skill and has the knack of putting the weight of his body behind his blows from his toes up. He is an old-fashioned fighter with a left hand like George Dixon's and the fighting heart and aggressiveness of a McGovern.

Tremaine first fought as an amateur for the Detroit A. C. There was an amateur tournament at Toronto and the Detroit club was short a bantam. Carl, who was an A. D. T. boy, volunteered his services and the D. A. C. officials took a chance on him. Carl not only made good, but he later won the amateur bantamweight title both at Detroit and Cleveland.

Tremaine likes to play baseball; can roller skate with the best of them, performing many a fancy stunt, sings well unless forcibly restrained; owns and drives a Marmon, and plays both the violin and the piano.

He has beaten Farese, Joe Burman, Phil O'Dowd, Roy Moore, Frankie Mason, Terry McHugh and Ballerino, also Pinchott and Irish Johnny Curtin. Pinchott lasted ten rounds with champion Lynch—it took Tremaine just 40 seconds to finish him.

Carl is married and has a little fighter of his own who in a few years will follow in his Pa's footsteps.

The selection of Princeton and Stanford, representative universities of the Atlantic and Pacific seaboard, respectively, have been invited to send a combined tennis team to meet the Oxford-Cambridge experts in England this summer will attract nationwide interest to this American invasion.

Both Princeton and Stanford are well supplied with fine tennis material. Jimmie Davies and Phil Neer of the latter institution being the national intercollegiate champions in the doubles event.

While presumably the matches will be played on the other side of the Atlantic, there is a possibility of the scene being shifted to the United States—a matter of detail that will be settled when the representatives of the two opposing factions get together.

Notwithstanding the fact that the University of California netted $135,667.62 through its athletics from last June through December, it is rather startling to learn that there still was a deficit of more than $32,000. This, however, is accounted for by reason of the fact that the athletic association has undertaken the financing of a number of student interests, including the construction and furnishing of the Student Union building, and meeting the various obligations incurred in the erection of their million dollar stadium, now under process of construction.

With the exception of track and field athletics, which usually is able to finance itself from the gate receipts, all other forms of athletic activity in the university are non-profit makers and the burden of making up the various deficits rests on what football brings in.

This is the case in many of the universities of the country. Rowing everywhere is a dead loss, as there is no way of getting any return from the public on the outlay.

Pacific coast wrestling fans who have had an opportunity to watch all the best of the heavyweights of the country in action seem inclined to the belief that both Joe Stecher and Champion Strangler Ed Lewis have passed the zenith and are on the decline, gradual though it may be. Among those who are "coming," it is believed that Renato Gardini, the Italian champion, has as good a chance of eventually annexing the title as any of them.

THEATRES
The GLENDALE The T. D. & L.

In "My Wild Irish Rose," now showing at the Glendale Theatre, the sweetness of the famous Chauncey Olcott song and the stirring heart drama of the famous Dion Boucicault play are combined to make a marvelous film, full of rare Irish romance and flavor, replete with rich Irish brogue, wealthy in that wit, folklore and scenic beauty as only the "Auld Sod" can produce.

One is completely saturated with the sentiment of the song and the play. In other words, it is as near a "100 per cent picture" as you are ever likely to get. It will send many an audience whistling and humming down the aisles and home, happier for having seen it.

"Nobody's Money," a Paramount film starring Jack Holt and Wanda Hawley, is the feature at the T. D. & L. Theatre today. In it a dramatic tale is told, and a realistic one. Jack Holt, especially, does some very fine work, and Wanda Hawley does not lose any of her laurels.

It is a story of "high society" that gives one something to think about, and has received some very flattering reviews.

Buster Keaton, in "My Wife's Relation," offers a laugh-fest that is continuous and spontaneous, carrying the audience far away from thoughts of the little troubles of the day.

NEW YORK, March 1.—For the first time in nine years Connie Lugebrius Mack can be favored to finish higher than eighth in the American League because he is deemed to have mustered sufficient strength, after seasons of experimenting, to outlast the Boston Red Sox, if none other.

Cornelius has tried more combinations than a Monte Carlo world's championship outfit before the 1915 season, but his efforts have been unproductive. On the other hand, he would have had a real ball club today had he stood pat and allowed his original bets to ride. Suppose, for example, neither trade nor purchase had tempted him. He would then be able, barring accidents, to announce the following as his lineup for the opening game of the 1923 season:

Pitcher, Joe Bush, one of the leading right handers in the game last year; catcher, Steve O'Neill, still one of the topnotchers; first base, Stuffy McInnes; second base, Eddie Collins, who tops them all at thirty-six; short-stop, Larry Kopf; third base, Joe Dugan, the best in baseball; outfielders, Charley Jamieson, Amos Strunk and Whitey Witt.

So much for the opening day lineup. For the next game he could call on Bob Shawkey, Herb Pennock, Stanley Coveleskie, Roy Moore, Ruben Bressler, Dana Fillingim and John Watson to pitch and Wally Schang, Walter Schmidt, Val Picinich or Glenn Myatt to fill in behind the plate—surely the finest set of battery strength in the land.

In case of injuries to his front line forces Cornelius would only need to glance down along the bench to find George Burns, first baseman and outfielder; Doc Lavan and Eddie Foster, infielders, and Larry Gardner and Frank Baker, pinch hitters.

Quite a ball club, that. So good, in fact that it would figure to run one, two, three in any man's league. Yet it was given away virtually by a man who gives only until it hurts, therefore gives nothing.

Cornelius must have been painfully injured many times during recent years, for he now has nothing to show for all his trades and deals with other major league clubs unless it is the solace of an increased bank balance. Of the line-up that probably will take the field at the start of the next season only Tully Walker and Bing Miller, outfielders, went to Philadelphia in intra-league trades.

Ralph Perkins, said by many to be the best catcher in baseball, was developed at Shibe Park. So was Eddie Rommel, who won twenty-seven games for a seventh-place club; Joe Hauser, the first baseman purchased from the American Association; Jimmy Dykes, who was picked off the lots around Birm. Minn., a Philadelphia suburb; Calloway, the shortstop; McGowan, the outfielder; and Hasty, Harris, Heimach and Yarrison, pitchers.

Hale and Riconda, the recruits who will battle for the open job at third base, were purchased, the former from the Pacific Coast League and the latter from the Eastern League.

Of course, many of the men Mack let go, including O'Neill, Schmidt, Coveleskie, Lavan, Kopf, Foster and Jamieson were undeveloped at the time they received trials under him. Yet the deplorable fact stands out that Cornelius lost loose from Eddie Collins, Joe Bush, Bob Shawkey, Stuffy McInnes, Amos Strunk, Wally Schang, Larry Gardner, Joe Dugan, Frank Baker, and others, while they were at the pinnacle of their ability, and the men he got in return are either out of the major leagues or out of circulation, depending on whether they were iron men or merely human. The iron men were retired from circulation automatically.

Passes Confederate Notes on Frenchman
CHERBOURG, France, March 1.—"Valid two years after the close of hostilities," read two bank notes, one for $50 and the other for $100, presented by a sailor from the oil ship Dordogne to the proprietor of a little cafe here.

"Good enough," commented the proprietor, and he counted out for the sailor approximately 3,000 francs.

Next day the proprietor examined the notes more carefully. To his surprise he discovered he had confounded the American Civil War with the Great War and the notes were Confederate bank notes.

The Dordogne had departed from Cherbourg, so the Commissaire of Police set out in pursuit of her in a small boat and overtook her.

The sailor explained the notes had been given to him at Port Arthur, Texas, for smuggled liquor and willingly gave up his francs. He, too, had believed the mention of hostilities referred to the Great War.

Flyweights to Fight Title Battle Tonight
NEW YORK, March 1.—The greatest flyweight battle since the memorable days of Johnny Cunion and Jimmy Barry will be fought here tonight when Pancho Villa, the Filipino, will defend his American title against Frankie Genaro in fifteen rounds.

The two fighters understood it to be matched with Jimmy Wilde of England, for the world's championship.

Villa is the favorite at slight odds, although Genaro holds two verdicts over him.

Villa is regarded now as the finest bit of fighting in the American flyweight division has seen in twenty years. The men weigh in at 112 pounds.

Idaho Quintet Clears Road to U. of C. Battle
SPOKANE, Wash., March 1.—University of Idaho beat Washington here last night, 24 to 21, and gained the right to meet the University of California five at Moscow in a three-game series to decide the Pacific coast conference hoop title.

The ability of Captain Fox of Idaho to convert free throws won the game for the Vandals. He counted 16 out of 18 throws. Close checking featured the contest. Washington led at half time, 15 to 14. The Vandals took the lead in the second half and were never headed.

FIGHT RESULTS
AT HAMMOND, Ind.—Jimmy Clabby knocked out Joe Pejio in the sixth round; George Vernor and Eddie Raynor fought six rounds to a draw.

AT CHARLOTTE, N. C.—Lukie Tennor, Charleston, knocked out Jackie Orr, Philadelphia, in the fourth round; Crayton Rowe, Charlotte, knocked out "Torpedo Jack" Harris, Atlanta, third round.

PURCHASES HOME SITE ON HOWARD

Transaction Is Fourth Sale By Local Realtor to Minnesota Friends

The sale of three choice lots on Howard street, between Lexington and Doran, to William Westover of Fergus Falls, Minn., by P. C. Brown, sales manager of the Glendale Realty company, 131 1/2 South Brand boulevard, yesterday, marks the fourth sale that has been consummated by Mr. Brown within the past six months to his former friends from Fergus Falls, and it is a notable feature of all of these sales that each of them was made without preliminary solicitation or correspondence on the part of Mr. Brown. In every case the purchasers came here for a friendly visit and were so impressed with the commercial activity and the prospects of Glendale that they decided to purchase property here.

Mr. and Mrs. Westover came to Long Beach three years ago and during that time they have made a handsome profit from their transactions in Long Beach real estate. Owing to the state of Mrs. Westover's health, which called for a different atmosphere than she was able to obtain right on the sea level, her husband decided to seek another location, and the result of his investigations brought him to Glendale, where, after a few hours' survey, he instructed Mr. Brown to secure for him a property where he could build a home. He has already launched his plans to erect a handsome residence on his Howard street lots, which are of such a size as to permit a generous treatment of the site and will result in making it one of the beauty spots of the city.

Other Fergus Falls residents who have bought Glendale property are Ford Latta, who owns a home at 700 North Isabel; J. S.

Soviets Refuse to Assume Czar's Debts

MOSCOW, March 1.—Leon Trotsky, people's commissar for war in the soviet government, told International News Service today that the Bolshevik government was determined not to pay the debts contracted by Russia during the old Czarist regime.

Trotsky's declaration was the result of a cable report quoting Senator Henry Cabot Lodge as saying that recognition of the Moscow government was hindered by its dishonest attitude toward financial obligations. He declared that if Senator Lodge were truthfully quoted in saying that Russia did not feel bound by any trades, he was guilty of "a daring and insolent statement."

"I do not desire to approach Senator Lodge's statement from a moral point of view," said Trotsky. "Undoubtedly we stand on different moral grounds. It would be important, we feel, if Senator Lodge would cite instances where the soviet government had violated treaties."

"Perhaps he has in mind the obligations concluded while the old Czarist regime was in power. We never did recognize those debts. We never gave any occasion to think that after the successful revolution we would take upon ourselves the whole Czarist inheritance."

Ulland, president of the Fergus Falls National bank and of several other financial institutions, who bought 100 feet on Geneva street between Doran and Brand; and Paul Paulson, manager of a big wholesale fruit company at Fergus Falls, who owns property at 454 West Stocker.

Mr. Ulland was in partnership with Mr. Brown for nine years in the real estate, banking and loan business in Fergus Falls, and his reliance on the latter's knowledge of local realty conditions was the determining factor in inducing him to purchase in Glendale.

The fact that most strongly impressed Mr. Brown was that these friends of his hunted him up and bought property here without having to be urged to do so in any selling campaign on his part.

LONG TERMS FOR POSTAL SERVICE

Total of 129 Years' Continuous Work Is Record of One Family in Department

By J. L. MEDDOFF
For International News Service
WASHINGTON, March 1.—Two generations of the same family serving in Uncle Sam's postal organization for 129 consecutive years is the remarkable and unparalleled record unearthed by Appointment Clerk R. S. Regar, of the Post Office Department, in digging through his ancient files recently.

Richard S. Lawrenson is the surviving member of the family. In 1822 he entered the postal service. He was retired in 1920, with a life annuity, after 58 years of continuous service.

His father, James Lawrenson, became a postal worker in 1819 and remained in office until his death, serving a total of 71 years—staying on one job 11 years more than the average person's span of life. He was 90 when he died.

It was through the elder Lawrenson that his son obtained position with the Post Office Department, and for 34 years father and son worked together.

Recall Historic Dates
Delving into the records of the elder Lawrenson, Regar uncovered many interesting incidents in the early history of the United States. When the British invaded Maryland, in 1814, Lawrenson enlisted in the American Army as a drummer boy, witnessing the bombardment of Fort Henry by the British fleet. He was the first person, according to Regar's files, to sing "The Star Spangled Banner," the occasion being a day or two after the battle of Baltimore.

For many years, without severing his connection with the postal service, Lawrenson was the Washington correspondent for two nationally known newspapers. To him also fell the distinction of administering the oath of office to 26 Postmasters-General, the first being Francis Granger, in 1841, and the last John Wamamaker, in 1889.

Aside from all the Postmasters-General under whom he served, Lawrenson enjoyed the friendship and acquaintance of numerous distinguished persons, including Andrew Jackson, John C. Calhoun, Lafayette, Daniel Webster, General Samuel Smith, Francis Scott Key, Christopher, Hughes, Henry Clay, Bishop Simpson, the Rev. Alfred Cookman, George Bancroft, Abraham Lincoln and General Ulysses S. Grant.

Son Is Now 87
Richard Lawrenson, the survivor of this "postal family," is now 87 years of age. His vision is still so clear that he does not wear glasses. He is far more agile than his years would indicate, demonstrating this fact to Postmaster-General Work several days ago.

Work greeted the veteran postal employee cordially, and remarked that Lawrenson appeared to be as spry and nimble as a middle-aged man despite his being an octogenarian.

"Well," said Lawrenson, drawing himself erect, "I can see as good as ever. And I still am able to take the pulpit any old time and preach a good old-fashioned sermon."

West Coast Natives In Danger, Is Claim
MEXICO CITY, March 1.—The yellow peril is with us, say the people of Sonora in the first protest sent to the Mexican government. According to authorities in Sonora, the West Coast of Mexico is rapidly becoming Mongolian of the worst type. Two factions of Chinese there are irreconcilable. A few months ago hundreds of Chinese were arrested in Sinaloa and Sonora, many being expelled from Mexico, which produced quiet. The Chinese war is on again.

Vicious resorts in Western Mexico are largely in the hands of the Chinese. It is charged that Chinese usurers, bootleggers and vice purveyors are getting a grip on young men from the best Mexican families. The Chinese are spreading the drug habit alarmingly, running a white slave business, largely with American women, and conducting opium dens, say officials. Chinese vice purveyors are in open warfare on the better class of Chinese.

Lately scores of Chinese, driven out of low dives in San Francisco, have come to Mexico to promote their business, which has for long been a disgrace to California.

Motive for Slaying Remington Is Found

LOS ANGELES, March 1.—A highly probable motive for the slaying of Earle Remington, prominent clubman and man-about-town, who was murdered two weeks ago, has been disclosed through a thorough examination of his personal papers and effects. It was reported today by the police.

What the motive was and who the new theory implicates was kept a secret by the detectives. Detectives today investigated reports that Miss Blanche Remington, the slain man's sister, believes she has been under close surveillance since her brother's death by four persons unknown to her. Miss Remington had appealed to the district attorney's office for protection. Miss Remington also held an important conference with District Attorney Thomas Lee Woolwine during which she offered all assistance possible and pleaded that more action be taken in the search for her brother's slayers.

One hundred and fifty gallons of moonshine whisky, believed to have been manufactured under Remington's direction, were found in the basement of the Remington home and trace of three stills in which the liquor was made was also discovered.

Objects to Jail and Goes to Penitentiary

FRESNO, March 1.—Notwithstanding that an appeal has been taken in his case, Henry Johnson, colored, convicted of second-degree murder and sentenced by Superior Judge J. E. Woolley on Monday to a term of from ten years to life in the penitentiary, will begin serving his sentence at once. R. K. Stewart, one of his attorneys announced yesterday.

The usual procedure is for a convicted man to remain in the county jail pending the outcome of an appeal.

Stewart said, however, that conditions in the county jail were so deplorable in his case that it would be "suicidal" to keep Johnson there a year or longer, the estimated period that will pass before the higher courts can act on the appeal.

Sheriff W. F. Jones recently reported to the county grand jury that conditions are so bad in the jail, due to poor sanitation and overcrowding, that the state housing laws were being flagrantly violated. The grand jury in its final report declared a new jail is a prime need of the county.

Great Britain Makes Estimate of Payment

LONDON, March 1.—Answering a question in the House of Commons, Stanley Baldwin, Chancellor of the Exchequer, said the total amount payable by Great Britain to America for interest on the sinking fund will amount at the end of sixty-two years to about $10,556,000,000, at par, and 4 per cent more at $4.68. If the debt is paid more speedily the aggregate of course will be reduced.

Former Elevator Boy Now Business Executive

C. E. KIMLIN, manager of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital, member of the City Council of Glendale, and well known for his interest in civic affairs. Mr. Kimlin began his career as an elevator boy at the Seventh-day Adventist institution at Battle Creek, working to pay his way through college.

The executive success of C. E. Kimlin, business manager of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital, and city councilman, is the result of an interesting career that began when Mr. Kimlin left his home in Illinois and went to Battle Creek, Mich., to attend the Battle Creek college, working his way by serving as elevator boy at the Seventh-day Adventist institution, internationally known as the Battle Creek Sanitarium.

Mr. Kimlin was born in Bloomington, Ill., where he received his early education in the public schools. He went to Battle Creek to become a student, and in working his way as elevator boy his ambition and faithful service were rewarded by his advancement until he became cashier and assistant treasurer of the sanitarium and served for seven years in these capacities.

It was in 1913 that Mr. Kimlin and his family came to Glendale and Mr. Kimlin entered the real estate business.

However, there was need for a business manager at the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital, main-

Glendale Nature Notes

By ESTELLE DARRAH DYKE, 4 05 East Stocker St., Glendale

While the frozen east has been locked in the ice grip of blizzards, we have had a fine season for mountain climbing. Everyone who has neglected to climb a mountain during February should attempt it during March. An elevation of over two or three hundred feet offers amazing results. The snowy range will lift its glorious head on one side and the sea will shine on the other. Where the soil affords support to the live oak, one may tread a carpet richer than the field of the cloth of gold could boast. Shooting stars, Indian pinks, and senecios lift their blossoms here and there, and the grass is starred with wild papies, furnishing the gold, and with the exquisite rose pink fringed gliss. A little higher blooms the dark red peony, with its golden stamens, "occasional in the foothills," says Abrams' botanical. After that "occasional" how the nature lover glows over the discovery of hundreds of plants in one group!

But one must not linger over the multitude of lesser blooms, for this is the especial season of the flowering shrubs, most of which are starred in florists' catalogues for use in hedges and lawns. Noticeable just now are two varieties of ceanothus—the white and blue mountain lilac. The blue has the more beautiful flower, but the holly-like leaf of the white lilac, with its silvery lining, makes it quite as attractive a shrub.

The two handsomest members of the genus Ribes enrich our canyons, the fuscia-flowered gooseberry, with its drooping bright red blossoms, and the wild currant, with its clusters of large pink blossoms. Another beautiful shrub with crowded clusters of small pink flowers is apt to furnish a botanical mystery to an Eastern inquirer. Every botanical key traces it to the sumacs, and whoever heard of a sumac with entire simple leaves and pink flowers. But it is also catalogued as the evergreen sumac, and as soon as it forms its seeds its relationship is very evident. It is often called the wild mahogany, on account of its hard red wood.

The Manzanita is worthy its pretty Spanish name of "little apple." One can not mistake its shining red bark, and its panicles of pinkish urn-shaped flowers.

But the most interesting yield of our canyons is the fragrant bay tree, scenting the air from afar, its spheres of yellow flowers as well as its delicious odor suggesting its Eastern relatives, the spice bush and the sassafras. All three trees are members of the Laurel family. It was the leaves of the bay tree which formed the "laurel crown" of the victorious Roman general. Because of its vigor and beauty, as well as its health-giving odor, the bay tree was supposed to be especially cherished by the gods, and Tiberius, cowardly as he was, said to have availed himself by covering himself with bay branches, when Jove hurled his thunderbolts.

This is the best time of the year to study the individual peculiarities of the birds, when the spring urge leads them vivaciously, but they are not yet burdened with the cares of love or of hungry nestlings. The mocking bird is full of jokes just now. How he enjoys swooping down upon some industrious brown towhee in your back yard, and how he laughs when the poor towhee flees without the coveted morsel! It is very easy to discover how he gets his name. Any day you may see him sitting near a house finch who is merrily warbling his pretty little song. The mocking bird listens critically. Then with the air of instructing the finch, the mocking bird, after a few explanatory notes, repeats the song exactly, his liquid tones, however, making as great a difference as would inhere in the renditions of a Galli-Curi and the soprano of the church choir in Gopher Prairie.

I wonder what influence the many Audubon societies of this vicinity have had in changing bird habits? The bird books present the thrasher as a shy bird. The loveliest singer of the canyons is sure to be seen, as well as heard, by the mountain climber. You will recognize him by his soft brown coat and his very long curved bill, as the California thrasher. He is evidently inspired by an appreciative audience, for when he sees you he turns about full face, and redoubles his efforts to please you. He usually sings until the lure of the summit urges you to move on, to be rewarded by the most glorious view, and perhaps, like ourselves, by an encounter with kindly neighbors who can give information about other delightful climbs, and the location of springs, the most valuable knowledge to any hiker.

In connection with bird habits, I have noticed that the red-shafted flicker seems to have lost his timidity here. Last week I watched one for an hour. He sat on a telephone pole while scores of autos whizzed below him, and though he chattered protests at the noise, like an irascible old man, he kept his perch, and now and then, in the intervals of scolding, he hammered away in true woodpecker style to regale himself on his insect friends. The last I saw of the flicker, when I was forced to leave him, he was heaping abuse on a passing auto, but he did not abandon his feast in the wooden cupboard.

WOOL SPORT FROCK
The straight wool sports frock is often of white serge or white Kasha cloth. "Dagmar" Kasha is a red that verges on terra cotta.

New Word Is Creeping Into Medical Science; Basis of Experiments

By LUTHER A. HUSTON
For International News Service
LONDON, March 1.—You may have "horse sense" or you may be "horse sensitive."

In the former contingency you may call yourself fortunate. If you are a victim of the latter condition you have an "allergen," and that is very unfortunate.

Allergen is a new word that is creeping into medical science and that has formed the basis for many interesting experiments. The word signifies some mysterious, unknown creature of circumstances which are the particular dread of an individual.

Do Cats Alarm You?
For instance, a person may have an innate, uncontrollable dread of cats. In that case a cat is that particular individual's allergen. Another person may quiver with horror at the thought of touching a horse. For that person a horse is an allergen.

The belief is becoming prevalent in some circles that afflictions such as hay fever, asthma and kindred ailments are brought about by some allergen that peculiarly affects certain persons. Many people suffer from nettle rash or difficult breathing after eating oysters or shell fish. For them fish is an allergen.

Experiments that have been conducted by London physicians have demonstrated that the symptoms attendant upon an allergen may be produced artificially. A single horsehair in a wound or scratch will bring on an attack of asthma in a person suffering from horse sensitiveness. The hair of a cat will produce similar symptoms in a person suffering from cat sensitiveness. But cat's hairs would have no effect upon the horse sensitive individual nor horses' hairs upon cat sensitive ones. In other words, these allergens are specific. One and only one matters to the sensitive individual.

Can Be Infused
Experimenters have been unable to determine how the sensitiveness begins in the first instance, but it has been found possible to "sensitize" animals to various allergens by various means. Once they are sensitized they remain so for years and a fresh contact will cause them to become ill.

Paris Surgeon Shows Radium Cancer Cure

PARIS, March 1.—Definite evidence of the cure of apparently incurable cancer was given by Prof. Degrais before the Academy of Surgery today. Details were given of a number of successful cases, including one patient whose life was at such a low ebb in the year 1910 that his life was despaired.

Prof. Degrais began with radium treatments, increasing the exposure over the first two years, and then diminishing. The result was that the patient has been restored to perfect health.

Two other doctors supported the statement of Prof. Degrais.

ELECTRIC ENGINES
Electric engines will soon be common on all railroads and get much more horsepower per ton of coal than the locomotive, says an expert.

SOME TRAFFIC
More people pass the corner of Lafayette and Canal streets, New York City, every week day evening, than pass any other point in the country in the same time.

He Sues for Divorce And Allowance, Too

LOS ANGELES, March 1.—A new wrinkle in local divorce courts was seen today when Frank M. Schnepf asked for an allowance of $250 monthly for his support from his wife, as well as $1000 to pay his attorney to defend the suit for divorce she has brought against him.

Schnepf denied his wife's charge of desertion and declared he went to San Diego under an agreement with her in the hope the trip would benefit his health. Schnepf said his wife was worth about $200,000 and had an income of $1,600 a month.

Tut's Removal Brings Howl from Undertakers

NEW YORK, March 1.—The Associated Undertakers of the Greater New York today rose to protest against the exhumation of Tutankhamun.

Meeting to consider the activities of Egyptologists, the undertakers decided that the dead should be honored even 3000 years after burial.

"The mummies in our museums have no business being there," declared Frank E. Campbell, head of the organization. "They should be restored to the tombs from which they were removed."

U. S. EXPERIMENTS

A SPARKLING MINT OF LAUGHS

MIDDLE CLASS IS HIT BY FINANCE

Germans With Fixed Incomes Suffer Most From Rise
in Living Cost

By KARL M. ELISH
For International News Service
BERLIN, March 1.—The chief sufferers from the tremendous increase in the cost of living that has occurred in the last four years have been the middle-class people with fixed incomes. As prices advance they have been slowly but surely driven to the wall.

An elderly maiden lady of Hanover, however, who inherited not only a modest competence but her father's business ability, has beaten the h. c. so far by utilizing her last remaining piece of jewelry—a diamond and pearl necklace.

Flinding herself at the end of her resources about a year and a half ago, she pawned the necklace for 30,000 marks. Three months later she borrowed 30, 000 marks from a banker, redeemed the pledge and promptly pawned it again for 110,000 marks, repaid the bank loan and still had enough to live on for another six months, whereupon she borrowed 110,000 marks, got her necklace out of pawn and thereupon pawned it for 1,500, 000 marks.

Have Profit Left
The explanation for this feat of financial wizardry is that the mark in the last year and a half has depreciated at a perfectly furlous rate, with a corresponding increase in "money values." The elderly maiden lady only took a leaf out of the book of the speculators in foreign exchange, who, confident that the mark will fall, secure bank loans, buying dollars with the proceeds. Three months later, when the loan falls due, they sell enough dollars to repay the loan and still have a handsome profit left. It may have cost them 5,000 marks to buy a dollar, but when the loan falls due they can buy perhaps 8,000 marks with that dollar. And that's why foreign exchange dealers here are as common as soda clerks in the states.

Murderer In Ireland
Escapes Punishment

DUBLIN, March 1. — Crime apparently sits lightly upon the conscience of many persons in Ireland. An exemplification of the demoralization of the people in certain districts is afforded by the story of a tragic murder.

A laborer in the Lettermore district of Connemara, drunk with "moonshine" went to the home of Barbara King, who had in her custody six young children, and killed only ten years old. The woman and the children were sitting by the kitchen fire when the man entered. He looked up the children in a room off the kitchen with terror, and the woman rose from her seat to pacify them.

The man seized a heavy glass bowl from a nearby table and hurled it at the woman, killing her instantly. Mrs. King's daughter entered the house a few minutes later. The man attacked her and threatened her with the same fate. She promised him liquor if he would not kill her, and he agreed. Later she induced him to go with her to a neighbor's house, where he was given drink and his dinner, the occupants all the time knowing of the brutal crime he had committed only a few hours before.

His meal finished, the man departed without interference.
Three days later the police and the coroner heard casually of the crime. On their arrival they found the woman had been buried. Relatives of the slain woman said they had not reported her death because they feared reprisals on the part of the slayer.

Arrangements were made for the exhumation of the body, and the Free State police now have in custody the man who is believed to have committed the murder.

BACK TO 1880

The 1880 silhouette, minus the bustle, is found in modern fashion versions for spring. Long and straight from the shoulder to the knee or just above it, this silhouette flares all the way round or only across the front and sides.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH NOW IN ITS NEW HOME

Investment of More Than $100,000; Structure Is Most Artistic

In the new Congregational church building at the northwest corner of Central and Wilson avenues, dedicated Sunday, February 25, Glendale has a lasting monument to California's historic art, and a church edifice that will bring wide recognition to the city of Glendale. In designing the building for the 104 by 135 feet of property, Architect Carleton Monroe Winslow, planned a structure which is built in the shape of a letter L, enclosing a walled, sunken garden on the southeast corner of the property. It faces east and the artistic and inspiring tower rises for ninety-five feet toward the heavens. The cost of the building and equipment is given as $95,000. Value of the property on which the building stands is quoted as $15,000. Rev. C. M. Calderwood is the pastor.

SLASH COSTS IN ARMY-NAVY SALE

$20,000 Merchandise Stock Placed On Sale at Bottom Prices

At 9 o'clock tomorrow morning the doors of the Army & Navy Store at Brand and Harvard will swing open, an event which will mark the beginning of one of the largest merchandise sales ever attempted in Glendale.

A stock comprising more than $20,000 worth of high grade merchandise, including all kinds of wearing apparel for men and boys, tents, coats, rifles, tarpulins, blankets, all kinds of hunting, fishing and camping accessories, and thousands of other items will be thrown on sale at prices that are asserted, in many instances, to be less than cost.

More than a week of preparation has been spent in getting ready for the opening of the big sale tomorrow. Extra salespeople have been secured to assist in efficiently serving patrons. During the early hours of the sale a number of unusually attractive bargains are scheduled.

Prices Are Slashed

The items listed for the first hour of the sale, between 9 and 10 o'clock, are necessities for everyone, and are offered at prices that are ridiculously below even cost.

M. M. Black, sales specialist, of Los Angeles, has been placed in charge of the stock and has been given orders by the members of the Army & Navy Store firm, to reduce the stock at any cost. A double page advertisement elsewhere in today's issue of the Glendale Evening News demonstrates how Mr. Black will carry out the firm's orders.

Plan Surprise for Exchange Club Meet

"Sassie Sue" will not be presented at tonight's monthly supper of the Exchange Club family in the dining room of the Citizens' building, although Dr. W. H.
Appleton of 111 East Broadway stated this morning that the entertainment would include a "dark horse" to annoy "Spark Plug."

The identity of the mysterious stranger, who is scheduled to give a reading, will be unknown until tonight.
Other features of the program will be vocal numbers by Miss Tila Rohr of Los Angeles, an opera singer, and piano numbers by Miss Alma Geiger of 627 North Central avenue, and Mrs. O. E. Christ of will play "Czerwony Prelude No.

2," "Voices of Spring" by Strauss

feld.

Friend of New York Poor Folk Is Dead

NEW YORK, March 1.—Although he at one time was prominent in civic affairs, and once refused the Democratic nomination for Mayor of New York City, Dr.
Ferdinand Seegar, 74 years of age, died in a small second-floor flat of a tenement in East Ninety-third street, his life and fortune a sacrifice to the poor he treated free for years.

Dr. Seegar was a picturesque figure, six feet, six inches tall, and with a goatee and mustache. For years he ministered to the poor.
When news of his death got about in the afternoon hundreds visited his home to offer sympathy to his widow and daughter.

After declining the mayoralty nomination, Dr. Seegar helped elect his friend, Robert Van Wyck.

He was born in New York, but educated at Heidelberg University.
He possessed thirty-two diplomas.

Looks at D'Annunzio Move As Big Joke

PARIS, March 1.—The news that Gabriele D'Annunzio has been appointed an honorary generalissimo of the Turkish army was received in Paris with the traditional salute of twenty-on-guns.

It is believed, however, that the incident will mark a closer entente between the Latin nations and the young Turk Democracy of the Levant, and doubtless new volumes on the languorous love of the sloop-eyed lotus dwellers of the Levant will fall from the general's pen in rivalry with Pierre Loti and Claude Farrere.
Paris journals naturally ask if Gabriele Pasha will take an active role in the campaign against the Greeks, or if it is merely a sly move on the part of Angela to increase the Italian consumption of Turkish coffee or popularize the Smyrna fig in the land of Mus-olini.

C. OF C. WORKING
TO FURTHER CITY

Organization Has About One Thousand Members and Aids Development

Among the agencies that have been instrumental in placing Glendale in the front rank of California cities and in spreading its fame throughout the entire country is the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, an organization that includes 1000 members, taken from among the most advanced and forward-looking men and women in the city, those who have the welfare of Glendale at heart and who are willing to devote their energies to making this an even greater and better city than it has ever been before.

The Chamber of Commerce may be described as the nerve center of the community, from which the impulses that lead to advancement radiate to the various parts of the civic body, which is thus stirred into action that results in civic growth and development. The Glendale Chamber of Commerce, ever since its reorganization several years ago, has been fulfilling this duty in a manner to merit the highest praise, the directors believe, and year by year its program is widened in scope to embrace a greater field of activity and its members are spurred on to attempt and to carry out projects that grow more and more ambitious with each passing year.

Support Projects
Every movement that merits the support of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce receives it in full and unstinted measure, and in many cases it has blazed the way to achievements that have set Glendale in the forefront of civic progress and that have won for the city an enviable reputation among its sister cities of the Southland. These projects, as they come up, are discussed and dissected at the weekly meetings of the board of directors, and as they are found worthy of support they are incorporated in the program that is adopted at the start of each year, and that constitutes the guide of the organization's activities.

The election of Jesse E. Smith as president for this year placed at the head of the organization a young man whose ambition for Glendale's success is a consuming one, and it is to his magnetic leadership that much of the enthusiasm that marked the launching of the 1923 program may be attributed.

Associated with Mr. Smith as executives are W. E. Hewett, first vice president; C. D. Lusby, second vice president; A. R. Eastman, treasurer; James M. Rhoades, secretary, and E. F. Sanders, assistant secretary.

Outline Plans
The other directors are George H. Bentley, P. J. Hayselden, Roy L. Kent, Peter L. Ferry, R. F. Kitterman, Dan Campbell, David L. Gregg, E. C. Pendroy, C. E. Kimlin and H. Wilson.

The history of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce is studied with the record of concrete accomplishment for the benefit of Glendale and of its citizens, and the plans that have been adopted for this year will, it is claimed, be productive of results that will add fresh credit to the organization that is bearing such a prominent part in Glendale's development.

Summon Conference
On Regrouping Roads

SAN FRANCISCO, March 1.—The railroad commission again in a statement has notified the press, interested carriers, chambers of commerce, traffic associations and all other associations or individuals interested in the subject, that the railroad commission will hold a conference on March 2 at 10 a. m. in the courtroom of the commission, ninth floor of the Flood building, San Francisco, on the proposed plans of the interstate commerce commission for the regrouping of the railroads of the United States into a limited number of systems.

The conference to be conducted by the railroad commission on March 2 is in preparation for the hearings which the interstate commerce commission will hold in California some time in May for the discussion of the re-grouping of California railroads.

The railroad commission will afford an opportunity at this conference to all parties interested to express their views.

W. B. Kirk Recalls Some Of City's 'Early Days' And Boosting Work By C. of C.

ONE of the "pioneers" of Glendale is W. B. Kirk, who has always taken a deep interest in the upbuilding of Glendale. As secretary of the Chamber of Commerce years ago, Mr. Kirk did a good work in furthering Glendale, and the following letter to A. T. Cowan, publisher of The Glendale Evening News, will recall "old times" to many citizens, and, too, provide newcomers with highlights on Glendale:

"Dear Mr. Cowan: Your suggestion that I write a few lines on the Tenth Anniversary of The News under your management, is surely cause for comment as to the swift passing of time, because it hardly seems possible that it could be that long.

"One of the striking things to me as I recall your starting of a 'daily' in Glendale, was the very large amount of faith you exhibited in doing such a thing at that time. It seemed to me that the time was not ripe for such an enterprise, and when you added $15,000 or $20,000 worth of machinery at once, I surely thought you were 'bughouse' as far as making any money out of it was concerned.

"The Glendale of today, however, shows that you were fully justified in your vision of the future, and I believe you have since always tried to keep in advance of the times, in your management of the paper.

"Many of the large number of newcomers to Glendale do not know that the foundation of the present prosperity of the city was laid firm and deep by the self-sacrifice and hard work of such men as Mr. Sherer, Mr. Watson, Mr. Woodberry and others of the 'old-timers,' and we must not forget this in the flush of our prosperity and success.

"The year 1913 was one in which citizens of the different sections of Glendale got together as they hadn't been doing previously. Our Chamber of Commerce flourished and accomplished many things, if we do say it ourselves. Under the presidency of A. B. Heacock, and with the writer as secretary, we had a spirit of harmony among the various sections which was an omen of the good things to come. A contest for new members under the leadership of Captains T. W. Watson and M. P. Harrison brought our membership roll to nearly 500! That was very large considering the size of the town. A large get-together banquet at Filger Hall, a picnic at Verdugo Park, distribution of advertising literature, a write-up of the city in 'The Arrowhead' Magazine of 40,000 copies, were among the things accomplished.

"Not the least of these, however, was the send-off we gave to The Glendale Evening News by means of a parade. Headed by the band on a truck, and the officers of the Chamber of Commerce with banners and streamers, we certainly advertised Glendale and the News through the city, Tropico, Eagle Rock and Casa Verdugo. These were scattered towns then, but soon will be united in a Greater Glendale.

"W. B. KIRK."

HISTORY OF CITY
REVEALS GROWTH

Progress Since Foundation
By Pioneer in 1887 Is Recounted

The city of Glendale was founded in 1887 by B. F. Patterson, E. T. Byram, L. C. Miller, C. E. Thom and H. J. Crow. That year marked the height of the boom days. The acreage subdivided comprised the territory from Central avenue to Adams street and from Lexington drive to Elk street. Streets were laid out and all advertising called attention to the contemplated Los Angeles interurban car line and the proposed building of a tourist hotel on the site of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital.

Glendale incorporated as a city of the sixth class just prior to February 16, 1906, by a vote of 75 to 41. A pre-election canvass revealed 1300 inhabitants in the Glendale school district. This extended at that time from Doran street south to the Tropico school district and from Central avenue east to the present city limits.

On February 21, 1906, the duly elected board of trustees, Asa Fanset, J. C. Jennings, George U. Morse, Wilmot Parcher and T. W. Watson, and City Treasurer J. C. Sherer, met at the residence of City Clerk G. B. Woodberry, and appointed Frederick Baker, city attorney, and Edgar Leavitt, recorder.

Charter Is Drafted
A year later, municipal headquarters were established in a building on the northwest corner of Glendale avenue and Broadway, which was purchased from the school board and moved to this site. Previously it had been known as the Broadway School.

For the purpose of drafting a charter a board of freeholders was elected on November 16, 1920, and the charter was duly adopted March 29, 1921. This gave the citizens of Glendale the right to control their own municipality.

The City Council was elected in June, 1921. The terms of Councilman A. H. Lapham and Councilman Dwight W. Stephenson expire this year but the terms of Mayor Spencer Robinson, Councilman C. A. Kimlin and Councilman S. E. Davis run until April, 1925.

One of the first actions of the newly elected council was to appoint Capt. William H. Reeves, a civil engineer, who has had considerable experience in municipal affairs in Pasadena and elsewhere, as city manager.

City's Officials
Other active city officials, who are now in office, are City Treasurer J. C. Sherer, and City Clerk A. J. Van Wie. Other appointive officials in office now are Hartley Shaw, city attorney; Ben F. Dapuy, city engineer; H. C. Sausdewer, city controller; H. C. Vandewer, superintendent of buildings; Col. J. D. Fraser, chief of police; A. H. Lankford, fire chief; Dr. G. Kaemerling, health officer; F. H. Lowe, police judge.

The public library was placed under the control of five trustees who now are: Oliver Spencer, Mrs. Flora M. Temple, Mrs. Genevieve D. Goss, Mrs. Abbey P. Barker, and T. W. Spencer.

The city school system was placed under the management of a board of education which is now composed of J. D. Hibben, Mrs. A. Bartlett, E. H. Learned, Mrs. Arthur Brown, and Dr. P. O. Lucas. Richardson D. White has been superintendent of schools for a number of years. Last year David Black, former member of the board of education, was appointed business agent for the district.

Districts Annexed
Annexations have been made to the original city as follows: West Glendale district, October 14, 1911, 399 acres.

Verdugo canyon district, March 30, 1912, 3735 acres.

Remington street district, October 16, 1915, 45.5 acres.

Arden avenue district, April 5, 1918, 14 acres.

Pacific avenue district, June 30, 1921, 748 acres.

Sierra avenue district, July 14, 1921, 18.5 acres.

Sierra avenue district, August 11, 1921, 1321.6 acres.

Laurel avenue district, November 29, 1921, 401 acres.

Additional capacity of 5000 telephones. Additional trunks will be installed during the remaining ten months of 1923.

A project involving the expenditure of $35,000 in two years for two additional sections of switchboard is scheduled to be initiated this year by the telephone company. It is planned, also, to make extensive cable additions both underground and aerial. This particular phase of the expansion program calls for an expenditure of $20,000 this year.

AIR CITY OF THE SOUTH! Brave souls laid your foundation,
Where only sage and cactus grew, and sand was everywhere.
But they in search of homes looked well about them,
Saw sturdy oaks forever green and knew 'twas fertile soil.

They saw the crystal stream that trickled from the mountain,
And knew they'd never need to thirst. They looked upon the hills
And fed their souls with grandeur that nature spread about them.
And just beyond they heard the ocean pound the western shores.

They knew the city on the south, Los Angeles, was bound to be Metropolis of all the west. They saw their choice was good
And in the desert wilderness they carved their homes out.
And then more came, starved souls from eastern prairie lands.

These never knew the literal meaning of the scriptural text,
To "look unto the hills." They filled their hearts with beauty,
Marvelled as nature played with lights and shadows on the heights,
Or clothed the mountain sides to suit the changing seasons' whims.

At dawn they saw the hills, rose-colored in the east. At noontime,
The sunlight on the heights, purple shadows round the bases,
And when the sun was sinking behind the western mountains,
It clothed the world in splendor ere it sank from out of sight.

In spring they saw the wild flowers clothing all the hills and meadows,
In the summer, rich brown velvets, nature draped about her form.
And the scene took on new splendor through the hazy light of autumn,
And the winter rains re-clad the hills in verdure once again.

More people came and more to this fair city. They named you Glendale, loveliest village in the western wilderness.
Some doubting souls declared you'd never prosper,
That larger towns would steal your name and all your fame away.

But it was meet that in so fair a setting, a city such as ours
Should spring to life and be the place for many happy homes.
And the people heard the summons throughout all our well-loved nation,
And they came in scores and hundreds from beyond the Great Divide.

And they built a wonder city where was once a Spanish rancho,
Schools and churches, homes and factories, the busy marts of trade.
And they worked as one to make the name of Glendale
Reverberate around the world—A place of happy homes.

So let's be glad that in this western haven,
Secure from storm and cold and safe from lightning's flashes,
Where nature smiles and all is good and beauty's all about us,
We've built a wonder city and we're building—building still.

POSTOFFICE AIDS
GROWTH OF CITY

Great Increase Is Shown Since Establishment of Department Here

The amount of business transacted by the Glendale postoffice is regarded as a barometer of the commercial progress of the city and its people, and the figures compiled by the officials of the local office show a rapid growth during the last year and the first two months of the present year.

The Glendale office was divorced from the Los Angeles postoffice on December 28, 1921, and the records for that year showed that the postal receipts, apart from money order sales, amounted to $106,923.26. The 1922 total showed an advance of close to 50 per cent, with postal receipts of $151,339.69. The figures for January and February of this year give the assurance that the total for 1923 will run well over $200,000, according to Assistant Postmaster George Hallett.

Remarkable Increase
The sale of money orders through the Glendale office also took a remarkable jump last year, increasing from 17,615, the 1921 total, to 27,400 in 1922. These figures represent the number of money orders sold, irrespective of the amounts represented by the orders.

The parcel post system has also kept pace with the other departments of the Glendale office. 1922 showed a total of 68,909 packages delivered, and the deliveries in 1923 reached a total of 82,606, an increase of over 13,000 packages during the year.

Efficient Force
It is worthy of note that the business of the local postoffice, in spite of the phenomenal growth of the city and the consequent increase in the work of the office, has been handled by the same staff, as regards numerical strength, as was employed here when the Glendale office was recognized as a separate office.

The work of the office has been systematized by Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson until every department functions smoothly, and the postmaster generously attributes the success of the Glendale postoffice to the efficiency of the force that works so harmoniously to maintain a service that will be a credit to Glendale and that will keep pace with its rapid growth.

VISALIA, Cal., March 1.—The familiar mounted ranger of the Sequoia and General Grant National Parks will greet the tourist and camper this summer in a new attire, for the park service has ordered the police guardians equipped with motorcycles, which are on their way from the army surplus station at Camp Lewis. Horses will, however, still be used in the far reaches of the park where only trails are visible.

OLD PAPER SHOWS
GLENDALE IN 1906

'$4000 Mission Style Depot' Gets Big Spread In Old Pictures

Vivid pictures of the Glendale of 1906 are contained in the twenty-page "Anniversary Number" of The Glendale News, published in that year.

There is a half-page illustration showing "That Part of the Valley Wherein is Located Glendale, Tropico; also showing Scenes Along the L. A. Inter-Urban Railway." Scarcely a house is visible throughout the valley, in that picture of 1906; whereas today the entire stretch of twenty miles is dotted thick.

Another illustration is captioned "'$4000 Mission Style Depot' of the Inter-Urban Railway company, at Fourth street, Glendale" the view being the recently demolished structure at the corner of Brand boulevard and what is now called Broadway. The thought comes how much of a depot could be built today for $4000?

Other Pictures
Other illustrations show the residences of Ezra F. Parker, "No. 95, Lomita Park"; L. C. Ackley, "Seventh Street"; the old adobe, "La Ramada," at that time a Spanish restaurant; the residences of Wilmot Parcher; "Ard Evlin," foothill home of Dan Campbell; homes of Lester Jones, E. D. Goode, C. A. Weidenteller, L. C. Brand, F. W. McIntyre, N. C. Burch, C. G. Wilkinson and others.

Pictures are shown of the Episcopal, Calvary Baptist, Presbyterian, and First Presbyterian churches. The Glendale public school system is given a page, with illustrations and reading matter that point to the following facts—enrollment in the grammar school, 226 pupils, with six teachers; enrollment in the high school, 75 pupils, with five teachers.

A resume of high school athletics is given, including the following boys' basketball line-up: Captain, Ray Goode, center; Cover Melrose and Ray Bond, forwards;

LOCAL CHICKENS
LAY GIANT EGGS

Ambitious Biddies, Stirred by Rivalry, Produce Huge
Hen Fruit

Now that the warm days of spring are at hand, the pampered pets of the henry are beginning to show their gratitude for the free board and lodging they have enjoyed all winter.

Inspired by the Homeric proportions of everything in Glendale from mountains to molehills they go forth with a high resolve to do likewise. And when once they succeed, such a clucking and chattering as comes from the chicken-coops!

Not long ago Mrs. Jersey Black Giant, haughty champion of H. W. Stone, 446 West Broadway, was observed to take a long draught of nothing stronger than tepid water but which seemed to have a compelling inner urge to it, for she lifted her eyes fervently aloft and for some moments her lips moved in mute invocation—whereafter she retreated solemnly to her dais and gave issue to a monstrous, creamy white and perfectly formed egg measuring 6x7 1/2 inches around.

Her subsequent announcement of this achievement was heard from South Glendale to La Canada!

Leghorn Speaks Up
And just last week Mrs. England White Leghorn, pompous and pedigreed aristocrat of Mrs. M. L. Lindsay, 1421 East Wilson avenue, after partaking of melted snow water that had seeped through the roots of sunflowers, stalked like some fonsie Napoleon to her over-stuffed couch and deposited thereon a titanic spheroid of Grecian beauty and symmetry, size 6x8 1/2 inches around. When this had been accomplished she gave out the news so forcibly that it was recorded as an earth shock by seismographs in Japan, Ecuador and Ireland.

Three days later, when the disturbance had quieted down somewhat, Mrs. England White Leghorn repeated the performance, presenting the world with another of these colossal eggs, identical in size and appearance.

Feeling that if the weather continues other Glendale hens may be inspired to emulate the ostriches, the Glendale Evening News calls upon all fanciers who larger cackle berries than these to bring them in for the acid test of the eye.

REALTY BOARD IS BUILDER OF CITY

Organization Proves of Big
Aid in Community; Systematizes Methods

An organization that is rated as one of the most active influences in the development of Glendale is the Glendale Realty Board, composed of seventy of the leading real estate dealers in the city, who organized the board in October, 1920, with an initial membership of twenty firms. The association now includes, besides the active members, the salesmen of the various firms on the roll, who rank as associate members.

The Glendale Realty Board was formed for the purpose of protecting its members in their transactions with the land buying public, and also to insure the buyer fair treatment in all his dealings with any of the firms included in the board. The strict code of ethics that governs the board in all its dealings has worked steadily to elevate the business of dealing in real estate to the dignity of a profession that is entitled to the respect of every member of the community, and the consequent elevation of the standards of the business has done much to instill confidence in the minds of prospective buyers who wish to settle here.

Systematize Methods
Another object for which the Glendale Realty Board was formed was to systematize the methods of doing business, the adoption of standard forms covering all manner of real estate transactions, and the furthering of a consistent legislative program that will establish safeguards not only for the real estate buyer but also for the real estate dealer and that will guarantee the integrity of every transaction in which a member of the board has a part.

The Glendale Realty Board is a member of the California Real Estate Association, and through this organization it is in turn, affiliated with the National Real Estate Association, and its members are entitled to describe themselves by the term Realtor, a term which is restricted to members of the national and state associations of real estate dealers.

Board's Officers
Charles B. Guthrie was one of the men who were largely responsible for the organization of the board, and he was elected as its first president. He was succeeded by Cameron DeForest Thom, who is now filling his second term as president, and who has associated with him, as executive officers: A. M. Yale, vice president; E. P. Hayward, secretary; R. D. King, treasurer; James Pearson, Harry Miller, W. A. Horn, C. B. Guthrie and Arthur Campbell as members of the governing committee, from which the executive officers are chosen.

Ever since its formation the Glendale Realty Board has been an active force in the development of Glendale, not only through the sale of property to home builders, but also through its participation in every civic activity and its close and generous co-operation with every other civic body that is working for the welfare of the "fastest growing city in the United States," a description which the Glendale Realty Board has been largely instrumental in winning for the city.

Postal Examination
Date Set March 10

The date for the examination for clerks, carriers for the Glendale postoffice has been set for March 10, according to Assistant Postmaster George Hallett, and can be notified of the place where it is to be held when their applications are accepted. The salary starts at $1400 per annum.

The examination is open to both men and women.

RECENT RE-SALES
SHOW ADVANCES

Wing Orange Grove Tract of Proven Value; Good Demand for Lots

One of the recent sharp advances in Glendale realty values is registered in the re-sale within three weeks, at a net profit of $1110, of lot 45 in the Wing Orange Grove tract.

The property, which is located at the northwest corner of Colorado and Wing, will be developed immediately with an up-to-date brick business structure.

Marvin Smith, manager of the Wing tract, who gives out this information, states that the purchaser's name will be furnished upon request.

"This is only the first of the possible profits that will be reaped here," declares Mr. Smith. "With forty-two lots out of a total of 118 already sold, and things moving fast, it is only natural that the demand for this choice property has already begun to exceed the supply."

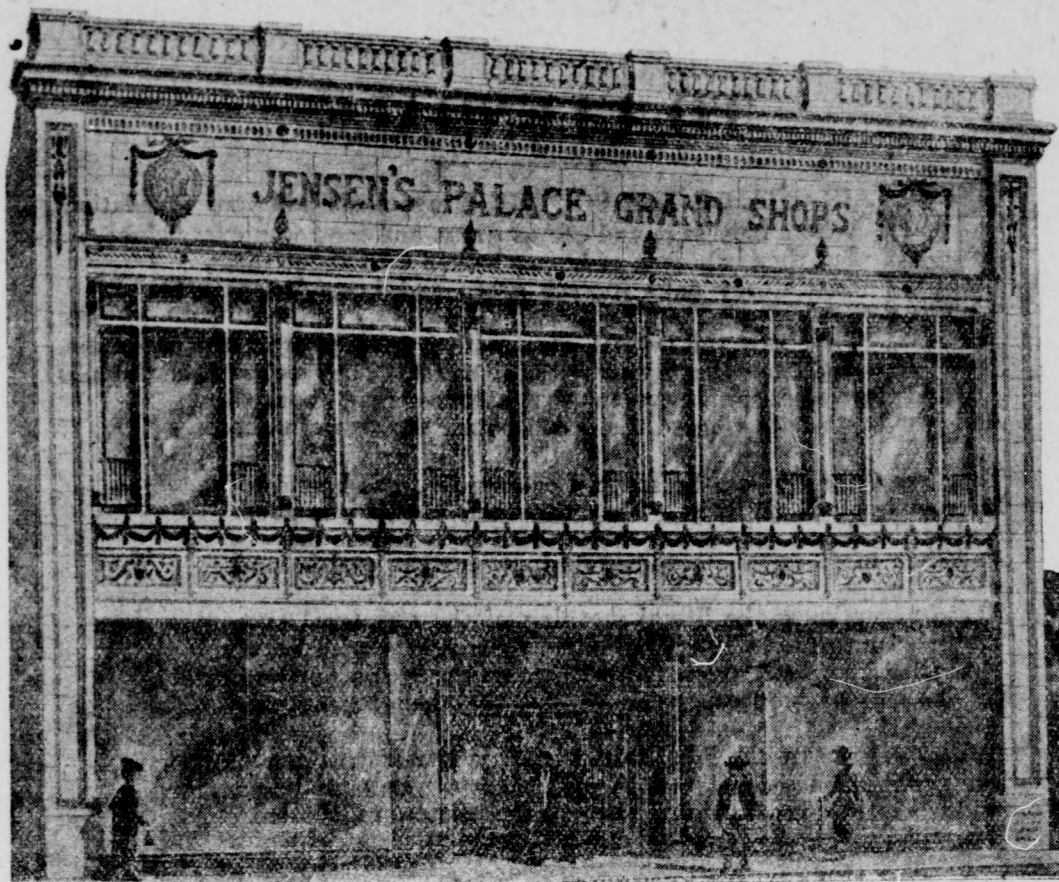

Values Should Rise
"Particularly in view of the fact that Wing street, our own connection between Colorado and Maple, is nearly through, values should logically be on the rise."

The Wing Orange Grove tract is bounded on the north by Colorado street, on the south by Windsor road, on the east by Porter street, and on the west by Sycamore Canyon road.

The prices on the lots, Mr. Smith states, range from $1400 to $2200, with terms of one-fourth down and the balance in three years.

JENSEN'S PALACE GRAND SHOPS ARE ARTISTIC
One of Most Pleasing Buildings In Glendale; Artistic Features

Jensen's Palace Grand Shops, at 133 North Brand boulevard, presents one of the most pleasing appearances of any building in Glendale, its elaborate French Renaissance facade causing it to stand out as a beauty mark. But the beauty is not alone external. Every foot of the interior space is most artistic, from the basement bowling alley of fantastic Egyptian design, to the many attractive specialty shops on the first and second floors. E. B. Meinardus, of Los Angeles, was the architect. The building is owned by Henry C. Jensen, of Glendale. Among the firms located in Jensen's Palace Grand Shops at the present time are Sherrod's Specialty store and the Lewis Jewelry store. The other rooms are being leased.

CORPS IS STRONG

Organization Formed, 1893.
With 15 Members Now
Numbers 272

The Women's Relief corps was organized January 13, 1893, with a charter membership of fifteen, five of whom are living. Mrs. Cora Hickman Stearns, Mrs. Adelaide Imler, Mrs. Marilla Pratt of Burbank, Mrs. Isabel Moore of South Pasadena and Mrs. Clara Gulvin Thompson of Long Beach. The membership at present is 272. The meetings are held in the G. A. R. hall on Glendale avenue, the second and fourth Fridays of each month. Through the generosity of Chas. E. Winne and wife, the title of the property where the G. A. R. hall stands, at their death, was vested in the W. R. C. with Mrs. Cora Hickman Stearns as life trustee. These loyal women have ever held the property in trust for the veterans. An all-day meeting is held the fourth Friday of each month and luncheon is served the old comrades. The hall proving inadequate, improvements to the extent of $1200 were made last year. The auditorium was refurnished and the dining-room enlarged and necessary kitchen equipment provided. The W. R. C. is a growing institution as all loyal women are eligible.

The present officers are: Mrs. Laura Pixley, president; Mrs. Ellen Early, senior vice-president; Miss Leanova Skelton, junior vice-president; Mrs. Julia Hayes, secretary; Mrs. Emma Korts, treasurer; Mrs. Ella Welch, chaplain; Mrs. Addie Clark, guard; Mrs. Adelaide Chappius, conductress.

SUNSET GROVE IS SELLING RAPIDLY

Hamlin & Hepburn Tell of Rapid Development: Lots
Are Priced Low

Hamlin & Hepburn's new subdivision, "Sunset Grove," which is located between Kenneth road and Tenth street, in the northwest section of the city, is selling rapidly. The entire tract is covered with deciduous fruit trees giving not only the fruit but plenty of shade, which makes the lots far more desirable than lots without any trees. The tract commands a panoramic view of the whole valley, being located only about one-half mile from the Brand estate in a section which is developing with great rapidity.
Hamlin & Hepburn invite comparison of prices between the lots in Sunset Grove and other lots in this locality. They state that there is no place in the northwest section where restricted lots of full size can be purchased at as low prices and on as easy terms.

Low Price Schedule
In regard to the prices, Mr.
Hamlin says the more they look around the more they are convinced that Sunset Grove lots are from $400 to $500 under their present value. "We probably made a mistake to make up a price schedule so low but it has been our custom all through our sub-divisions in the northwest section to establish a price schedule and maintain that schedule until the unit is sold out and we expect to do that in this case. It certainly affords an opportunity to homeseekers to purchase lots in this beautiful section at several hundred dollars under the prices of adjoining lots."

In almost every city there is a time when certain of the older residential districts undergo changes. In the progress of the development of Los Angeles there was a time when some of its best residences were located on Figueroa street and on West Adams street. Later on the development was out Wilshire boulevard and very many sold their places in these older districts and moved out and now many of them are going still further to the foothills on both sides of the Santa Monica mountains.

Most Delightful Spot
In all of California there is no more delightful spot than the foothills of the northwest section of Glendale adjoining the Verdu-gos and many, many business men who have formerly lived in the older sections of Glendale are selling their places and moving to this new and delightful part of the city and many more are planning to do this just as soon as they can make the necessary arrangements.

In a very few years the whole northwest section will be built up and the prices of lots will then be far higher than at the present time.

When an opportunity is offered to purchase one of these lots at the low present prices on terms so easy that almost anybody can handle them and hold them for a future homestead it certainly is an advantageous thing to do.

EXTEND PLAN AT LEAGUE MEETING

Importance of Sanitation Will Be Stressed By Plumbers' Association

Members of the Sanitary Development League from more than forty cities in Southern California will attend a meeting of the organization to be held in Los Angeles next Thursday. At this meeting plans for extending the campaign of the plumbing industry to educate the public to the advantages and economy of using better materials and modern methods of sanitation will be discussed.

Charles H. Treat, president of the Los Angeles Board of Public Works and mentioned as a possible candidate for Congress to fill the vacancy created by the death of E. Z. Osborne, will speak on the importance of plumbing in its relation to health and the up-building of communities.

Vaudeville Program
In addition to the business meeting there will be an elaborate program of entertainment under the supervision of Fletcher, vice-chairman of the executive committee. Several vaudeville headliners will appear.

Members of the league have just received the newly adopted emblem which is to identify them as belonging to the organization. The emblem will be used in all advertising, on letter heads and is to be displayed in windows. It is a guarantee of skilled workmanship and an assurance that the public will get the best in plumbing materials by patronizing those enrolled in the league.

NEW CATHOLIC CHURCH HERE

Rev. Father James S. O'Neill Is Pastor

The Holy Family church is the pride of all Catholics in Glendale. Closely resembling the Franciscan missions that stand as beacon lights in California history, it is a reminder of the past and a promise of the future. The church, standing at the corner of Louise and Elk streets, is built of concrete with mission tile roof. The facade is of sandstone, beautifully carved, and the narrow Spanish windows of opalescent art glass. Albert C. Martin designed the church and also the parish house, the cost of the two being about $90,000. Directly opposite the church on Louise street the parish school is now in the process of construction. The school was designed by the Glendale Construction company; it will cost about $40,000 and will accommodate 500 children. Rev. James S. O'Neill, pastor of the Holy Family parish, is justly proud of the progress that has made these new buildings possible.

FEBRUARY SALES BY LIST SYSTEM

Local Realty Board Gives Out Recent Transactions
Totaling $166,825

The number of real estate sales made during the month of February, under the multiple listing system, was twenty-seven, with a total value of $166,825, according to figures compiled by Miss Winnifred Traver, office secretary of the Glendale Realty Board, who has charge of the records of the sales made by this method. Members of the Glendale Realty Board who are using the multiple listing system report that the public is fast beginning to realize the merits of the system, which is based upon principles that are recognized by property owners and prospective buyers, as well as by the brokers. Instances are frequent where owners of property insist that their listings be placed on the multiple system, it is stated.

The rapidity with which this system is gaining favor is shown by the comparative figures for the three months of December, January and February, the first three months of the operation of the system in Glendale. During December multiple listings were sold to the value of $45,000, which increased to $143,500 in January, with a further advance to $166,825 in February.

List of Properties
The following properties were sold under the multiple listing system during February:
Eight-room house located at 454 Stocker street, listed by Hayward & McCartney, sold by the Glendale Realty Co., owner, S. G. Ross.

Largest Business of Kind

Live Booster

W. E. Hewitt of 319 East Randolph street has three good reasons for his being a loyal Glendale booster, first, because he is a Glendale resident; second, because he is manager of the Glendale Laundry located at Arden and Columbus avenues; and third, because he is first vice-president of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Hewitt's fine business ability may best be measured by the efficient management of the Glendale laundry, which is the largest business of its kind in Glendale. Ideally located in the northern part of the city, the Glendale laundry presents a most interesting study from the artistically arranged and modernly equipped administrative offices to the check room, where the packages of finished work are secured by the drivers.

Blind Youth Winner of Academic Honors

CHICAGO, March 1. — Blind from birth and deprived of most of the opportunities afforded his more fortunate classmates, George Weinman, 23, Chicago young man, has been advised of his winning of the Rufus H. Sage scholarship and the Charles A. Koepke prize in the Northwestern University Law School. He now is preparing for the Illinois bar examinations.

Weinman, since he was a mere lad, had been tutored by his mother and at the age of 9 entered the third grade in the public schools. During his entire course in school his mother's eyes have been the means by which he kept in touch with the events of the world. All credit for the success he has had he gives to his mother.

When he was a student in high school, Weinman led the winning debating team of his school. It was then the decision was made for him to enter law school.

"Now that he has won the scholarship and the prize I realize I have succeeded," his mother said. "I have taught him he could compete with sighted folk. How, most remarkable of all, he would reason out the way things looked to people who could see!"

"I mothered George as I believed all boys should be mothered. When he was naughty I whipped him. I never let him think because he was blind he was subnormal."

ELECTRIC CO. TO INCREASE POWER

Glendale District to Share in 26 Million Dollar Budget Expenditures

"Nearly a million dollars is the proportion of the Southern California Edison Company's budget for 1923, which will be allocated to the use of its San Fernando Valley district, which consists of the important towns of Lancaster, Newhall, Owensmouth, San Fernando, Van Nuys, Glendale, Burbank and the intervening territory," said District Manager H. B. Fletcher today. "Of this, $640,000 will be spent in the High Sierras and upon the transmission lines that bring power to Lancaster, and about $197,000 will be spent in the district itself. Of the company's total budget of $26,000,000 for 1923, about $16,000,000 will be spent in the mountains for new power development and for transmission lines to bring the power to points of use.

Power for Glendale

A total of 125,000 new horsepower will be added to the system during the year and Glendale's portion of this amount, when connected up and made to do service for various purposes during the year, will be adequate to take care of 850 new houses, seven new factories and to provide for an increased population of 4,000, beside providing for more intensive cultivation of 5000 acres of land that could be made more productive by electric irrigation. I do not believe, however, that this new provision for power, large as it is, will be more than adequate to take care of Glendale's growth during the next two or three years. These figures, which are based on well proven tables, illustrate how rapidly the community is growing and the responsibility which rests upon the utility which serves the public to provide new capital and build so as to take care of its electrical needs.

"A new substation will be built at McNeal at a cost of $160,000," continued Mr. Fletcher, "and the San Fernando office will be modernized. New business additions are estimated to call for extensions of lines which will total up to $50,000, and the sum of $62,700 will be spent for renewals."

Biggest Appropriation

Speaking of the company's general budget of $26,000,000 for the year 1923, which has just been approved by the board of directors, District Manager Fletcher said: "The appropriation for the year 1922 of $22,500,000 was by far the largest that had ever been made up to that time by any western utility. The receipt of a large amount of cash from the city of Los Angeles in payment for the purchase of its Los Angeles distributing system, made possible a little speeding of even this enormous program. Actual expenditures for new construction for 1922 were $24,000,000, an average of $2,000,000 for each month of the year. The present budget exceeds that colossal total by another $2,000,000. Of this sum, about $12,000,000 will be spent in hydro-electric development in the mountains; about $4,000,000 for transmission lines and system to bring the power to the principal points of use, and about $19,000,000 for local improvements in the various districts, such as new distribution lines, substations, offices, stores, garages and improvements of this nature."

TIP OF CHURCH WILL BE CITY'S HIGHEST POINT

About $300,000 Is Being Invested By Glendale's Presbyterians

The highest artificial point in the city of Glendale will be the tip of the spires on the new Presbyterian church. Approximately $300,000 is being invested in this house of God which is now under construction on the northwest corner of Louise and Harvard streets to accommodate the followers of John Calvin. A Gothic tower which will rise to a height of 132 feet will be a conspicuous feature of the new edifice. The exterior will be of brick and art stone. The building excavation covers a space of 140 by 145 feet. The east side of the building consists of an auditorium, which will accommodate 1400, while the west side will house the Sunday school department. The basement will contain a large banquet room. Robert H. Orr of Los Angeles is the architect of the building and is represented in its construction by Robert Bird. Plans call for magnificent interior furnishings, art glass windows, chimes and an enlarged pipe organ. The electric emblem will be brought from the present building and the new church will continue to be known as "The Church of the Lighted Cross."

Says Nightly Habits Decide Characters

CHICAGO, March 1.—The test of a man's character is made from what he does from nightfall until bedtime, rather than what he does during the day, according to Dr. William A. McKeever, author, lecturer and specialist in juvenile problems, a recent visitor in Chicago.

Dr. McKeever would substitute for Dr. Emile Cune's famous "day by day" theory a new slogan, "night by night."

"Mark a person's behavior in the evening and you can write the rest of his biographical sketch," Dr. McKeever said. "What we need especially is a challenging slogan that will have the same effect on people's morals that Dr. Cune's 'day by day' suggestion has on your physical ills."

Amusements should be grouped on Friday and Saturday, forgetting everything else but the home habit, the lecturer said. Then finally, and most important, go to your own church on Sunday.

"A young person especially should group his studies and his amusements," he continued. "Every boy or girl attending high school ought to stay home from Monday to Thursday. On Friday and Saturday he or she ought to indulge in clean, wholesome, social amusements and activities. And on Sunday, church."

of its Interurban Line, the Glendale & Montrose Railway

It is in the Green Verdugo Hills, sheltering the city of Glendale to the north that the romantic history of this wondrous valley is perpetuated. This great natural monument of beauty has furnished the inspiring background for the progress of the years past and the foundation for predictions of great things in the years to come.

It was the Indian foot that left the first print on the trails leading across the mesas to the hills and then came the padres and the dons; and finally the vanguard of today, the pioneers traveling in ox-drawn wagons.

Today the Green Verdugo Hills are as green as in those years gone by, the distances of valley as alluring and the surrounding country still some of the choicest in the Golden State.

It is Springtime. The flowers are blooming. The birds are singing. Nature is at her best.

Whether it be in the early morning hours when the haze of dawn still veils the hills; at noon day when all living things are enjoying the heat of the shining sun; or as the lengthening shadows bring the close of the day; the beauty still remains and one cannot journey along the hills to the north without being inspired with thankfulness for the blessings of nature and life.

For many years we have catered to the transportation needs of the people of Glendale and other foothill communities and it is our invitation that you join this happy throng of commuters who patronize our lines to Eagle Rock, Sparr Heights, Montrose or La Crescenta.

Take our cars any time this week-end and journey out to the historic hillsides. See what the subdividers have to offer in the Green Verdugo Hills—and decide to make your permanent home out where nature dwells.

HOSPITALS AND RED TAPE

What is a hospital? Is it a place run to take care of sick people and help them to get well?

Or is it run just for the purpose of keeping its own rules and regulations and turning out nurses trained in those rules?

There was a time when I should have thought that second question ridiculous. That was before I, or my relatives in hospitals, I thought them the ideal place to be sick in because I thought their main purpose was to get people well, and that of course they would have a better plan for that purpose than any private home.

But that was some years ago. My first hospital experience gave me thorough grounding in the relative importance of rules and the patient's needs.

Nation's Best Drug

As every doctor and most laymen know there is nothing that will do a patient more good than sleep. Yet in many hospitals, it is a patient has lain awake most of the night and toward morning has fallen asleep, nevertheless, he is waked out of that blessed, refreshing, healing sleep to have his face washed. He needs that sleep, it will probably do more toward his recovery than any medicine the doctor can give, but because he must have his face washed before the night nurse goes off duty, nature's most beneficent drug is snatched away from him. And it doesn't do him the slightest good to protest. I know.

Here's another sample of hospital indifference to such minor details as a patient's health. I had had a minor operation in a hospital. I asked the doctor if I might go out in a day to a friend's home. He said, "Yes, but only thing you must be very careful about is infection. Don't go where anyone has a cold." Yet the first night the nurse who came to me had a violent cold. And the hospital was filled with cases like mine in which the important thing was that there should be no infection.

They Woke Her Up

Here's another almost inconceivable example of the absurd situations that red tape can bring about in a hospital. A friend of mine who had had a serious operation was having much trouble about sleeping and the doctor occasionally gave her morphine. One night she simply could not get to sleep and finally she asked her nurse if she wouldn't give her a morphine pill. The nurse said that she couldn't do it because the doctor had not ordered it. So my friend composed herself for sleep. Presently she fell asleep and was awakened by the nurse. "What do you want?" asked my friend sleepily. "I called up the doctor and he said you could have a pill and I have come to give it to you," the nurse explained. "But couldn't you see I was asleep?" "Yes, but that doesn't matter. He said you were to have the pill and I must give it to you. We have to follow the doctor's orders." How's that for red tape?

Hospital for Patient

Of course there must be rules and regulations and things would get mixed up if there wasn't some red tape to keep them in order, but it does seem to me as if the fact that the hospital exists for the patient's welfare and not the patient for the hospital might be emphasized considerably more in a good many hospitals without ruining the discipline.

BEAUTY CHATS

PREMATURE GRAYNESS

There are some things one can do for premature grayness, though not a great many.

The hair can be cut back a little, a few inches being taken off every month or so, or it can be bobbed if that style is becoming. This frequently gives it a fresh lease on life.

It can be given a daily thorough massage with the fingers or with an electric vibrator, and a daily, or thrice a week, massage with a special hair tonic. Here is the formula for my tonic which as it contains pilocarpine—a drug acting particularly on the color cells—wards off gray hair, always lessens the amount of it, and sometimes cures it entirely. The tonic is:

Pilocarpine Hydrochlorate 2 gr.
Precipitated Sulphur 30 gr.
Detergent 30 drops
Castor Oil 10 drops
Alcohol (95 per cent.) 4 ounces
Tr. Cantharides 4 drams
Cologne 4 drams

Rose water, to make 8 ounces.

Or, you can use the extra henna shampoo which will color the gray threads either gold or reddish and make them much less conspicuous. For this treatment, shampoo and rinse the hair as usual, and while wet apply a very hot paste made of one ounce of powdered Egyptian henna. This can stay on 3, 5 or 10 minutes (experiment will show you how long) then rinse it off thoroughly before the hair is dried.

You can use a tonic and stain made of sage and sulphur which, made by steeping two ounces of sage herbs in a pint of water for half an hour, straining, then adding one ounce tincture of cantharides and one and one-half ounces flower of sulphur. This can be used daily and is effective though sometimes a little messy.

Flo B.—All foods in which there is much acid have a tendency to reduction. Such foods, however, will also impair the health so they should be limited. The proper way to reduce is to arrange your diet according to the number of calories that you require, or to omit much of the food which produces fat until you have attained the correct weight.

H. G. L.—There is no special preparatory treatment necessary in preparing the skin for use of cornstarch as a cleanser. All that is necessary is to mix the starch with enough water to make it like a thick cream, after which you rub it into all the coarse pores, or over the entire face and throat. Allow this to stay on until the starch has dried thoroughly. Remove it with warm water, and follow up with a massage in which you feed the skin with as much cream as it will absorb. The reason for this cream application is due to the fact that the starch, while removing the soil from the pores, has also consumed all the natural secretions in the skin.

Tomorrow—Health and Tonics.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

My dear Followers:

When sending for material which we offer you, please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible, if they are of general interest. Don't forget to enclose the self-addressed and stamped envelope if you ask for an article.

Mrs. N.: You are about 40 pounds overweight. Reducing your weight will improve your circulation. You say that no matter how nourishing the food is, you are always hungry. That is not really hunger. It is habit hunger and more a longing for the taste of food.

Three days after you have started reducing you will be over that persistent longing. Probably when you were dieting before and got so weak and dizzy it was because you were not on a balanced diet.

Send the s.a.s.e. and four cents for our directions.

"I have been a constant reader of your column and I cannot tell you how much I enjoyed it. I am especially fond of Sockums.

"What would you do if you had a double installment of chin and about three-fourths of the usual installment of the rest of your body? That is about what I have and I must say the effect is not especially pleasant.

"I am 17 years old, five feet six inches in height and weigh only 113 pounds, and yet I have a double chin. I have been in poor health lately but am feeling better now, and am gaining a little. But my chin is gaining also, and that takes away all my joy.

My dear A. J., I love you because you love Sockums.

It looks as though there might be a little disturbance of the internal glands in your case, and it would be wise if you could put yourself under the care of a specialist. However, if you cannot do that I advise you to go on a diet and hygienic regime. That will make you gain to normal weight and then perhaps your internal secretions would right themselves.

I would go after that double installment of chin vigorously with massage, being careful to mas-

The Glendale Research Hospital Has Reached A High Degree of Eminence Through Its Scientific Methods, Its Conduct and Its Location

Glendale is favorably known as an ideal location for Sanitariums and Hospitals. There are several good reasons for this. The climatic conditions are ideal for hospital work, and Glendale is also well known for the number of highly competent physicians, surgeons and specialists in medical practice.

One of the most modern and highly equipped hospitals in Glendale and all Southern California, is the Glendale Research Hospital, which is a new, up-to-date hospital, constructed throughout in accordance with the most recent requirements of hygiene and prophylactic science.

The location of this institution is ideal—it being situated in a quiet residential portion of the city; the building is fire-proof and each room well and daintily furnished. The equipment includes the highest class surgical instruments, research laboratories and an X-ray department.

During the past year, the second of this hospital's existence, a phenomenal record for SERVICE to the community has been made—and every effort will be made to even serve the people better during the coming year of 1923.

Old Prospectors Seek Nevada's Gold Mines

RENO, March 1.—Scores of Nevada prospectors felt the gold and silver lure during the recent mild weather, with the result that the pick and burro supplanted the textbook and the specimen hammer, and the annual prospectors' short course at the University of Nevada was greeted with the smallest enrollment in years.

Mining men pointed out that it's the man with the burro that is responsible for the finding of wealthy mineral properties. Eastern quest for western mining claims and an increased stability in Nevada mining stocks are given for the unparalleled influx of prospectors and "deser" rats into the Nevada sagebrush.

Atlanta Police Help Keep Kids in School

ATLANTA, Ga., March 1.—"The coppers'll get you—if you don't watch out."

This little saying has been indelibly impressed on the minds of Atlanta school children since the truant officer here started a campaign to enlist the blue-clad guardians of the law in the army that is sometimes needed to keep the youngsters "schoolward bound."

The police promised to co-operate with the truant officer and since that time, the school children declare, "playing hooky" has become an art instead of an "exciting sport."

Antagonism Growing Toward French Troops

ESSEN, March 1.—Tension between the German civilian population and the French troops in the Bochum district is approaching the breaking point, according to advices from that city this afternoon.

The Pau-German leader, Prince Wilhelm von Lippe, has been arrested by the French on the charge of inciting the German population to attack the occupational troops.

A German nationalist attacked and beat up a German employee of the control commission.

All the security (German) police in Becklinghausen and Bochum have been disarmed and dismissed by the French.

It is reported that Belgium will send additional troops at the request of France. French officers are visibly nervous over the situation in the Bochum area although they admit that the Germans lack arms to conduct organized warfare.

Blame Marriage Mania On Railroad Accident

FRESNO, Cal., March 1.—Loss of his legs is believed to have caused the marriage mania of Earl Swaney, youthful Nevada railroadman, who is being sued for annulment of his marriage by Margaret Jean Swaney, pretty Kingsburg co-ed.

Swaney is alleged to be under parole both from Elmira, N. Y. reformatory and Nevada authorities. Judge Moran of Reno advanced the theory to local investigators that loss of Swaney's legs in a railroad accident caused the marriage mania which officers believe led to six marriages without formality of divorce. Miss Louise Garfinkle of New York, they said, was No. 3, and she gave them information which led to discovery of three others. In her suit, in which she is acting as her own attorney, Mrs. Swaney, No. 6, cites one previous marriage in Fresno.

Will Grant Veterans Loans to Buy Farms

SACRAMENTO, March 1.—More than 100 California veterans will be awarded state loans with which to buy farms during the next six months, according to announcement made by Robert W. Smith, secretary of the state veterans' welfare board.

Smith announced that the first tracts to be purchased under the farm aid clause of the veterans' legislation were bought for Leroy Cooley and Peter Giacomini, both of whom will be located on farms near Modesto.

Applications of wounded and disabled men for farm aid will be given preference, Smith said.

Purchase of homes for veterans had been going on for several months, a total of 125 having been bought to date, but the farm awards announced are the first to be made.

HINTS FOR THE MOTORIST

ALBERT L. CLOUGH

QUIETER TIMING GEARS

Non-Metallic, Silent Timing Gears Are Becoming Popular

A pretty large proportion of the cars in use have metal timing gears, and not a few of the older ones are fitted with straight tooth instead of those of the more silent helical tooth variety. Metal gears are sometimes noisy even when new and all such gears tend to grow noisy with age, especially if the engine idles irregularly or has a weak cylinder. Timing gears, made of non-sonorous material, that does not "ring" as metal does, have been known for many years, but recently, through improvements in the material used and on account of the competition of the silent chain, they have come to the front. Such "silent" timing gears, made of fibrous material, improved, so that the full gas pressure is developed in the cylinder before the piston has reached the top of its stroke and is ready to move down. This results in a momentary tendency for the engine to turn backwards and the attendant shock to the moving parts causes the knocking sound. The remedy is to adjust the ignition so that the spark occurs later in the piston movement. As the timer used on this engine attaches to its shaft in an invariable position, the most usual cause of a spark knock, which cannot be stopped by retarding the spark level, is that the linkage which connects the timer with the spark lever has become bent or otherwise deranged. Quite often knocks due to other causes, such as fuel action or pre-ignition, are mistaken for the spark knock.

Bolting Instead of Re-Riveting

E. G. asks: In replacing the front cross member of a car frame, on which the engine rests, do you consider it safe to use bolts or Answer: What you require is a four-cylinder, twin-spark magneto, which is a special type, with ungrounded secondary winding and eight cable-leads from the distributor. These instruments are still made by several of the magneto manufacturers and you could also probably pick one up second-hand from some one of the wrecking concerns. An eight-cylinder magneto would be useless for your purpose. Twin-spark ignition should give you appreciably more maximum power, but it is difficult to predict how much. Whether it would be enough to warrant your investment in the new magneto is by no means certain, but the experiment may be worth trying.

What the Spark Knock Is

F. E. R. asks: What causes a spark knock in a Ford engine, and how can it be removed?

Answer: The true spark knock is caused by the spark occurring

GIRL'S HEART STOPS BEATING

Doctor Moves It To Take Nail From Lung

This young woman carried a brass nail in her lung for thirteen years. While Dr. John Minnehan was removing it recently he found it necessary to move her heart to one side. The organ stopped beating and for a moment it was thought she was dead. Now she is on the way to recovery and physicians predict she will be entirely normal and healthy henceforth. Miss Wendicke is 17 years of age. The remarkable operation was performed at St. Vincent's hospital, in Green Bay, Wisconsin. The nail was more than an inch long and had a wide, rounded head. Miss Wendicke swallowed the nail when she was a child.

TODAY—"The Irish Olympic" race is to be held in Ireland this year, writes Daniel O'Connell, who also comments on the proposal to provide all "loyal Irishmen with guns."

TOMORROW—Precedent has been upset in the senate, writes George R. Holmes, Washington correspondent. "Freshmen" senators now get up and speak whenever they feel like it. They are no longer mere listeners.

By DANIEL O'CONNELL
For International News Service

DUBLIN, March 1.—So we are going to have the Tailteann Games (the Irish race Olympic), which was abandoned last summer owing to Rory O'Connor's rebellion. I hear that everything is being speeded up so that all will be ready for August. That is a fairly long-range prospect for our times, but it won't get further away as we get nearer to them. Hope is one of the few things that has not been killed in this country, but it has been fairly well pitted with bullets. For Ireland there is light in the long distance always, but frequently it comes from a blazing train.

In the midst of many peace suggestions it is quite a delightful change to hear that the only way we can have it is by going out and buying guns, with, I suppose, an earnest intention of well and properly employing them. This new peace-maker emerges in the columns of an English Sunday newspaper. The editor says: "Things being as they are I think the government should take steps to arm and organize those whom they can trust to support their own rights. Men should buy their own arms, but the government should endeavor to create an organization for mutual support." We can start an army of our own, and if that wretched terror across the road tries to give itself airs by getting up a rival army we shall step across and shoot it up—so demonstrating our loyalty to the government. There is no reason any longer why every street should not have an army of its own and why sandbags should not take the place of flower-pots at every suburban window. Anyone who has any private shooting to do can organize himself as a loyal citizen and carry out his shooting. Guns for everybody can afford them, and overtime for the grave-diggers. Hurrah! Anyhow, there is not much to do in this country now except to go out and shoot somebody. Perhaps it is only natural that a Dublin fire should be accompanied by explosions. After all, there is a good deal of truth in the saying, "Habit is second nature." I lay in bed the other morning while a mineral water factory blazed itself into ashes to the noisy accompaniment of exploding chemicals and bursting bottles. Hearing that sort of noise in the early hours of the morning one's natural thought,

Some daring people have been telling the clergymen in Belfast that their sermons have emptied the churches and filled the saloons. To this the church people retort with the crushing incident: "A well-known business man who attended a service in a Presbyterian church in the city inside the last fortnight displayed a large bill on his business premises the next day."

"This public house is closed forever—proprietor converted!" That is what I call salvation.

Probe Mystery Death of Railway Watchman
ASHCROFT, B. C. March 1.—Police are investigating the mysterious shooting of Dan Sullivan, 72, railway watchman, whose bullet-riddled body was discovered here. Sullivan was apparently shot at close range as five bullet holes were found about his heart. The tip of one of his fingers was shot off. Robbery was first believed to be the motive but this theory was upset on finding $40 in cash in the dead man's pockets.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

BY HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE BOB CAT'S BUTTON

One day, when Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy had gone down town to the six and seven cent store to see about getting a new diamond dishpan, as her old one leaked, Uncle Wiggily sat alone in the hollow stump bungalow.

"Heigh-ho!" said the bunny rabbit to himself, sort of stretching and yawning. "Heigh-ho! I think I'll go out and look for an adventure."

Mr. Longears twinkled his pink nose once or twice, thoughtful like, he stretched first one leg than another and went to the front hall rack to get his coat.

As he put it on he noticed that one of the buttons was dangling by a single thread in a most untidy fashion.

"This will never do," said Uncle Wiggily. "I must get a needle and thread and sew on this button, or I may lose it when I go adventuring. Nurse Jane would never forgive me."

The bunny rabbit gentleman knew where his muskrat lady housekeeper kept her sewing things and soon, with a needle and thread, he was ready to sew on his dangling button. Uncle Wiggily didn't use a thimble. Somehow or other he never could use a thimble.

"A five-cent piece will push the needle through as well as a thimble," said the bunny. "And if you aren't rich enough to afford a five-cent piece a penny will do as well."

But Uncle Wiggily was quite rich, having found his fortune, and so he had a five-cent piece. With this he pushed the needle and thread through the holes in the button, and through the cloth of his coat until he had sewed the dangling fastener on firmly.

"Now I'll go adventuring—adventuring I shall go, and many curious things I'll find over the ice and snow!" So sang Uncle Wiggily as he started to put away the needle and thread. But he had no more than slipped the five-cent-piece thimble back in his pocket than a voice cried:

"You aren't going adventuring!"

"Why not?" asked Uncle Wiggily, at the same time shivering, for well he knew that voice.

"Because you're going to stay home here and let me nibble your ears!" howled the voice.

And in popped the Bob Cat.

"Oh dear!" sighed Uncle Wiggily.

"Not dear—cheap—very cheap!" snarled the Bob Cat. "Your ears are very cheap when I can nibble them for nothing," and the bad chap looked hungrily at the bunny rabbit.

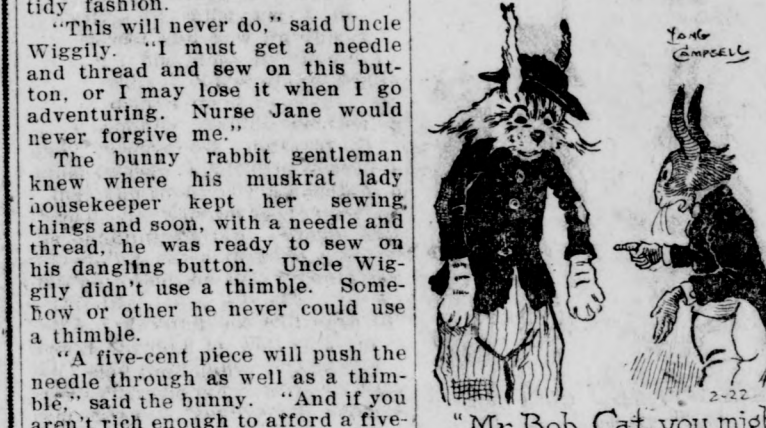

"So you have come to nibble my ears, have you?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"I have!" snarled the Bob Cat. Then Uncle Wiggily happened to look at the Bob Cat's coat and the rabbit cried:

"Surely you wouldn't nibble my ears with one of your buttons hanging loose and dangling dangling down-o! Surely not. Why, Mr. Bob Cat, you might lose that button."

"That's so, I might," said the Bob Cat. "I never noticed it was loose. Thank you for calling my attention to it," he added politely and with gentle sarcasm. "However, it doesn't matter and—"

"Doesn't matter! I should say it did matter," cried Uncle Wiggily.

"I couldn't think of letting you have a loose button on your coat. I'll sew it on for you in a jiffy, if you will pardon my use of that word. I just sewed on a button of my own."

With that the bunny rabbit brought out the needle and thread again, but instead of sewing on the Bob Cat's button the rabbit suddenly jabbed it in the Bob Cat's leg.

"Ouch! Wow! Ouch! What are you doing? Ouch!" howled the Bob Cat. "If that's the way you sew on buttons I'd rather have them dangling dangling down-o! Ouch!"

Again Uncle Wiggily jabbed him with the needle and then the Bob Cat gave another howl and jumped out of the bungalow much more quickly than he had sneaked in.

"Well and good," laughed Uncle Wiggily, twinkling his pink nose. "It is a wise thing I learned how to sew when I was young." Then he went adventuring, and if the tack puller doesn't try to take the shoe off the foot of the stairs and put it on the head of lettuce, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's new shoes.

VARIABLE OR FIXED GRID LEAK

A small device, the value of which is not fully appreciated by those who are not well advanced in radio. Consists of a very high resistance which, when shunted across the stopping condenser in an audio circuit, keeps the potential of the grid of such a value that paralyzation is prevented and most efficient results are obtained. The grid leak here shown is of the pencil mark type and can be easily varied by means of an eraser and pencil. Connection is made to the pencil mark by two screws which go through holes in the panel and are held in place by two nuts. The complete leak is covered by a nickel plated brass cover, which is held in place with a bayonet lock. This leak is ideal for experimental and audio circuits.

RADIO DEVELOPMENT
By LIEUT. JOHN R. IRWIN
U. S. AIR SERVICE (RESERVE)

RESONANCE

In the preceding articles dealing with the above subject we quoted the analogy of two tuning forks in resonance. As an additional explanation of the phenomena of resonance we may take the example of two bells of similar characteristics, strike one and the other bell will respond without being struck. However, as already pointed out in the case of tuning forks, the first bell will not activate the second unless they are similar in every characteristic.

A similar condition exists in radio and is a condition that must predominate in the thoughts of the experimenter who would be successful in his efforts.

In radiotelegraphy the first bell corresponds to the transmitting station, the second bell to the receiver. In order that the receiver may be set into oscillation by waves from the transmitter there must be tuned to the same pitch or wave length. And in order that a maximum advantage may be taken of this principle of resonance it will be necessary, as set forth in the preceding articles, for the transmitted wave to be as feebly damped as possible. If only one single wave were radiated from the transmitter instead of a succession of waves of practically constant strength or intensity there could be no accumulative or adding up effect in the receiver and signals could not be received. Consequently, in designing a successful radio transmitter we

and can be made permanent in a receiving set by substituting ordinary India ink for the pencil mark.

Turks Are Ready to Sign Peace Agreement

Another report said that Ismet Pasha had been dismissed as head of the Turkish peace delegation.

GARY, Ind., March 1.—Leo Johnson, a negro, resented race discrimination so much when Ivan Shaouon and Anton Anastasio refused to let him come into their warm shanty, that he shot and killed both. Both were white steel workers in a Gary plant.

EIGHT BRANCHES OF MASONS HERE

Various Lodges Number
Over Thousand Members
In Different Groups

The various Glendale lodges in Masonry were centered at 232 South Brand boulevard in 1914, when the Temple was erected. Previous to that, the meeting place had been in rooms over the old Glendale Bank, on Brand boulevard, in the building that formerly occupied that site.

At the present time there are eight Masonic organizations in Glendale, with a combined membership of over 1000. The largest lodge is the Blue, with 425 members, which meets every Tuesday night. Another Blue lodge, to be called "U. D." is in process of organization. Chapter R. A. M., with 225 members, meets every Thursday night. The Commandery, Knights Templar, with 135 members, meets every Monday night. The Eastern Star, a women's auxiliary, with 225 members, meets the second and fourth Friday nights. The White Shrine, another women's auxiliary, with 100 members, meets the first and third Friday nights. De Molay, a boys' lodge, with 60 members, meets the first and third Tuesday nights. And finally, there is a Shrine club, which has its own being and is connected with Masonry only in that its members are thirty-second degree men.

PAST COMMANDER PRESIDES AT MEET

Drew Nicoles Will Preside
As Officers Attend
State Conference

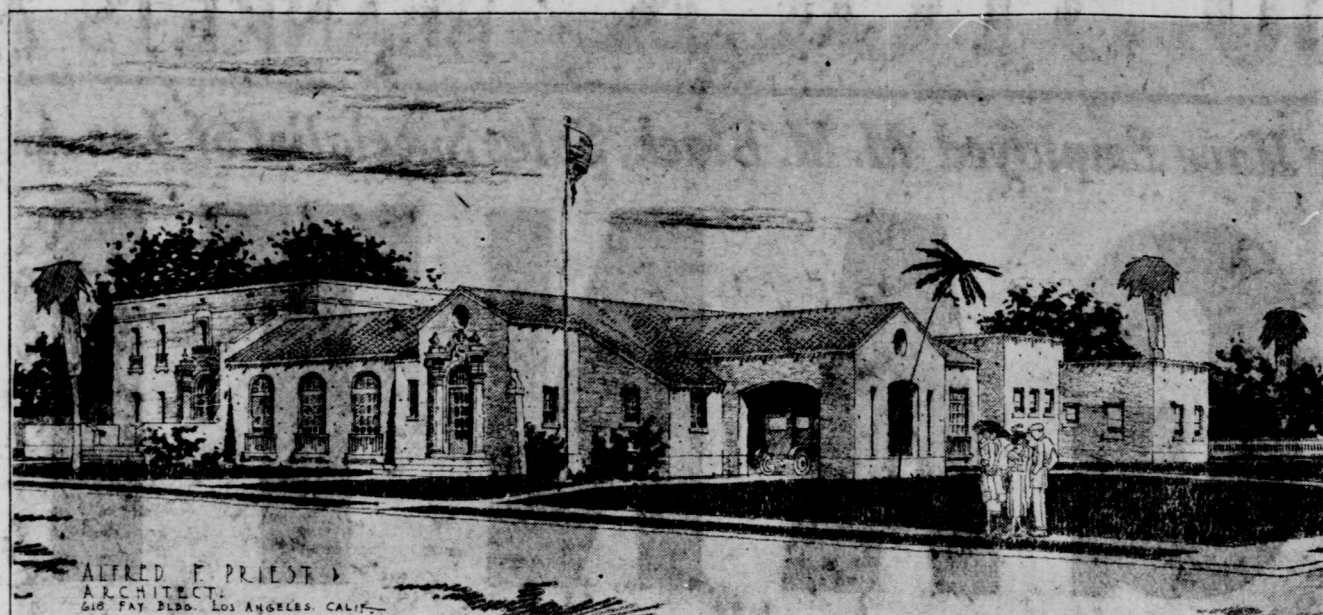

Past Commander Dru Nicoles is to preside at the Legion meeting Friday night at 8 o'clock in the Legion hall on East Broadway. The officers of the post will be absent attending a state conference in Los Angeles.

The entertainment feature of the meeting in Glendale will be given by a troop of Boy Scouts from Hollywood, who will give the program as a benefit for Glendale Boy Scouts.

All Glendale Legionnaires have been asked to bring at least one Boy Scout to the meeting.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON CLUB'S NEW HOME IS NOW COMPLETED

Traditions and Atmosphere of Early California Are Featured In Attractive Building

Preserving the traditions and atmosphere of the early days of California, when padres and dons traveled over the country and on past the Verdugo hills to the northern missions, the Tuesday Afternoon club house at the northeast corner of Lexington drive and Central avenue is indeed a masterpiece in Spanish-California architecture. Final work is being done on the building, which is to be formally opened Tuesday night, March 13. A typical Spanish patio is the nucleus about which club activities will radiate in the new club house. In this court will be flowers and a fountain, presenting a garden picture to the surrounding rooms. The exterior finish of the building is white stucco with mission tiled roof. Of course the big feature of the interior is the auditorium with a seating capacity of 800 people, and equipped with a large stage. In an adjoining wing is located banquet rooms and kitchens, while a tea room, palm room and caretaker's apartment are provided for in the building plan. The woodwork is of mission style and the tinted walls are to be decorated with rich stencil designs. Alfred F. Priest is the architect, designing the building.

Hears Song on Radio 5822 Miles Distant

SAN FRANCISCO, March 1.—Radio history was made with the operating here recently of the new KPO broadcasting station.

The human voice and musical tones were transmitted from San Francisco to Apia, a British town in the Samoan Islands, an airline distance of 5822 miles.

This is believed to have established a new distance record.

What is believed to be the previous record for radiophone broadcasting was accomplished in 1915, when special tests were made by the Western Electric company between Washington, D. C., and Honolulu, an airline distance of 4800 miles.

The little town of Apia, thousands of miles from any cosmopolitan city where recreation and entertainment are abundant, must have been thrilled to the marrow when it learned that the voices of San Franciscans had been clearly and definitely heard at its radio station. And little did the city officials or artists who took part in the program realize that they would be heard practically across the Pacific ocean.

Astronomers Fail to Find Change In Star

LOS ANGELES, March 1.—Beta Ceta, the burning star which has virtually achieved world wide fame overnight, may be an optical illusion, the product of distorted vision, it was indicated by the announcement of scientists at the Mount Wilson observatory, who failed to locate any phenomenal change in the star when they gazed at it through the big telescope last night.

The official word of the achievement is contained in the following wireless message by the Radio corporation:

"Radio KPO: Advise Radio KPO query announced official opening Tuesday, January 16—picked up here beautifully on one valve (audion tube.) "VGM."

"VGM" is an English commercial station. It is comparatively small compared to the stations in the United States.

PUBLIC UTILITY GROWTH IS TOLD

Installation of Water and Light Meters Affords
Increase Record

The growth of Glendale is well illustrated in statistics on file at the public service department in the city hall.

James F. McIntyre, commercial agent for this branch of the city administration, stated recently that the steady demand for new water meters indicates that the expansion of the community is continuous.

Almost forty-five miles of water pipe have been laid since the first of January, 1922, according to Peter Deiderich, superintendent of the distribution of water and electricity for the public service department of the city of Glendale.

Over 38 Miles
The value of pipe laid last year was $304,451.70. This sum was divided as follows: $150,715.50 for 115,935 feet of four-inch pipe; $43,219.20 for 27,012 feet of six-inch pipe; $46,000.90 for 24,211 feet of eight-inch pipe; $3345 for 1338 feet of ten-inch pipe, and $12,254.30 for 3953 feet of twelve-inch pipe.

Exclusive of eight-inch joints, which occupied 30,573 feet and cost $48,916.80, the total number of feet of pipe laid last year was 293,022 or 38.6 miles.

About 120 water meters and 170 light meters were installed during the month just past. Over 9650 homes in Glendale are being served with electricity while over 7700 water meters are busy measuring the Verdugo Hills brand of aqua pura. Many apartment houses, flat buildings and duplexes have joint water meters.

Seek Clew to Slayer In Remington Letters

LOS ANGELES, March 1.—The contents of the black leather brief case, carried by Earl Remington, clubman and society bootlegger, when he was murdered here several days ago, were gone over again carefully by detectives working on the case. A stack of Remington's personal business papers, which he is said to have guarded closely, were also found, and it is hoped by the officers that some tangible clew of his slayer may be gleaned from them.

STATISTICS GIVE LOVE LONG LEAD

Los Angeles County Records Show Big Increase in Business

Cupid is over 6460 points ahead of Mars, god of war, according to the recent annual report of the county board of supervisors, which proudly called attention to the fact that 12,831 marriage licenses were issued last year, as compared with 5371 divorce certificates.

A prominent feature of the report deals with definite facts in regard to the proposed new county jail. The jail is to cost $3,500,000, instead of $2,000,000, as first reported. Executive offices connected with the police department of the county government will be housed in the new jail.

The report shows further that there was $26,401,804.84 at the time the report was made on hand in the county treasury. This was nearly twice as much as was on hand a year ago.

Other information contained in the report is: Almost 250,000 more documents have been handled by the county auditor's office than last year; warrants amounting to $50,373,587, including county warrants for $8,487,285, and school warrants totaling $31,885,302 were issued by the county in the past year.

County Records

Interest on the county's money amounts to $250,000 annually. There were assessments on more than 1,000,000 parcels of property, 89,005 new improvements and 92,479 personal property receipts issued for the collection of taxes on unsecured personal property valued at $107,367,836.

In realty affairs the assessments totaled 333,822 and there were 61,337 delinquents.

Records at the district attorney's office show that of the 60,000 who visited the office, only 15 per cent had sufficient cause for filing criminal complaints.

More than $1,000,000 worth of contracts were prepared by the county counsel's office and school bonds amounted to $8,803,500.

There were 945 people served by the public defender's office and in 87 jury trials in which the public defender appeared there were 21 verdicts of not guilty.

More than 11,000 applied for legal aid and in excess of 7000 were helped.

The sheriff handled 6210 prisoners during the year and of these 363 were successfully taken to San Quentin.

Sleuths Say Woman Has Five Husbands

SAN FRANCISCO, March 1.—Declared by federal investigators to have at least five husbands and to have defrauded the government by drawing war time allotments as the wife of two of them, a woman was under arrest here pending further federal investigation of her remarkable career. W. E. Flinn, a marine corps sergeant stationed here, and F. E. Boyer, a chief electrician in the army, stationed in the Philippines now, are the two husbands through whom she is alleged to have received war time allotments at the same time. Department of justice agents said they had secured an admission from the woman of the truth of their charges.

Good Way To Get Vision Of Greater City; Company Saw It Long Ago

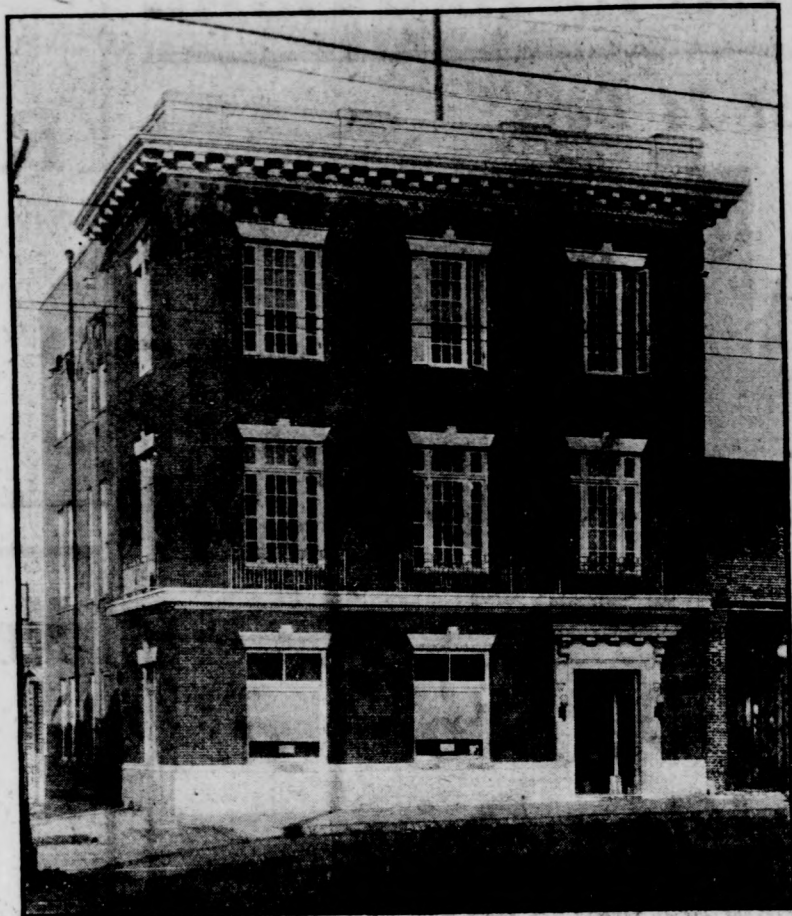

The first class A office building to be erected in Glendale was that of the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Company, 125 South Brand boulevard, which is one of the most modern and model central office buildings in the United States.

Fred Deal, manager, states the switchboards now can accommodate 5000 subscribers and two additional sections will be installed this year to care for the rapidly increasing population. More than $80,000 improvements for Glendale have been announced by the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Company.

From the top of the telephone building a visitor can get a good glimpse of Glendale's skyline and Manager Deal will be glad to show those who wish to visit the plant this interesting sight, in addition to revealing the intricacies of telephone service.

The Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Company foresaw Glendale's bright future by building a fire-proof, concrete steel and brick building upon which additional floors may be piled. From the basement, where the power plant and cable rooms are located, to the third floor, where a score and more of operators are attentively answering your every telephone signal, the mechanical equipment is most modern and working conditions model.

A rest room for the operators, with its kitchenette, phonograph and library is an interesting feature. Another innovation is the outside pay station in the lobby of the building, the first of its kind, installed at the time Glendale's building was erected several years ago.

Alleged K. K. K. Member Enters Medical School

BALTIMORE, March 1.—Dr. B. M. Previously he had been refused admission. The authorities said they did not wish to go an injustice to Dr. McKoin.

Veteran Plans Damage Suit Against Senator

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Henry A. Wallerstein, a veteran bureau employe, injured in a fist encounter with Senator Caraway of Arkansas, announced he would file a suit for $20,000 against the senator.

Attorneys for Wallerstein, a veteran of the world war, said Caraway would be charged with making an unprovoked assault on their client.

Wallerstein said he was beaten with an umbrella and otherwise misused. Caraway contended he had been annoyed by Wallerstein on a street car.

Ten Years of Progress In Glendale

—The completion of every decade is a most fitting resting place along the journey of life, when we pause from every day affairs to look back over the years that have been—and take note of the progress and development in which we have had a part.

—Glendale has been richly blest in the past ten years, and the decades that preceded provided a substantial background for the happenings from 1913 to the present.

—To have shared in the 300 per cent growth of the city of Glendale has, indeed, been a rare privilege.

—And we have not shared by being lookers-on only, but by taking an active part in the development of the little town of 3,000, or more, into a city of over 35,000.

—Felicitations are, indeed, in order, and as fellow Glendaleans we greet you, to congratulate you in your enthusiastic loyalty to our home city, where we live and labor together in this great western land, upon which God has smiled so graciously.

—May the coming years reflect even greater happiness and progress, and be a great memorial tribute to the historical milestone we are passing today.

Steady Growth! —The Result of Good Service

WHERE GOOD SERVICE is faithfully given, nothing short of a freak of Providence can retard the steady growth of any business, regardless of its nature.

—Thus, we find the "infant prodigals" in the business world of yesterday, the largest and most progressive concerns of today.

—Seven years ago, with but two trucks, and very limited storage facilities, the Robinson Bros. Transfer and Storage company began operations in Glendale. By good service, consistently given, the business has grown until a good-sized fleet of motor trucks and moving vans are constantly in operation, and a new five-story fire-proof storage warehouse is being completed for our use at West Elk and Central avenues.

—We congratulate the Glendale Evening News on its tenth birthday as a daily paper, and also call attention to this paper's astounding growth, also the result of a policy of GOOD SERVICE.

ALL INSURANCE RECORDS BROKEN

Metropolitan Life Sets New Prosperity Figures in 1922 Report

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company broke all records in amount of business done in the year 1922, according to a report published today. The amount of new business placed on the books exceeded the phenomenal year of 1920 and was far in excess of what had been done in 1921. The officers of the company believe that this certainly reflects improved business conditions.

Particularly significant is the fact that industrial insurance, which is taken largely by wage earners and their families, had such a great volume. The total amount of industrial insurance placed during the year was over $775,000,000. The investment situation is also good. The income of the company increased by over thirty-eight and a half million dollars over that of 1921, reaching the total of $340,668,301. The assets of the company increased $144,267,300 and at the end of the year stood at $1,259,850,325. The mortality increased somewhat as compared with the previous year, and the total number of claims paid was 365,276. This was an average of one claim paid every 24 seconds of each business day of eight hours, or just about 1,000 a day during the year, including Sundays and holidays. The amount paid to policyholders averaged $803.81 a minute of each business day.

Teach Hygiene

Along with this great increase on the business side, the welfare work done by the company, in behalf of the health of its industrial policyholders kept pace. Metropolitan nurses made more than two million free visits to sick industrial policyholders, bringing the total number made since this service was inaugurated to over sixteen million. The company has distributed altogether two hundred and seventy-two million booklets and pamphlets giving hints on hygiene and prevention of disease, and this, in co-operation with the general activities which are widening each year on the part of all official and semi-official health organizations, has resulted in extending the life expectancy among industrial policyholders by eight and one-half years since 1911.

Blame Liquor Pirates In Fishermen's Death

LOS ANGELES, March 1.—The United States government joined with state authorities and officials of both Los Angeles and Santa Barbara in attending to the responsibility for the death of five fishermen from this port and Santa Barbara. A revenue cutter is reported to be held in readiness for a dash to Santa Cruz island, off Santa Barbara, to run down a crew which is said to point strongly to the belief that the men were slain by bootleg pirates.

VOLE MAY GRANT BUS FRANCHISES

Election to Decide Whether Bus Lines Will Run in Los Angeles Streets

Petitions are now being circulated in Los Angeles to permit the general public to vote upon whether or not franchises shall be granted for the operation of motor busses over the streets of the metropolis of the west.

This information was volunteered by C. D. Gulick of 109 South Brand boulevard, promoter of the Glendale Motor Bus Company.

If the issue is put to a vote, Mr. Gulick believes that the organization which he is fostering has an excellent chance to compete with other concerns in the field for the necessary municipal permits. Equipment supplied by his company, in the opinion of Mr. Gulick, will be the best put into service and much better than that suggested by many of the other companies. Because of the fact that it will be built under a design perfected by Mr. Gulick personally, he is certain that it will not damage streets nearly as much as other types of busses.

Hard on Streets

The New York syndicate, represented by William G. McAduo, intends to put a similar bus in operation here to that operated in New York City, according to Mr. Gulick. He said that this type of bus is obsolete and very destructive to streets because it concentrates 78 per cent of its total weight upon two wheels.

"We offer by far the greatest transfer system," remarked Mr. Gulick, "and our fares will be lower and more reasonable."

The passenger tariff outlined by Mr. Gulick provides for a rate of five cents for the first three miles with the opportunity of going eighteen miles in a general direction for fifteen cents. The tariff outlined by the New York capitalists provides for an initial fare of ten cents, whether the ride be a block or a mile, while the longest possible ride would be nine miles.

"If there is any justice in better service and lower transportation rates," asserted Mr. Gulick, "we believe the people will give us the permits."

Cost of Busses

To carry out the program in Los Angeles, Mr. Gulick stated that the construction of 312 passenger busses would be necessary at a cost of approximately $4,000,000. He does not anticipate any financial obstacle because he expects to be able to raise at least a fourth of this sum through the thousand stock-holding employees. By employing a double shift Los Angeles can be equipped with motor busses in a year, in the opinion of Mr. Gulick. He stated that after this has been done the manufacturing company would then sell busses in the open market. He said that $9,700,000 worth of passenger carrying automobiles were now in service in California alone and that most of these were obsolete and ready to be replaced as soon as a better bus appeared on the market.

Although Mr. Gulick has received tentative permission from the state corporation commission to proceed with incorporation proceedings for the manufacturing company under the name of the Southern Pacific Motor Bus Company, he has decided to apply for incorporation under the name of the Pacific Motor Bus Company.

The Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital Progresses and Grows with Glendale

The Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital is one of Glendale's oldest established institutions as well as the largest, and a new $500,000 home is now under course of construction, in order to properly accommodate the ever increasing number of patients who come to Glendale from all parts of the world.

The Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital

Glendale's Largest and Best Known Institution

The Glendale Sanitarium, in addition to bringing thousands of strangers to Glendale each year, advertises the city extensively by means of its advertising literature sent to every part of the globe.

ARCHITECT A. F. PRIEST'S DRAWING OF $500,000 SANITARIUM TO BE CONSTRUCTED ON FINE SITE BETWEEN WILSON AVENUE AND SYCAMORE CANYON ROAD

The Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital has never turned away a patient on account of age, sex or color for financial reasons.

Its patients are numbered from every state in the Union, as well as many foreign countries.

One of Glendale's Greatest Advantages Is a Salubrious and Healthful Climate

—And it is, indeed, fitting that in a city so blessed by all natural advantages that such an institution as the GLENDALE SANITARIUM and HOSPITAL is located —and where right methods of eating and living may be instilled into those seeking health under the most ideal conditions. Perhaps, no single agency has attracted a greater number of strangers to Glendale, or done more to interest people in this beautiful Jewel City than has the Glendale Sanitarium.

Careful and Efficient Nurses and Attendants of the Highest Type

The nurses at the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital are of the highest type that you will find anywhere. They are carefully chosen from Christian homes and have seriously chosen nursing as their life-work. Having a large and capable staff, every patient is assured of painstaking attention.

THE GLENDALE SANITARIUM AND HOSPITAL IS ONE OF THE LARGEST INSTITUTIONS OF ITS KIND ON THE PACIFIC COAST

In having an institution of the magnitude and character of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital located here—Glendale not only gains the advantages derived from its large payroll and money expended here for supplies—but Glendale citizens are offered a Sanitarium and Hospital service that is afforded comparatively few communities in the United States.

A Large and Well Equipped Sanitarium and General Hospital

FOR THE CONVENIENCE OF BOTH SURGICAL AND MEDICAL PATIENTS. CURATIVE METHODS ARE EMPLOYED ACCORDING TO THE LATEST PRINCIPLES OF PHYSIOLOGICAL THERAPEUTICS

—The efficient methods of treating the sick, combined with a scientific knowledge of the preparation and combinations of foods used in a vegetarian, or so-called non-flesh dietary, give the patient a well-balanced course of treatment. The purpose of this work is to help nature restore health and put one in possession of knowledge that will help them know how to live to maintain health, for it is easier to lose than to regain.

GLENDALE SANITARIUM Uses SAME SYSTEM of TREATMENTS That Have Proved BENEFICIAL at the Famous BATTLE CREEK (Mich.) Sanitarium

—This system of treatments consist of diet, exercise and massage, electric light baths, salt glows, hot applications and packs, hot and cold sprays, galvanic and sinusoidal electricity. The laboratories are equipped with fine X-Ray machines, with the latest stereoscopic improvements. Here the research work is also extensively carried on.

Fine New Building Is Being Erected On North Brand Boulevard

H. S. E. U. Emery of 329 North Kenwood and H. S. Webb of 103 South Brand boulevard expect to have their new building ready for occupancy before the passage of many more months. The building, which was designed by Architect Alfred F. Priest of 1422 North Central avenue, calls for a finish of terra cotta tile which will be relieved by an elaborate scroll work of early Italian Renaissance design. The interior specifications insist upon the entire first floor being of hardwood. The mezzanine and second floors will be finished in mahogany. Deep window spaces at the double entrances will afford splendid opportunity for window shopping on the part of those who like to trade in Glendale.

CLUB IS FACTOR IN CITY'S GROWTH

Formed to Promote Mutual Interest of Members On Civic Lines

The Thursday Afternoon Club, known originally as the Tropic Thursday Afternoon Club, was organized Jan. 11, 1906, when a group of women met at the home of Mrs. John Hobbs on S. Central avenue for that purpose and, with Mrs. A. W. Collins presiding, elected the following officers: Mrs. John A. Logan, president; Mrs. W. A. Thompson, secretary; Mrs. J. H. Webster, treasurer.

There were seventeen charter members. The meetings were held in the homes of the members on the first and third Thursdays of the month. Although the object of the organization was announced as merely cultural and social, from the very beginning the club became a factor in the civic, philanthropic and educational life of their community and to the original announcement of the object of the organization, "to promote the mutual interests of the members, intellectually and socially," with propriety might be added "and to work for the general betterment in all lines, in every way."

Many Improvements The establishing of the state traveling library which was the nucleus of the Tropic City Library, the installation of the drinking fountain at the corner of Central avenue and San Fernando road, and the purchase of a motion picture machine for the use of the schools in South Glendale are among their contributions to the community life.

The club keeps abreast with the times, the open forum conducted once a month under the direction of Dr. Jessie A. Russell, offering an opportunity to discuss matters, civic, legislative and educational. Two lots are owned by the club on Cypress street near Central avenue and a club home is planned for the near future. At present the second meeting of the month is held at Mrs. A. L. Bancroft's, 1423 S. Brand and the first meeting, the open forum, at K. P. hall, corner of Park and Brand. The membership is about 100. The officers for the present year are Mrs. W. C. Mabry, president; Mrs. E. V. Bacon, first vice president; Mrs. Kemper Campbell, second vice president; Miss Eva Daniels, secretary; Mrs. Roy Bancroft, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. S. E. Browne, treasurer. The club was federated in October, 1906.

Montana Woman Has Herd of Purebred Hogs

HELENA, Mont., March 1.—Montana claims the first woman breeder of refined and aristocratic swine—Mrs. Lillian German, who lives on a farm on the outskirts of Lohman, Blaine County. Her husband is a prominent banker. Always interested in domestic animals, Mrs. German started about a year ago raising purebred pigs. Two sows that were on the Lohman property are the maternal ancestors of her present fine drove of Hampshire swine, some of which have won prizes at agricultural and livestock shows. At present there are 50 sows that will farrow in the spring.

ARTISTIC GROUP FOSTERS BEAUTY

Cultural Education Is Aim of Association Formed to Save Landmark

One of Glendale's recent organizations, the Casa Verdugo Park and Art association, gives gratifying evidence that this city's cultural education is not being neglected.

This association came into being January 21, 1923, with a twofold purpose: first, to foster and nourish the artistic instinct and the love of the beautiful, existing in young and old alike; and second, to preserve if possible, as a permanent headquarters, "La Ramada," the historic old adobe between Stocker and Randolph streets, on North Brand boulevard, which otherwise is to be subdivided into building lots.

The following officers head the association—Mrs. Roy A. Balogh, president; H. C. Swartz, vice-president; Mrs. L. B. Beach, secretary; and Mrs. D. F. Reichard, treasurer.

At the present time the Casa Verdugo Park and Art association numbers over fifty members, a list augmented at every meeting by new candidates. Exhibits of Art The meetings occur the first and third Sundays of each month, 3 o'clock in the afternoon, at La Ramada, and are in the nature of informal receptions, with exhibits of paintings, etchings and sculpture and usually a short lecture by some noted artist.

Since the organization of the association, its members and friends have had the pleasure of seeing a number of very fine exhibits and hearing several instructive and inspiring talks. John W. Cotton, of Glendale, exhibited a series of aqua-tones and etchings there recently; Walter Farrington Moses, manager of the Southern California Art club, delivered a lecture; Ralph Pearson, Theodore Krasnow and H. C. Swartz all showed examples of their work; and the Stendahl Galleries' exhibit was shown recently.

COLLEGE WOMEN'S CLUB IS FORMED

Alumnae of Universities All Over America Are Members

Following the example of college and university women in other cities, over sixty Glendale college and university women met on a recent Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Warren Roberts at 617 East Elk street and organized the College Women's Club of Glendale, under the presidency of Mrs. A. L. Ferguson, Stanford University alumna.

The club is organized along the lines of the University Women's club of Los Angeles and is to meet the second Saturday afternoon in each month.

Mrs. Ferguson's executive board includes: Mrs. Charles Barker, vice-president; Mrs. Helen Moir, secretary; Mrs. Max L. Green, treasurer; Mrs. A. W. Tower, chairman of program; Mrs. Frank Parr, membership; Mrs. Paul Webb, publicity; Mrs. A. A. Barton, scholarship.

HAT QUESTION

Some of the best hats are all silk or all felt or a combination of both. This spring, hats rush to two extremes, large and small. Important hats for afternoon wear are flowered or draped heavily with lace.

CONSTRUCTION WORK IS NOW WELL UNDER WAY ON PLANT OF GLENDALE SANITARIUM AND HOSPITAL

Cost of This Splendid Structure Will Be About $500,000 and Its Location Is Declared to Be Without Equal In the Entire Western Country

Surrounded by oak and walnut trees on the highest point of the beautiful twenty-eight acre tract on Wilson avenue and Sycamore canyon road, the new Glendale Sanitarium will be erected to do its missionary work in the search for "Health and Happiness" that is the first right of mankind. The new building is designed by A. F. Priest; it will be 415 feet in length, contain 128 private rooms, two floors devoted to baths and treatment rooms and a complete X-ray and electrical equipment. The cost of the splendid structure will be about $500,000; it is to be of class A construction, steel, brick and concrete, and steam-heated throughout. The Glendale Sanitarium is owned and conducted by the Seventh-day Adventists and has done much to further the growth of Glendale and attract to the city good citizens. It has a reputation that extends beyond the limits of the state of California, and, in its new location, with all the necessary natural elements to combat disease, it expects to become an institution without an equal in the west.

Control of Patents Aids in Securing Market for Big Output

Starting in business January 6, 1923 at 1533 South San Fernando road under the firm name of Walter H. Alkire, distributor and manufacturer of the Dexter Ironing Board, Mr. Alkire, with himself as cabinet maker, office boy, janitor, business manager, and numerous other offices, has developed a business that today employs from eighteen to twenty-one men working two shifts per day.

During the month of February 500 ironing boards, in addition to large quantities of other built-in fixtures, were manufactured and sold. So far this month orders are booked for nearly 2,000 ironing boards which means that additional equipment must be installed and more men employed to handle the business.

Dexter Built-in Fixtures are sold all over the country, according to Mr. Alkire, who owns the Dexter patents. Flats, apartments and bungalows alike, are nowadays not complete without the modern built-in conveniences. It was a realization of this fact that led Mr. Alkire to begin the manufacture of a business that today employs from eighteen to twenty-one men working two shifts per day.

Valentino and Bride to Rewed on Monday

CHICAGO, March 1.—Rodolfo Valentino and Winifred Hudnut will be rewed in Chicago next Monday afternoon, it was learned today.

The "Sheik" of the movies and his bride were married in Lower California some time ago, but the marriage was held illegal. Incidentally, Miss Jean Acker, former wife of Valentino, is appearing in vaudeville in Chicago under the name of Mrs. Rodolfo Valentino.

The marriage ceremony will be performed in the presence of a small group of friends at the Blackstone, it was said today. After completing their Chicago dancing engagements Valentino and his wife will start on a tour of the country, appearing in cabarets until the expiration of the injunction obtained by the Famous Players-Lasky Company prohibiting the "Sheik" from appearing in moving pictures for a year.

Urges U. S. to Buy Port Site On Gulf

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 1.—The house of representatives of the Arizona legislature unanimously adopted a resolution petitioning the president of the United States to enter into negotiations with Mexico looking to the acquisition by the United States of the strip of land lying between the present boundary between the two countries and a line running due west from Nogales, Ariz., to the Gulf of California. Acquisition of the strip of land would give the United States a port at the head of the Gulf of California.

Senator New Receives Cup From His Friends

WASHINGTON, March 1.—President Harding's appointment of Senator New, Republican, Indiana, to be postmaster general was commended in the senate by Senator Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi.

"No senator in this body has more warm friends than this most distinguished senator from Indiana," said Senator Harrison. Later Senator New was presented with a silver loving cup by his colleagues on the senate territories committee, of which he is chairman.

PLAN PROCEDURE IN WOMEN'S CLUB

Advisory Council Considers Renting of Club House to Raise Revenue

Rules for procedure for the opening and use of the new club house were discussed and tentatively formulated at the meeting yesterday afternoon in the club house of Advisory Council of the Tuesday Afternoon club.

At the call of the president, Mrs. Daniel Campbell, the meeting was held and she was greatly gratified over the presence of the entire membership of the council, which includes all the club officers, curators and chairmen of all committees. There were thirty-four club women present and in cases where council members could not be present representatives were sent.

The opening discussion of the meeting was the use of the new club house for sectional meetings. With the section programs planned for the remainder of the year and the possibilities of rentals before them, the club women decided to let sections carry out their programs, meeting in the club house when possible.

Will Shape Policy
Consideration was given the plan of some women's clubs to confine club activities to possibly two days a week, when section meetings can be held and the regular club meeting take place on two consecutive days. However, the Tuesday Afternoon club women are going to let later developments shape their policy in this matter.

It is their desire to realize as much as possible on the rentals and they have therefore decided to let the rental possibilities and the sectional meetings take time to harmonize into a routine program in the use of the club house.

In planning for the housewarming Monday afternoon, March 12, it was decided that invitations be issued to the officers of the district federation and to the heads of all civic and religious organizations in Glendale to be special guests. Members of the executive board and past presidents will receive, the former in the lounge room and the latter in the foyer of the auditorium. The hours of the reception will be from 3 till 5 o'clock.

Formal Opening
With regard to the formal opening Tuesday night, February 13, the council agreed that, since the event is a regular meeting of the club, no club member will be admitted without her membership card. Announcement of the program for the opening night will be made following the executive board meeting Monday night.

Mrs. W. E. Evans, chairman of the club house furnishings committee, reported on the work of her committee and told the women of some of the wonderful things they are to see in the new club home.

Another gift made known by Mrs. Campbell was a complete set of brushes and mops from the Fuller Brush Company.

Freight Handlers Get 2-Cent Wage Increase

CHICAGO, March 1.—Clerical forces in class one railroads of the country will receive an eight-hour day with time and one half pay for over time, under an order of the United States railroad board, effective today, and an increase of pay of two cents an hour for 65,048 freight handlers and station employees, increasing the annual payrolls of the roads affected by approximately $3,000,000, was included in the order.

While granting the petition of the clerks, numbering 321,226, the railway board denied them a wage increase. One holiday in every seven days was granted the clerks. Many of the system unions of the clerks' organization made new agreements with the railroads prior to the filing of the petition for a wage increase and so are not affected by the board's decision.

Both the clerks' and freight handlers' bodies had petitioned for wage increases, which, if granted, would have restored the peak wages of the war period.

Omission Cost Big Sum to U. S. In Taxes

NEW YORK, March 1.—Through an omission in the internal revenue of a luxury tax on tapestries, the treasury was a loser of $377,000 on the sale of the famous six de La Rochefoucauld tapestries, "The Giant of the Unicorn," which hangs in the home of John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

Rockefeller is reported to have paid $1,150,000 for the six tapestries, the sale being consummated in London. M. Eduard Lacarde, a Parisian art dealer, is reported in art circles to have realized a profit on the deal of about $650,000, since he is said to have purchased the tapestries from Count Gabriel La Rochefoucauld for about $500,000.

Of this stupendous profit the federal income tax would have been $377,000, but M. Lacarde evaded this tax by taking the tapestries to London and completing the sale there. It was denied in Rockefeller's behalf today that the tapestries ever had hung in his home before the sale was made in England.

An oil engine was substituted for the steam in connection with motor cars in 1885.

STEADY INCREASE IN GIRL SCOUTS

Four Troops Included in Organization Starting With Sixteen Members

The Girl Scout movement in Glendale dates from 1920, when Miss Gladys Sharpe organized Troop 1, of which she is captain. This troop made its first appearance in the Armistice Day parade of that year, with its charter membership of sixteen.

Troop 1 now contains thirty-four girls, under four patrols. The officers' ranks have been increased by a lieutenant, Miss May Stanley.

Three other troops have since been added to the Glendale Girl Scouts—Troop 2, in charge of Miss Vera Sinclair; Troop 3, in charge of Miss Frances Jackson, assisted by Mrs. R. C. Horner; and Troop 4, a new troop, in charge of Miss Margaret Sharpe, sister of Captain Gladys Sharpe of the charter troop.

The troops are not organized under a council at the present

Jas. J. Jeffries Files Bankruptcy Petition

LOS ANGELES, March 1.—Once rated as a millionaire, James J. Jeffries, former world's champion boxer, is financially broke, according to a petition in bankruptcy on file in federal court here today.

The former ring champion, in the petition, stated his total liabilities were $292,183 and his assets were $130,950, which consisted mostly of real estate valued at $124,500. Among his holders of notes are three Los Angeles banks, the Inyo county bank and several others. Listed as security for his notes was his 640 acre ranch near Wasco in Kern county and his half interest in a 238-acre tract near here. Recently the former fighter acquired a ranch near Burbank, where he has made his home. In the petition he gave his occupation as a farmer.

time, although plans are being prepared to create such an organization.

As now constituted, each troop is a separate entity, holding its meetings independent of the others, with no special hours for these meetings, which are usually held at the homes of various members in rotation.

When You Build

TAKE YOUR AUTO for instance. How did you come to select that particular make? Why those tires, that carburetor? Or, for example, that suit you are wearing. Who made it for you, and why?

You are proud of your car because of the way it runs; its speed; its power; its beautiful lines. And your suit fits perfectly, etc.

In all these things, your taste was most discriminating; your judgment good. BUT MORE IMPORTANT than your auto, your suit, or almost anything is YOUR PLUMBING. It plays a more important part in your life. It is more intimately associated with your health, your personal appearance, your success.

Then why not use the same good judgment; the same discriminating taste. SELECT YOUR PLUMBING PERSONALLY. BUY IT DIRECT from a good, reliable plumber. Don't leave this all-important thing to a middle-man, a general contractor, or to anyone. Talk it over personally with one of the members of the Sanitary Development League of Southern California. They are high-class, successful business men. Their words and their goods are reliable.

ADVENTURING IN BOOKS IS URGED

Writer of Famous Romances Advises Readers to Voyage by Proxy

"Adventuring by Proxy" is the title of an able article recently published in The San Francisco Examiner by William Prohme and in referring to the constant paradox, he says:

Here's Frederick O'Brien. He has become better known in the past few years than any romantic traveler and adventurer in the history of literature. More folks in the United States and England today know Frederick O'Brien than ever heard of Marco Polo. And while they have heard of the latter, they have read at least one of O'Brien's three books about the romantic South Seas.

And yet, there is Frederick O'Brien, sitting in his house in Glendale, and writing an article which advises us all to take our traveling and adventuring vicariously, through books which one may comfortably read in slippers and dressing gown sitting before a fireplace.

Few Adventurers

This is what he says in an article in "The Book Review":

"A hundred letters to me say that their writers failed to find romance they went avidly to the South Seas. A score found the lotus, they said, and loved it. But for him who has not been driven in his youth from the shelter of his home to the far-away places of the globe, better to sit in quiet and comfort on the deck by the fireside, with the mind's anchor up, and a fair wind of joyous vicariousness in the wanderings and hazards of one who has been early urged by type to a search for his author's pictures in reality."

"This is said in seriousness. Few are fitted by enthusiasm of spirit, comparisons of knowledge, freedom from conventions, and ease of manner and conscience, to see the lives and dwellings of others as the great travel writers have seen them. For, while one must have experiences or learning with which to match one's new phenomena for its illumination, one must not be prejudiced by convictions or inhibited by geographical morals from estimating at their proper and romantic values and, if need be, participating in the events and customs of strange peoples."

Must Be Vagabond

One must be a vagabond at heart to do this and to write it down so that it strikes the reader as truth, as beauty or as wonder. One must love and esteem that which one writes about to give it the dignity and vividness of fact, and one must forget one's own gods and gods to act and worship—even if with intention later to recant—at the theater and altar of the exotic.

"All the great travelers from Marco Polo to Melville, and those of today, have done this, or failed to win in readers tribute to their genius. The lack of this quality is the one absence in a travel book that, despite erudition, persistence and, even striking attainment of object, removes it from the consideration of most readers. They demand the magic carpet woven of sympathy and style that removes them from their own commonplace environment, sets them down at the sumptuous feast of the foreign and the fascinating, and makes them, too, singers of the alien songs, and dancers in the

BUILDER ERECTS "HOMEY" HOUSES

Henry Michel Has Extensive Building Program On Hand at Present

Henry Michel, "Builder of Homes," 255 West Dryden street, has an extensive building program mapped out for the next sixty days. This program schedules four five-room houses and one twenty-family apartment house.

An epoch in the development of Glendale was marked by the construction of Pendroy's Department store on the northeast corner of Brand boulevard and Harvard street which represents an investment of a quarter of a million dollars. Pendroy's offers the shoppers all the advantages of the big department stores of Pasadena and Los Angeles. It was the first of many such enterprises that are now being demanded by the people of Greater Glendale. The architectural beauty of this modern building was designed by Alfred F. Priest of 1422 North Central avenue. His ideas were put into brick and stone under the direction of the Roy L. Kent Construction Company of 130 South Brand boulevard. The building was built for John G. Huntley 1434 North Highland avenue and Attorney W. E. Evans of 333 North Orange avenue. It was planned especially to accommodate the Pendroy Dry Goods Company which is directed by Earle C. Pendroy.

In Glendale, and fourteen five-room houses in Eagle Rock. The Eagle Rock homes will be along Colorado street, while those in Glendale will be scattered, some on Dryden street and others elsewhere. The apartment houses will be erected on Brand boulevard.

Thirteen years of highly successful building experience are behind this program. Much of Mr. Michel's success, he feels, is due to his ability to build "homey" homes, he they ever so large or small. Another contributory factor is the easy terms he offers to the home-seeker.

Corpus Christi, Texas, has become one of the leading shrimp marketing centers in the United States.

Paterson, N. J., manufactures more silk than any other city in the world.

maddening flings of a different folk."

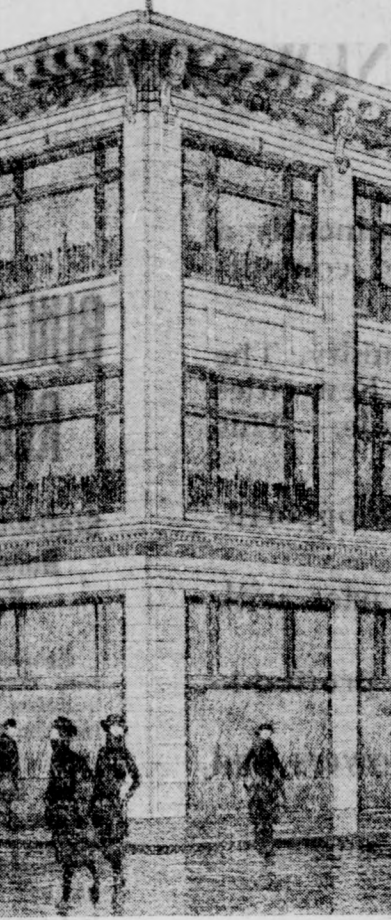

The advice of Mr. Brisbane did not dissuade his hearers. Neither will the words of O'Brien deter some men and women from hitting the trail that leads toward romantic adventure.

Settlement of Ruhr Troubles Seen in Feelers Sent Out From Berlin

BERLIN, March 1.—Significant "feelers" looking towards Franco-German Ruhr negotiations have been exchanged in Berlin in the last forty-eight hours. It was learned today.

The "feelers" have an important American angle. Indeed, if the proposition that has been broached should be realized it would mean that France would pay its war debts to England and America with shares of a proposed gigantic Franco-German industrial trust formation. Such a trust is the basis for the secret conferences that have been going on.

Chaplin-Negri Marriage Indefinitely Postponed

HOLLYWOOD, March 1.—For two and sound reasons, so simple as to have been overlooked by everyone except the two concerned, Charlie Chaplin, king of comedians, and his fiancée, Pola Negri, famous Polish actress, will not be married within the immediate future. Just when they would be a question that has the film capital wondering today.

The reasons, as given by Chaplin, are: Too busy and too poor. "This is a working world, and we have all got to stay busy and steer clear of climates of sentiment. Besides, I am too poor to get married now," said the actor.

It had been thought Chaplin and Miss Negri would be married in March or about Easter.

Business Men of City in Association: Information Proves of Value

The Glendale Credit Association, with offices in the Citizens Building on South Brand, came into being as the inevitable result of the growth of the city itself and for the protection of its merchants, as well as for the advancement of meritorious business projects in which its members could co-operate, as an association, with other organizations that are working for the good of Glendale.

The association was formed in December, 1921, and already it includes in its membership the leading merchants of the city, with new members coming in at practically every weekly meeting, until it is predicted by the officials that a very short time will see every business man in the San Fernando Valley will be enrolled on its lists.

Women Warblers Sing On Streets of Paris

PARIS, March 1.—"The Warblers" are beginning their twenty-second year of singing in Paris.

These warblers are not song-birds, but song-women and young girls who prefer the airs of Dupont and Beranger to "Mou Homme" and "J'en ai Marri," as sung by Mistinguett.

In 1904 there were about 120 of these songsters in the capital. Ten years later, in 1914, there were more than 400. Even during war days, under the menace of Gothas and Big Berthas, the "Fauvettes" kept on singing with hearts not always gay.

Working-women, most of them, with a natural French feeling for what is beautiful and a fine good taste, they are not only sensitive to melody but to fine verses. They are particularly fond of Lamartine and the old tunes of long ago.

"Sentimental songs are the favorites," says Mme. Raymond Barband, the director. "The women naturally do not care much for patriotic airs."

For those who wish to learn Paris' latest tunes there are always the free lessons on the street corners at luncheon hour. Crowds gather around two or three musicians and a singer who starts the air urges the public to join in. One of them passes about a pile of copies, sold at a franc apiece. The singer's boy stuns his peddling and buys a copy. The old market-woman puts her basket down long enough to sing a verse, and the little minnettes have time to learn the whole song before 2 o'clock sends them back humming to their workrooms in the Rue de la Paix.

Germany's Debts Are Climbing With Speed

BERLIN, March 1.—Germany will close this month with the present floating debt of more than three and a third trillion marks climbing rapidly toward the fourth trillion at the rate of more than fifty billions daily. Although the government is relieved of the expense of reparations deliveries to France and Belgium, payments and deliveries to the Reparations Commission and other states are being made regularly.

Contrary to the impression in certain American circles, Germany considers herself still bound by the Versailles obligations except for the suspension of reparations to the two invading states. The coal imports in January were 1,870,000 tons, against the 1,000,000 tons monthly average in 1922. The increase due to the Ruhr occupation will be much larger for February.

PERFUME MAKING

From December until March perfumeries of Grasse, France, convert patchouli, an East Indian herb, sandalwood, rosewood and other non-floral materials into perfumes, and after March are busy with fresh flowers.

GLENDALE CREDIT BODY IS GROWING

Insistent Demand for More Room Causes Expansion of Local System

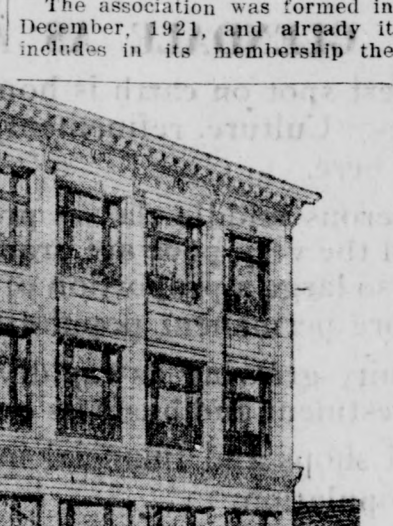

"Good homes" in Glendale is synonymous with "good schools."

Growing pains are the pet ailments of the local school system. School executives have been kept on the jump lately to expand the school system fast enough to keep pace with the growth of the community. However, all children of school age in the district are now being accommodated and the outlook is regarded by local educators as hopeful.

Glendale Union high school's new plant on the southeast corner of Verdugo road and Broadway is now under construction. This will cost over $500,000 exclusive of the furnishings. This institution will be ready with the commencement of the next term.

A school bond election for $500,000 to enlarge nearly all of the grammar schools will be held March 15. One of the principal reasons for this election, according to Supt. Richardson D. White, is the fact that the school enrollment has increased 178 per cent in five years while classroom accommodations have increased only 98 per cent.

The enrollment at the district high school is now over 1800 while at the grammar schools it is over 4000.

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 1.—Revelry in a hotel here culminating in a game of "strip poker," according to the police, today ended in death for a woman known as Esther Anson, and whose home is said to be in New York.

The woman committed suicide, her friends said, by shooting, when she went to a room adjoining the one where the game was in progress to divest herself of her last garment. She had previously "lost" all her other garments. She was found following a shot, clad in a suit of pajamas, lying on the floor with a bullet through her head.

PUBLIC UTILITY GROWTH IS TOLD

Installation of Water and
Light Meters Affords
Increase Record

The growth of Glendale is well illustrated in statistics on file at the public service department in the city hall.

James F. McIntyre, commercial agent for this branch of the city administration, stated recently that the steady demand for new water meters indicates that the expansion of the community is continuous.

Almost forty-five miles of water pipe have been laid since the first of January, 1922, according to Peter Deiderich, superintendent of the distribution of water and electricity for the public service department of the city of Glendale.

Over 38 Miles

The value of pipe laid last year was $304,451.70. This sum was divided as follows: $150,715.50 for 115,935 feet of four-inch pipe; $43,219.20 for 27,012 feet of six-inch pipe; $46,000.90 for 24,211 feet of eight-inch pipe; $3345 for 1338 feet of ten-inch pipe, and $12,254.30 for 3953 feet of twelve-inch pipe.

Exclusive of eight-inch joints, which occupied 30,573 feet and cost $48,916.80, the total number of feet of pipe laid last year was 203,022 or 38.6 miles.

About 120 water meters and 170 light meters were installed during the month just past. Over 9650 homes in Glendale are being served with electricity while over 7700 water meters are busy measuring the Verdugo Hills brand of aqua pura. Many apartment houses, flat buildings and duplexes have joint water meters.

GLENDALE AS A HOME CITY

—"The dearest spot on earth is home." Glendale is pre-eminently a city of homes. Culture, refinement, security, quietude and contentment prevail here.

—The prosperous middle classes predominate in this community. The very rich and the very poor are practically unknown here. Few cities can boast of so large a proportion of home owners as Glendale. This insures a more permanent population.

—A community growing as rapidly as Glendale offers many opportunities for investment and business enterprise.

—Stores and shops and financial institutions are keeping pace with increasing population.

—The growing of oranges, lemons and deciduous fruits is a profitable source of income.

—The raising of vegetables, small fruits, nursery stock, flowers and other products bring good returns.

—Poultry raising is making dividends for many of our citizens.

—Local dairies are prospering.

—Realty values in Glendale are still low when compared with other cities of like size. Steadily increasing population has given stability to values here, without inflation. Shrewd investors are making substantial profits on realty investments.

—Residents of Glendale enjoy a broad field of endeavor, brought to their very door by superior rapid transit facilities—the great San Fernando valley, with its infinite possibilities, and the throbbing, pulsating city of Los Angeles, with a commercial and manufacturing future which can hardly be overestimated.

—Glendale might well be known as "City of Opportunity."

SALIENT POINTS

—The location of Glendale is ideal. The gentle slope to the southwest gives perfect drainage. The mountains to the north and east protect it from winds, and yet aid in precipitating and conserving the moisture needed for vineyards, fields and citrus groves that enrich the community.

—An altitude of about 600 feet above the level of the sea removes the lassitude so often felt in tropical climes. The healthfulness of this section has brought to our midst several sanitariums, notably a thriving branch of the famous Battle Creek institution.

—Pure mountain water in abundance is conserved in the natural gravel beds of Verdugo canyon and in artificial reservoirs for domestic and other use.

NOTABLE POINTS

—Glendale is famous for its beautiful homes. Along the foothills some of the most charming homes of America are being built. The bungalow type, with its air of comfort and convenience, predominates. Our streets are well improved with cement walks and paving; are lined with shade trees and amply lighted at night. Ornamental lights and electroliers beautify many streets.

EDUCATIONAL FACILITIES

—Glendale is justly proud of its schools. The best talent is employed in its teaching force. Imposing buildings are being erected to meet the rapidly growing demands. The capacity of the High School is being doubled by a new $700,000 High School building. New Grammar Schools are being provided for. Pupils have every modern facility.

—A commodious Public Library is well stocked with books.

—Occidental College is only a few minutes' ride by trolley from the heart of Glendale. Numerous colleges and universities are of easy access by trolley.

CAR SERVICE

Eight miles by rapid transit over a scenic route, occupying 25 minutes, takes one to the heart of Los Angeles. The business men of Los Angeles can thus have their homes in this charming suburb, and bring up their families under ideal conditions.

BUILDING ACTIVITY

No city of its size in California is more favorably known than Glendale. Everybody has a good word for it. The building permits of the past few years reflect a steady growth, in volume equal to that of much larger cities.

Financial disturbances, wars and rumors of war do not retard this growth. It is more than keeping pace with the mighty city that lies at its door.

The Gayest of Patterns for Spring

With the coming of spring what woman does not feel a longing for exquisitely lovely colors after the somber winter ones?

The softening air and the first sunny days suggest the glorious colorings of summer. So now Dame Fashion, ever capricious and inconstant, selects new shades for her favorites. And one of the first of these is green—Lavin green. Even the name has an enchanting sound. The color is that soft, delicate green like fresh, unopened grass. How exquisitely refreshing it will be on the hot days to come. Green suggesting, as it does, fresh growing things and the soft shadows of trees, makes you feel and look deliciously cool. And still another favorite is Madeleine rose. It is an old saying that a woman in love longs for a rose-colored gown and fresh violets. Perhaps instinctively she knows how flattering is this delicately warm shade. But this summer when a riot of color is all the rage, all the light, bright shades are quite in vogue.

But these colors, instead of being in the flat tones which have predominated for so many months, are found in the most intricate and unusual designs on a neutral background. In fact, this passion for the allover design is the most distinctive characteristic of the season. Almost every fabric used is printed, beaded or embroidered over every seemingly available inch of its surface.

Long Lines Newest
The gracefully becoming, long lines are still the newest—yet they are not the same, for in some subtle way we seem to grow cleverer in our ability to drape them with more artful simplicity. Oftentimes the newer frocks are caught into an elaborate buckle on the left hip—buckles of strangely wrought gold or clear, gleaming crystal or richly colored stones. At other times they are caught into knots of the material, forming a little draping on that side.

Simplicity in Frocks
An evening frock of the approved Greek simplicity which is most becoming to the slender figure has a deep "V" neck in the front and back. The frock hangs straight but both the back and front are draped into a huge pearl ornament on the left hip. From this ornament hang long strands of pearls which almost reach the ground. Underneath this ornament the skirt opens to show the gleaming silver of an underskirt. It is in clever ways like this that the long, straight lines are made possible for dancing or walking without the graceless, mincing step of the too tight skirt.

Modes of Afternoon Frocks

It is on the glorious sunshiny days of summer when one watches the sunlight sparkling on the waves and the yellow sands or spends a deliciously lazy afternoon in the cool shadows of the country club porch, that the season shows her loveliest interpretations of the mode for afternoon frocks. It is on just such an occasion that one will be permitted to see a beautiful little georgette frock, made quite simply with a light blouse and a little draping at the side, where the material falls in a point just below the hem line. But it will owe its smartness to the myriad beads which gleam and glisten on its soft, dull surface. Perhaps this frock will be sleeveless, for the sleeveless afternoon frock is quite the rage, but it will be just as much in fashion if its whimsical wearer happens to prefer a little short, tight sleeve or one of those wing-like extensions which have recently been serving as sleeves.

If one wanders further on such a day, one is certain to meet one of those—faily-patterned silk crepe frocks. It is in these frocks that the mode fully expresses its present love of color in strange interwoven designs. These all-over patterns are on a white or neutral background, but the brightest, gaudiest colors lend their decorative touch to the intricate traceries of the design.

Voile for Sultry Weather
The cool freshness of voile is so alluring on sultry days, so if you choose you can express the mode charmingly in a frock of voile quite as brilliantly figured as the silk ones. Other dainty little frocks achieve this same effect by having the figures embroidered.

It is not in the least surprising that the coat frock is a very great favorite again, for it would be difficult to conceive of anything either more stunning or more practical. However, they have certain marked differences from the coat frocks we wore last year.

Now and again one sees a slender little miss with a graceful circular skirt, but more often the skirt is straight with first a circular flare introduced into it. One charming coat frock of serge has a circular flare of crepe set in at the closing of the frock. This is not only smart, but extremely practical as it gives freedom for walking without destroying the straight one-piece effect. The wide rever which covers almost the entire front of the waist is of this same crepe.

Unusual and Varied Sleeve
But doubtless the most cleverly varied and unusual part of the afternoon frock is its sleeve. The long, tight sleeve is the greatest favorite of the coat frock. But it must never be a plain, tight sleeve. Far from it. Over some long, slender hand will fall a circular cuff reaching to the knuckles. Or in a gay cavalier fashion this circular cuff will be turned back forming a gauntlet. Then another tight sleeve admiring this gauntlet fashion will assume three gauntlets whose combined efforts almost reach the elbow. Or a favored way is to have three circular flares turned down, the top one a few inches below the elbow and the lowest one falling over the hand. The sleeve of the satin or chiffon frock may start out to be long and tight, but at the elbow it is very apt to change its mind and end by being full and flowing, quite as fashionably, however, it may be a full flowing sleeve straight from the shoulder.

The three-piece suit is still in high favor for spring. It is such a convenient and becoming costume, particularly for afternoon, when one drops into a restaurant for tea or goes calling. The lovely blouses which peep forth as one opens the jacket make really a very dressy costume, appropriate for almost any and every function of the afternoon.

An almost limitless choice is offered your fancy when you are choosing the blouses for one of these suits. If your taste inclines to the Oriental, a blouse of Persian patterned silk will suit the mode as well as your personality. Of course, it will be long, waisted, cut to fit snugly about the hips or gathered into a tightly fitted band.

Now and again a button cleverly placed will hold the jacket so snugly about the hips that it has a tendency toward a slight blouse or perhaps it would be quite frankly a little blouse and gathered into a tight band at the hips. With these jackets the line of the skirt is straight. There may be a little draping at one side, but not a circular flare.

Variations in These Suits
As often as not the three-piece suit consists of a dress instead of a skirt and a costume blouse. Whether you golf or whether you motor or whether you are just an interested spectator on the sidelines of sports, of course, you are wearing sports clothes. For the sports costume, which year by year has been becoming more and more popular, has reached the topnotch of fashion and is just the thing to be worn almost every hour of the day. It may be because we are more keen for sports, it may be the effect of the ever-present country club, but surely one great reason is its youthful dash and smartness. It is so unusually becoming to every age and type.

Jaquette Sport Favorite
The Jaquette or overblouse which was worn so much last season is here in a new form for sports. Fashioned of various novelty cotton materials, all vividly figured, or of colorful rayon, they bid fair to be in high favor for a morning on the links.

Among the newest sweaters for the women actively engaged in sports are rather mannish ones. Many of these are checked in a tiny diamond shape pattern with a plain border or sometimes with plain sleeves also.

Of course, the high round neck sweater is still very good. And even more daringly original are the strange designs which encircle it. In addition to the American Indian designs there are new and even more gorgeously elaborate figures. The slip-on sweater also shows the allover diamond-shape checks. But, whatever kind of a sweater you choose, one thing is certain—if you are slim it must be bettless.

Finely Pleated Kasha Cloth
There is a little grace about finely pleated Kasha cloth, which makes it particularly suitable for our more active hours. In white, gray or a soft tan, worn with the vividly patterned blouses or sweaters, it makes a costume which will be seen frequently at the most fashionable country clubs. And as beautifully lined as the rainbow are the figured silk crepe skirts, fashion's latest creation. Of course, these are particularly lovely with the single tone blouses. The new wool or silk-and-wool skirts are severely distinguished by unusual button hole loops and pockets, and now and then drawn work.

But no mention of the sports costume is even half begun until one has heard all about the handkerchiefs—for in all verity it has seized the most important place in our wardrobe. The more gaudily colored these silk handkerchiefs for that is the handkerchief's newest form—the smarter they are. Some are tied loosely about the neck in true cowboy fashion with the knot in front or on the shoulder. Others deftly knotted about the hips form a fascinating girdle for a long-waisted frock.

GERMANS STRIVE OCEAN COMEBACK

Much New Tonnage Built And Old Bottoms Are Bought Back

By KARL M. ELISH
For International News Service
BERLIN, Feb. 27.—While the question of a merchant marine subsidy has been hanging fire in the United States, Germany's shipping interests, unaided by their government and handicapped by the adverse action of the allies at Versailles, have been busily sawing wood in an effort to reconstruct their merchant marine, practically destroyed by the treaty of Versailles. Shipyards have been working at a feverish rate building new vessels, and hundreds of vessels surrendered to the English as reparations have been repurchased.

Since July, 1921, German shipping interests have bought 130 vessels, with a gross tonnage of 491,567 tons, from English concerns. That is, in six months approximately 10 per cent of the shipping lost to Germany as a result of the war was restored to the German flag.

Sailing Vessels Also
The Hamburg American and North German Lloyd lines led the list of purchasers, with twelve and ten vessels, totaling 58,178 and 64,714 tons, respectively. The Hamburg-South American line bought nine vessels, totaling 64,525 tons. Hugo Stinnes bought four ships, with a tonnage of 31,075.

In addition to steamers, German interests have been busily acquiring sailing vessels, the firm of F. Laeisz having purchased seventeen big clippers, totaling 32,772 tons.

German activity in construction is indicated by the fact that in October 46,400 tons of shipping was launched and $6,800 tons completed. The total estimated tonnage of the German merchant marine on November 1 is estimated at 2,084,100 tons.

SPORT FEATURES

Features of the spring for sport wear are the simple frocks, plaited skirts with the still-smart jacket, made in unusual and beautiful fabrics. It is noticeable that short-sleeved smock blouses, loosely belted at the hips, blouses of crepe de chine or tricot in white, red, yellow, bright green, are worn with skirts, usually white.

YARBROUGH HAT SHOP

108 WEST BROADWAY

As the coiffure follows the fashion of the frock and shows more and more artful simplicity, the bandeaux become more elaborate. Just as many gowns seem but a gracefully becoming background to the chains, bracelets, buckles and earrings which are the strikingly vivid notes of the smart costume, so the simple coiffure allows the bandeaux to display its full splendor.

Particularly new are the broad gold or silver bands, many of them intricately woven and rising to a becoming little peak over the forehead. Others are gorgeously trimmed with pearls or flowers which wend their fascinating way across the head and fall in two clusters over the ears. Less extreme, but quite as lovely, are the narrow bandeaux of silver leaves or tiny ostrich strand flowers in delicate shades to match the frock. For the woman who is a little older, the constructive bandeau of jet gives a most becoming dignity.

Fashionable Types of Earrings
And almost as necessary to the complete costume are the earrings. In fact, unless the bandeau has cluster over the ears, earrings are usually seen with them. And, impossible as it may sound, they are growing longer and more elaborate than ever. Stones of every imaginable color and with a strange barbaric charm about them vie with onyx and the clear beauty of crystal for greatest popularity. And fashioned of gold are some Bacchante-like clusters of grapes.

Bracelets Are the Vogue
Naturally, this year when jewelry and novelty jewelry is all-important, bracelets are quite the vogue. The upper arm bracelet has always been beautiful, but it is particularly becoming with sleeveless frocks. Some of them are of wide carved dark shell, to accentuate the white loveliness of an arm while others are of many stones ending in pendants which match the earrings. But, whichever way your particular fancy may lead you, one thing is certain—novelty jewelry of some sort must add its piquant touch to your costume.

New Mexico Tourist Victim of Assault

LOS ANGELES, March 1.—His clothes covered with blood and his face showing many cuts and bruises, Howard Brooks, 45, a tourist from Clovis, N. M., staggered to the front porch of the home of Mrs. Mary Loyola in Hurley street where he fainted. Deputy Sheriff Cooper who was hastily summoned, took the unconscious man to the county hospital, where he revived and told a disconnected story of having been beaten over the head and robbed by "friends" with whom he had been riding in an automobile.

EVENING CHAPEAUX
Another springtime pleasure is the evening hat for the gay hours of dining and dancing. According to the decree of Paris, the evening hat is a small, intriguing affair, often a tight little cap of silver.

Theatre Magnate Will Cut Price of Tickets

CHICAGO, March 1.—A announcement of a reduction in theatre ticket prices to pre-war levels, effective March 18, in theatres controlled by A. H. Woods, was made here by Lou Housman, the producer's western representative.

Two dollars as a "top" was the interpretation put on "pre-war prices" in theatrical circles. Orchestra seats for non-musical shows now usually are $2.50 in Chicago, with $3 taken for musical attractions.

Other Chicago managers said they would follow Woods' lead.

AFTERNOON GOWN
For the afternoon, there is no doubt about it, sleeves are so short that they simply do not exist. Altho a variety of colors are being shown black is still decidedly in good graces for afternoon gowns and hats.

GARDEN BENCH IS ATTRACTIVE SPOT

Here Are Some Suggestions On Ways and Means of Beautification

By MARJORIE HOWE DIXON
It seems just about impossible to make a garden or lawn ugly and yet some people are able to manage it. The particular specimen of bad taste that distresses most of us is the placing of a large urn exactly in the center of a small bare lawn. And some way this urn is always filled with brick red geraniums and cerise petunias, the two unhappy types of plants usually allowed to die lingering and straggly death, through lack of water. Why will they do it?

If one likes urns, and they are always so attractive in the right setting, why not place a pair of them at the foot of the steps? That is a somewhat usual arrangement but at least it is always good. There, they may appropriately hold either plants or small trees.

Arranging the Garden
In a large garden so many interesting possibilities open up for charming vistas, unexpected nooks, and picturesque arrangements of both plants and garden furniture. Pathways leading one curiously about, and then suddenly showing a quaint lumpy old stone bench just around the corner, where one may rest and read or meditate—well such a pathway justifies its existence. And if a small ravine must be crossed, a decidedly decorative bit is a small stone bridge covered with vines or flowers.

In the formal garden the sundial may be centrally placed, with great dignity, on a pedestal, either side of its special plot. And at the extreme end of such a vista a summer house of light looking lattice work whimsically crowned with a curious weather vane, may invite one to sit and think awhile. Terraced gardens afford many opportunities for the imagination to play with. One I have in mind has a brick wall running along at an even rate, until it suddenly rises. There one is well rewarded for looking over and beyond. At his feet he will find a beautiful little pool. In the midst of ferns, vines and flowers a laughing cupid on a pedestal lets a tiny jet of water splash into the pool below.

Another opportunity in a terraced garden is an arrangement of steps to descend to the lower levels. One would journey a long ways to see one particular bit, an opening in a hedge arched over with the delicate blooms of roses. And there below one would find circular stone steps leading away to other romances. But before one departs, he will have to stop just a moment to admire a pair of urns almost hidden in the foliage at the foot of the rose vines.

A terrace of brick open to the sky and all out-of-doors, affords

ROTARY CLUB IS FORCE FOR GOOD

Organization Lives Up to Club Motto in Its Activity In Glendale

The Glendale chapter of the Rotary club meets at luncheon every Thursday, in the Chamber of Commerce hall. It is composed of thirty-four active local business men, representing that number of diverse occupations. Its motto is: "He profits most who serves best," and its aim is to eliminate misunderstanding between citizen and citizen, town and town, state and state, nation and nation—thus working for a better world.

The officers of the club are the following: Roy L. Kent, president; George Karr, vice president; J. Herbert Smith, secretary; R. E. Olin, assistant secretary; William Howe, treasurer. The local board of directors includes Valentine Hollister, Charles Cooper and Harry Webb.

OUTDOOR COATS

Camel's hair and nappy material are being used for the top coat, which will have some call for the next few months, especially among the class of women who make outdoor sports a part of the daily curriculum.

LACY SUGGESTION

Real lace, in fact, all sorts of lace, will have an active run this season because of its use in collars and berthas, to be worn with the tight basque and full skirt model.

a pleasant background for stone furniture with many possibilities for unusual arrangement. A great fish pond decorates one such terrace, a stone bowl of great size making the pool. At one side stands a stone table with carved legs like the Italian tables we know so well. At the other side stands a companion piece with similar carving only this latter is an inviting bench. Against the brick wall of the house, filling a useful place, is an oval jardiniere of large proportions, this, too, on carved legs. From the jardiniere climb pretty vines to decorate and hide the brick wall.

From the dining room of another house one may look out toward the owner's special joy, an octagonal pool with a fountain playing in the center of it. A grass path travels about the pool and is outlined with flower beds in glowing colors. Just beyond, forming a background to the fountain is a balustrade of stone, hemming a flagstone court. Here one may rest, if one will, on a low stone bench, one placed at either end of the flags. And one could stay some time enjoying the prospect, for fat squabbling ducks are splashing and playing about in the pool.

To Top the Mode with Smartness

by Muriel Mertens

It is often said—and quite truly—that you can always tell when a woman is wearing a new hat by the gratified, pleased expression on her face. Somehow, with a becoming new hat she feels well dressed, no matter how old and shabby her frock or her coat may be. And a smart hat really does set off the costume as well as the face, marvelously. But perhaps the newest idea is to have a hat which is suitable and appropriate with the rest of one's costume. In fact, the real secret of being well dressed is the ability to wear things that go well together and are becoming to you. The woman who has very few costumes, but makes them complete by having her hat just perfectly suited to her frock and her shoes, gloves and hosiery in perfect accord, will always look well dressed.

even though she wears that same costume every day in the year. Unless one keeps strict rein on one's self, one is apt to see some charming little hat in a shop window whose great appeal lies in the fact that it is wholly different from the things we have and of which we are terribly tired. If, in addition to this, it is becoming and the saleslady is clever—we are lost and buy it without further thought. But this really is not necessary, for never before have we been offered such countless varieties and variations of the millinery mode. For street wear the little felt cloche is still quite the smartest. Generally the crown of the cloche is high and is either rounded or cone shaped. But in the brim and in the trimming the variation is infinite. One smart little model has a narrow brim turned down so sharply in front that it resembles a bonnet and in the back it goes to the other extreme and turns up so abruptly that it is flat to the crown of the head. It is trimmed with a fuzzy little pompon far back on the right side. This tendency is seen on countless smart hats. The trimming is way back on the right side and now then even moving right to the back. Another smart cloche has a narrow trim turned up on the left side and abruptly down on the right. Flat against the crown, pointing down to the right shoulder is a quill. Frequently one will see a little ribbon cockade sewed flat to the crown of the hat. Still other styles of the cloche will be turned up in the front and an extremely narrow brim turned down in the back. When this is the case a fluffy little pompon will be seen clinging closely to the right cheek.

Stiff Felt in Vogue
A very unusual combination has recently come into great vogue with these stiff felt hats. A narrow binding of silver or gold on the edge of the brim and sometimes a band of this same cloth around the crown. The felt hats of any of the many shades of gray are trimmed with silver cloth, while those of brown favor the gold. In these little hats, dark blue and black are conspicuous by their absence.

For sports wear this felt mode is quite the most popular. The shape is just the same as the street hat, but the trimming is much more simple. The ever favored silk bandanna is drawn tightly across the turned-down brim of many a smart little hat which will take its way around the golf course some sunny morning. And the wearer of a felt cloche with a flat ribbon cockade is certain to be seen that very same day, so popular is this style. Even silver cloth made its appearance for sport wear when the hat was of a beautiful white.

The soft felt hat which may be modeled to the wearer's every mood is just right for sports wear, though it is not worn with a street frock.

Hats for Afternoon wear
With the hat to be worn with an afternoon frock feathers are in high favor, but invariably they are turned down and reach far below the brim of the hat. The crowns of these hats are so generally rounded and cone shaped that a square crown is quickly noticeable, though they do make their appearance now and then. A lovely little hat worn at a very fashionable tea recently had a small turn-down brim, and an uncured ostrich plume which started at the middle of the back of the crown and falling over the right ear curved gracefully under the charming wearer's chin. Almost every feather used tries to follow this same general line.

Frequently one will see an ostrich feather plucked so that the feathery part is just a little pompon at the end.

Strange, unheard of birds, if they have long, curving feathery tails, are also quite at the height of the mode.

Modes of the Large Hat
When the large hat is worn it is usually very large, sometimes with the brim much wider in back than in front. And where a woman finds a large hat more becoming she may quite properly select one. One large black hat was trimmed with a band of silver ribbon which fell through a slit in the brim in two large loops over the right ear. Many a gracefully draped veil is used in this same manner.

In fact, this tendency of all trimming to go to the right was carried out to such an extent by one smart Parisian that she wore a long sinuous carrying on the right ear only, leaving the left ear quite unadorned. It hardly seems likely that many Americans will carry this fashion to such an extreme but it does show how strong this tendency is.

However, these large hats do not as yet enjoy the popularity of the smaller one. And, though they may burst into highest favor any day, it is hardly possible that the fashion will continue for long.

With the soft, dainty summer dresses the hat is usually softer, though there may be a little stiffening in the brim. It is a very charming fashion, too, to keep our stiffer hats for our more tailored costume. And a soft crushed little model is so lovely with a dainty dress.

Evening Hat to Return
It is rumored that the evening hat, which has been absent so long is returning to high favor. It is really quite a natural development when one stops to think about it. Bandoaux have been growing wider and more elaborate than ever. So some clever milliner just put a tulle top on a wide bandeau and the evening hat was in vogue. And after it had gone that far naturally little tulle brims were added. This does not mean that the bandeau is going out. Just the opposite. For the wider and more elaborate the bandeau that is worn with a formal frock, the smarter the costume. It just shows our tendency to wear some sort of head covering at every possible moment. This desire for headgear is certain to last while the bobbed heads are growing out, for it solves many a problem of hair dressing. And the person to whom the simple smooth style of coiffure is unbecoming—and unfortunately there are many such—is sure to follow this fashion with enthusiasm.

Veils Winning Favor
The veil is enjoying high favor this season and quite deservedly. On a windy, blustery day a long sinuous carrying on the right ear only, leaving the left ear quite unadorned. It hardly seems likely that many Americans will carry this fashion to such an extreme but it does show how strong this tendency is. However, these large hats do not as yet enjoy the popularity of the smaller one. And, though they may burst into highest favor any day, it is hardly possible that the fashion will continue for long. With the soft, dainty summer dresses the hat is usually softer, though there may be a little stiffening in the brim. REALTORS FAVOR ADVERTISEMENTS

Members of Board Want C. of C. to Take Lead in Publicity Work

The purchase of a series of full page advertisements for Glendale occupied the attention of the members of the Glendale Realty Board at the regular weekly luncheon at the C. and S. Cafeteria yesterday, when a motion was adopted, after full discussion, that the publicity committee continue to co-operate with the advertising committee of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce in the matter, and that the latter organization be urged to assume the initiative in the course that is to be followed in advertising this city. It was also urged that the Chamber of Commerce formulate plans for putting in motion an advertising campaign that would be carried on through some of the leading periodicals of the country, especially in some of the papers that circulate mainly in the more densely populated center of the east and the middle west.

Secures Views of the City
James F. Peaslee, stated during the discussion that a photographer representing the owner of the Palos Verdes Estates, E. G. Lewis, who is also the founder of the town of South Glendale, was here recently securing a number of views of Glendale and its immediate surroundings, with the view of publishing them in a special Glendale number of The Illustrated Review, to be issued during March or April.

It was the opinion of the members of the board that the editor of The Illustrated Review be asked to advise the board of the date of the proposed publication, so that the members could order extra copies to be distributed to their correspondents throughout the country.

Set Luncheon Date
Albert C. Twining, chairman of the committee appointed to arrange a date for a luncheon at which the realtors of Tujunga, Montrose, La Crescenta and La Canada could be present as the guests of the Glendale Realty Board, reported that the date for the luncheon has been fixed for Nowadays one of the first dictates of fashion is becomingness, so it is sometimes hard to lay down any hard and fast rule about what "they" will wear and what "they" will not wear. The wise woman adapts the style to her type and gives little individual variations which make our costumes so much more interesting. So, if one should say that every slipper must have a buckle, the next day one might see the smartest of slippers quite unadorned. However, if any rule could be laid down with absolute finality, it would be that slippers must be buckled.

We dress so much more artistically nowadays—particularly in regard to our footwear. A smart frock is never really charming unless everything else really goes with it. So, in the clever choosing of our footwear, we change a gown into a complete costume.

For Evening Wear
The most elaborate and strikingly beautiful silk brocades are the newest materials for the evening slipper. And the effect of these vari-colored, rich looking slippers below a simply cut frock is really unusually beautiful. Many shades are to be seen mingling in each slipper, but the predominating tone matches or, at any rate, harmonizes with the frock. Gold or silver kid frequently forms the heels and the trimming of these slippers, but as often as not the slipper is entirely of the brocade.

However popular these slippers may be, gold or silver cloth, either plain or brocaded, is still seen to fashion the slippers for many of the smartest.

As for the cut of the evening slipper, your choice is practically unlimited. Some have tiny straps which seem to almost wind themselves about the ankle, while the plain slipper is very new.

Buckles of Beauty
The plain slipper relies entirely upon an elaborate crystal buckle for its adornment. And so magnificent and so large are these buckles that it needs no more. And, large as they are, the newest thought is to have them made even larger by putting behind them a fluted or ruffled tongue of the material. One slipper even had such a tongue composed of tiny colored feathers.

The buckle for the strap slipper is much smaller and set on the strap just at the top of the instep. Another way is to have the buckle placed at the fastening. But one thing is certain, whatever style the slipper may be, the heel is sure to be very high.

The smartest afternoon slippers first make sure that the toe is of patent leather. After that countless variations of style are offered. They may be all of patent leather. But probably they will have inserts of some colored suede—usually some shade of tan or gray. When these colors are chosen to harmonize with the frock, the result is an extremely smart costume. The cut steel buckle is the one which is used with these and, in fact, all afternoon slippers.

The all-suede slipper, while not the newest, is still in very good style. Sometimes they yield to the vogue of patent leather by having a patent leather heel and binding next to the sole. Or perhaps the patent leather will be found as a saddle strap.

For Street Wear
For walking and for wear with a street frock, the low heeled strap slipper of a combination of suede and black leather helps to make a stunning costume. One model which is very good is of suede with black leather toes and heels and a black leather strap holds close to the foot a large tongue of suede. Of course, if you choose a too heeled walking oxford you will make no mistake—particularly if that oxford be of a suede and leather combination.

For the softly shimmering frock of some lazy summer afternoon, the dainty white slipper of kid, buckskin or linen is the appropriate finish. When these afternoon slippers have straps they are piped now and then in some bright colored kid. With the sports costume the buckskin oxford with a leather saddle strap will be most frequently seen.

RECEPTION HELD BY BETTY ELLEN

Newest Dictates of Fashion Presented to Guests In Women's Shop

All the charm of spring was presented to her guests by Betty Ellen yesterday afternoon and last night at her reception at the Betty Ellen shop at 215 South Brand boulevard.

Large bouquets of golden California mustard decorated the little shop and gave a real atmosphere of early spring in California to the fashion displays.

In receiving guests Mrs. E. Joralemon, proprietor, was assisted by Mrs. N. Gould and others, who welcomed all visitors and graciously showed them about the various departments and into the studio room, where tea was served.

The real jewel in the gay fashion composite of gowns, lingerie, hats, blouses and sweaters was a beautiful Ann Wilcox evening gown of gold cloth and jade, trimmed with paste shaded flowers with rhinestone centers.

About this creation radiated showings in the other extensive lines.

Hats Lure Guests
Hats in attractive designs for all miady's needs can be found on Betty Ellen's shelves and offer Glendale women a wide choice of a hat for early spring and summer. Gowns and blouses and sweaters are also features of the shop and the guests yesterday were fascinated with the many chic styles and new materials, all at extremely reasonable prices.

The Betty Ellen lingerie department is always in high favor with the shoppers and for the spring opening quantities of pretty things in the soft silks, in pink, blue, lavender and white, as well as in the pongee, all be-laced and be-ribboned, were shown.

A large company of guests was received during the afternoon and evening.

MODES ARE GAY BUT NOT GAUDY

Color Used With 'Lavish Hand' in New Spring Styles for Women

By ALICE LANGELEIR
For International News Service.
PARIS, March 1.—There will be no dull days this spring if the fashion makers have anything to say about it.

Color is being used with a lavish hand for all spring garments. Both day and evening clothes are bright and cheerful, but not gaudy. The shades are warm and deep without being vulgar.

In the collection of Paul Caret there are some brilliant reds and greens for evening dresses, and if the daytime frocks are more sombre they have dashes of strong colors in the belts or trimmings. Tailor-mades are dark but always come with blouses and chemisettes of brightest hues.

There is brown which is warm and soft like the freshly turned earth in the spring, and green like the first green leaf on the lilac bush. Creamy yellow is a favorite for evening wear and orange, which is like a marigold flower, ranges from the delicate "love-in-the-mist" shades to the sapphire tints of lupin and larkspur, and there is a mixture of blue and pink which is delightful to the eye.

When Wearing Black
If black is worn it must have very bright trimmings. Navy blue comes with Indian red trimmings, and sand color with rich Paisley hues in soft silk muslin. A warm chamois damask-cloth makes several lovely spring models in the Caret collection, and there is a gay, youthful dress and cape in deep cream cloth, printed with very large black checks and trimmed with lacquer red leather.

Quite as effective are the colorings of silks and cloths which come from the French colonies, although these are naturally much more brilliant. One of Madame Yteb's gowns comes in brown jersey silk with a deep band of colored hand embroidery top and bottom.

BRIGHT HANDKERCHIEFS

Many of the spring frocks are made bright by the wearing of a gaily colored handkerchief about the neck. With some gowns the handkerchief is worn simply about the neck, while in others the handkerchief is worn over the right shoulder and tied just under the left arm.

The Youthful Mode

by Muriel Mertens

How far we are removed from the day when the style for children was just a miniature of the style for their parents. And it is really quite recently that becomingly childish fashions have been developed for children. But now the mode for children has a distinct and separate existence. Of course, now and then it is influenced by the older fashions, but it does not follow them slavishly. When one thinks back just a few short years to the time when little girls of six or seven wore frocks which reached the floor, we realize what a long way we have traveled.

It is on this question of length that the childish mode has definitely decided to go its own way, for their little frocks and coats are quite as short as ever.

Party Frocks of Chiffon
When the little girl under ten goes to a party, she is quite likely to wear a frock of finely pleated rose-colored chiffon with a bertha of plain chiffon edged with fur. Or she may choose a delicate pink crepe de chine with an edging of tiny ruffles and tucks. Or if she would look quite crisply smart she may choose to be clad in the most delicate of filmy blue taffeta. The younger she is the less apt is she to have any belt line on her frocks. They will just hang short and full from the shoulder. Her sleeves will be quite tiny—hardly more than caps and she is certain to favor the bateau neck.

If she is a little older, her frock will have a long blouse with the belt line just at the top of the hip. When this little miss attends a party it may well be in a youthfully crisp taffeta frock of a sunshiny yellow trimmed only with a quaint little garland of flowers about the hips. Or if she likes the softness of chiffon she may wear a frock whose long blouse is of a heavenly blue taffeta with a three-tiered skirt of softly ruffled blue chiffon.

White Linen For Playtime
When the younger miss spends a glorious sunshiny morning playing on the sands or in some cool shaded wood she will be quite the fashion if she wears a white linen frock with yellow linen binding the Peter Pan collar, the short, full cap sleeves and buttoned front. This frock also hangs straight from the shoulder. With it are worn white linen bloomers to match which are also edged with yellow. All the light shades of linen are very becoming to children.

The gaily checked gingham are also very appropriate for these simple little frocks. As she grows older, the young girl of under fifteen is very apt to copy her street clothes from her older sister's simplest sports attire. A straight pleated skirt, brilliantly checked, worn with a single toned sweater and a white Peter Pan collar is a very suitable costume.

Three Piece Suits
However, if she requires something a bit dressier than this, she might have a three-piece serge suit. The dress of one model of this type has a long, straight blouse with a bateau neck and a finely pleated skirt. It is worn with a straight, close-fitting little jacket.

The simpler the dance frock of the girl of this age, the better dressed she is. Green taffeta fashions just such a frock which is smocked at the waist and hipline. A bouquet of old blue and green flowers at the waist has long streamers of ribbon which reach almost to the bottom of the skirt.

For the Little Man
To clothe the young man becomingly and appropriately when he first puts aside dresses is the most difficult problem which any mother has to face. One very successful way to solve it is to let him wear a straight little suit of blue linen in which the straight knickers are fastened to the waist by a belt of white linen edged with tiny narrow ruffling. Sometimes the knickers are fastened to the top by means of large pearl buttons a couple of inches apart which pursue their way about his waist.

The smartest possible hat for a little girl is a small affair with a rounded crown and the narrowest kind of a brim. It might well be called a stepping stone between the bonnet and the hat.

Socks and flat little single-strap slippers are the smartest footwear for children. Patent leather slippers for "best" and dull leather or white buckskin for their energetic hours of play.

CLUB IS ABREAST OF CITY'S GROWTH

Women's Organization Up With Leaders In State Federation

There is no Glendale organization that has kept more harmonious step with the growth of the city during the past ten years than has the Tuesday Afternoon Club, the largest women's club in the city, which celebrated its twenty-fifth birthday on January 9, 1923.

The present decennial celebration will have particular significance for the Tuesday Afternoon club, heralding as it does the formal opening of the club's new $82,000 club house at the northeast corner of Central avenue and Lexington drive.

From a social gathering of eleven women January 9, 1898, at the home of Mrs. Phillip Parker, the Tuesday Afternoon club has grown into an organization of 765 women, collected together as one of the strongest units of the California Federation of Women's clubs. In addition to the regular meetings the club members enjoy the activities of nine sections for cultural pursuits, and the non-section group working to augment the building and furnishing fund of the new club house.

Urges Tax on Busses to Protect Rail Capital

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Busses carrying passengers and freight should be regulated and taxed in the same manner as are electric railways, Dwight N. Lewis, president of the National Association of Railway Utility Commissioners, Des Moines, Ia., declared before the mid-year conference of the American Electric Railway Association. A thousand railway executives were present.

"No legislation should be enacted," Lewis said, "that will prevent establishment of needed and desirable motor bus and truck service for the public good, but most assuredly established investment in street railways and interurbans should be safeguarded."

Remove Hair Pin From Chicago Girl's Stomach

Wife Reads Too Much, Court Grants Divorce

NORRISTOWN, Pa., March 1.—Basing his plea for divorce on the claim that his wife read too much, which caused her to neglect household duties, resulted in Jacob Keifrider, of Pottstown, being granted a separation from her.

Keifrider in his testimony to the court said he frequently came home at the end of his day's work to find no preparation for the evening meal, yet under way, the dishes from the former one still untouched on the table and his wife buried deep in a "paper-back" or the more risque sort of the best sellers.

The court immediately granted the divorce.

NEW OFFICE FOR HEITMAN REALTY

Branch at Eagle Rock Will Be Housed In Handsome
2-Room Building

The W. A. Heitman Realty Company, which has a branch office at 1737 South San Fernando road, is now about to open another branch in Eagle Rock.

George Emerson, sales manager for this district, states that the new two-room Spanish-style office building, which is now almost completed on the corner of Colorado street and Howland avenue, will be one of the most beautiful and artistic little offices south of Tehachapi.

J. C. Redman of Eagle Rock, who is familiar with the real estate in that community, will have charge of the new office. He hopes that the amount of business there will compare favorably with that transacted at the Glendale branch.

In order that the public may see the business of this company, the front of the Eagle Rock office will be of plate glass.

For Your Inner Gratification by Muriel Mertens

It is a fact well known to every woman, that no matter how carefully or how modestly you may be dressed, you never feel quite at ease unless you have that inner consciousness that your lingerie is just the most exquisitely dainty and feminine that can be found. Self-possession is very charming in a woman. And the knowledge that one is dressed with perfect taste, both inside and out, brings a very lovely poise to any woman. With this knowledge in the background of her mind, she can forget her clothes entirely and devote all her energies to being entertaining or entertained.

Some women will always love the fresh daintiness of lingerie of cotton or linen, no matter how beautiful the silk models may be. And when one sees the sheer daintiness of undergarments of handkerchief linen, exquisite with hemstitching and real fillet one is certainly tempted to agree with them. Particularly for summer there is something so fresh and clean about them. Triple voile which wears like iron, yet looks as delicate as chiffon is another great favorite both for underthings and night gowns. And what entrancing colors it comes in! Delicate green or a soft, pale yellow, lavender and countless shades which are quite as lovely. These colored underthings are usually very simply made. Batiste with its lovely silky sheen is also frequently seen.

Undergarments of Silk
But the woman who loves the soft luxury of silk will find just as many exquisite models to uphold her in her preference. The silk night gowns and underthings are beautiful in white or pink as well as the more unusual shades. Sometimes they are trimmed with wide laces or embroidered in contrasting shades.

The vest chemise and the step-in drawers are beginning to usurp the place of great popularity which was held for so long by the envelope. Sometimes the knicker is worn with the vest chemise. The cut of the newest night gowns has been greatly influenced by our present mode in frocks. Many have a bateau neck—lower, of course, than a bateau necked frock. The front and back of the neck are straight, but the lowness is achieved by having them connected over the shoulder by four or five inches of ribbon or lace strap across the shoulder. The armhole is made by an opening cut straight down under the arm for five or six inches. Chiffon daintily lined or black is still used to make some of the most exquisite of our lingerie.

Lounging Pajamas New
The lounging pajama is the very latest creation for our more luxurious hours. It is not only beautiful, but an ideally comfortable garment in which to spend a few hours of relaxation. There are such gorgeous advocates of this fashion! Black is quite a favorite for these pajamas, though the lighter colors are by no means put in the background. Black velvet, magnificently embroidered in color or black velvet trousers with the gayest of silk jackets. The Oriental influence is clearly seen in one model with orange velvet trousers and a Persian patterned silk jacket. Exquisite silks and lustrous satins fashion many another charming model.

For the woman who does not care for the pajama mode, there are many daintily feminine negligees. Silk covered with chiffon sleeves and a low placed girdle is a charming fashion. With the negligee or pajama a wide matching bandeau is appropriate and so becoming.

HOLLISTER AIDS CITY'S PROGRESS

Active Worker in All Civic Affairs Since Coming
Here in 1917

V. M. Hollister, owner and manager of the Valley Supply company, ex-president of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, and president of the local Community Service organization, needs no introduction to Glendaleans.

Ever since coming to Glendale in 1917 from Wisconsin, his native state, Mr. Hollister has been an ardent booster for Glendale and has taken an active interest in the city's growth during recent years.

Under his regime the Chamber of Commerce was greatly developed and succeeded in bringing the city of Glendale nation-wide recognition.

Asks Co-operation
Mr. Hollister's attitude to his home city and fellow citizens is fully voiced in his farewell message to the Chamber of Commerce. He said, "We do not consider ourselves as other see us; we do not measure our acts as others measure them, and if all would come forward and record their criticisms and offer their suggestions, it would add wonderfully to those endeavoring to shape the destiny of this community and her splendid people."

In his interest in civic affairs Mr. Hollister is a Community Service enthusiast and when that movement was introduced into Glendale he was one of its active supporters and was elected president of the local organization.

Mr. Hollister is a member of the Elks lodge. His home is located at 416 North Louise street.

Pays With Life for Deceiving Physician

PARIS, March 1.—Is a doctor to blame for the death of a patient if the patient has deliberately told an untruth which leads him to make a wrong diagnosis?

This is the question being discussed at the Correctional Court of Evreux, where Dr. Vallet is charged in connection with the death of a widow, Madame Jouanne. It appears that Madame Jouanne, who was suffering, consulted the doctor, who said that she was about to become a mother. Madame J. indignantly denied this, saying that she had been a widow for six years. In view of her strong denials the doctor then diagnosed a tumor in the abdomen.

When operating upon his patient for the supposed tumor he discovered to his horror that his first diagnosis was correct and he was forced to perform a Caesarian operation and bring into the world a seven months' child. The child lived, but the mother died. The well-known medico-legal expert, Dr. Paul, states that the woman, by concealing her condition, contributed toward the doctor's mistake, and Dr. Faure, a famous surgeon, is of the opinion that Vallet committed no error in performing the operation.

FREIGHT COMING OVER 3 RAILWAYS

Shipments Pouring Materials
Into Glendale to Meet Needs of City

Freight business on the three-rail lines serving this community reflects the prosperity of Glendale. Twenty-three hundred carloads of freight were received last year at the local station of the Southern Pacific.

Fifteen hundred carloads of freight were received last year at the local station of the Union Pacific. Four hundred carloads of freight were received last year at the unloading platform of the Pacific Electric.

According to C. L. Thedaker, local agent of the Southern Pacific, upwards of 200 carloads of clay, lumber, cement and plaster, structural steel, oil, automobiles, salt, wheat and household goods are received here over his line each month. He stated that more than 700 carloads of freight departed from this switching zone last year. He stated that shipments were principally sewer pipe, fruit baskets and beverages.

According to J. Vail, local agent of the Union Pacific, an average of 125 carloads of incoming freight is received monthly. He stated that statistics showed approximately a twenty per cent gain in January 1923 over January 1922.

According to J. R. Turner of the P. E. freight department, the total freight business done here over the electric line, which has mostly short hauls, last year was $50,000. A large portion of this total came through the local agency of the American Railway Express. He asserted that 100 carloads of freight were shipped out last year over the Pacific Electric.

Indifferent Voter is Described as Graftor

COLUMBUS, Ohio, March 1.—Voters who make no effort to assume any responsibility for the government but who accept the benefits of government constitute "the greatest grafters in politics," said Professor Charles E. Merriam, University of Chicago, addressing an audience at Ohio state university.

"Of the more than 54,000,000 persons eligible to vote in the United States only 26,000,000, or less than half, voted at the last presidential election," continued Professor Merriam. "The reason for this apparent indifference of the voters to national government affairs is due to growing prejudice against party politics. 'The growing power of blocs' is doing much toward minimizing the control exerted over national affairs by party politics. Even though a majority of congress were in favor of any given bill this bill would go down to certain defeat if the big nonpartisan organizations, such as the Red Cross and the American Legion and the Anti-saloon league, were to pronounce their disapproval," said Professor Merriam.

Robert H. Mainzer, a Wall Street broker, has attended 4353 three alarm fires.

POSTOFFICE IS SHORT OF HANDS

Pleas for More Clerks and Carriers for Glendale
Are Turned Down

Requests that have been forwarded to the postoffice department at Washington by Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson, asking for permission to increase the present staff of the Glendale postoffice, have been refused on the ground that the postal appropriations have been exhausted, and this refusal to add to the force in the local office comes in the face of proof that has been repeatedly submitted to the department that Glendale is growing at such a rate that the present staff is unable to keep abreast of the work.

The Glendale postoffice was placed on a separate basis on December 28, 1921, having been, up till that time, under the supervision and direction of the Los Angeles office. At that time the force in the office consisted of twenty clerks and nineteen carriers, at a time when the population of the city was around 28,000 people. Glendale's population today is approximately 35,000 and it is steadily growing, but the postoffice force still remains at the same strength as it was two years ago.

Postmaster Jackson has filed requests for permission to add five more clerks and eight more carriers to his staff, and has furnished figures to show the pressing need of the extra help, asserting that the present staff has been called on to handle an increase of 42 per cent in business last year over that of 1921, but his pleas have been ignored. With the present staff of the Glendale postoffice is working to keep abreast of a situation that can only be handled by the most strenuous endeavors on the part of every man and woman on the staff.

The Glendale postoffice, according to Postmaster Jackson, has reached the limit of its efficiency, as far as the postoffice department is prepared to pay for at this time, and the patrons of the office cannot reasonably expect that the insistently deserved improvement can be made in the system here until the department at Washington can be brought to appreciate the seriousness of the situation that exists today and that is becoming more and more of a problem with the advent of every new family to Glendale.

Employees Swamped
Postmaster Jackson freely admits that the service needs improvement, but the manner in which his requests for additional help have been refused leads him to the conviction that immediate improvement is not to be expected until further appropriations are made available through the department, and there is no means of knowing when this extra money will be placed at the disposal of the postoffice.

The same situation exists in Los Angeles where the postmaster has been notified that no funds are available to hire more clerks, or carriers, with the result that the postoffice there, like that in Glendale, is swamped with work that is taxing the employees to the limit of their mental and physical endurance.

Woman Says Marriage Is Not Mere Business
SYRACUSE, N. Y., March 1.—Marriage a mere business contract is easily to insure the protection of the children?

"Yes," says Mrs. Almon Hensley, writer and suffragist, who foresees such a condition within fifty years, adding that women will live separate lives, with motherhood pensioned, and should mothers prove incompetent, their offspring will be placed in "home group" institutions.

"No!" shout Syracuse clubwomen, professional women and successful wives and mothers. Says Dr. Theresa Bannon, one of the best-known women physicians up-State: "If Mrs. Hensley will guarantee a complete change and evolution in human nature during the next fifty years her conclusions will be logical. But if in 50 years the marriage contract is a purely business one she needn't make provisions in her plans for the children, 'cause there won't be any."

Mrs. Kate Knickerbocker, president of the Kanatenah club, said: "I don't approve of or believe in Mrs. Hensley's statements. Matrimony is a sacred institution and should be regarded as such. The situation, as Mrs. Hensley describes it, will never come about while there are American mothers living who hold to American ideas. It is a poor idea to spread such things before the younger generation. They have enough ideas already. I think Mrs. Hensley is certainly looking at the world through very queer eyes."

Mrs. Cora P. Graham, president of the Syracuse Women's Congress, said: "Don't let anybody worry about such remarks. Truly intellectual women—I mean women who honestly think—hold their lives close to the true and sane methods of living. It is merely a question of vision—and I think Mrs. Hensley's eyes are on the bias."

Coloring lumber for furniture before three is heavy by supplying the colored fluid to the roots, is a German idea.

THANKS HELPERS IN SCOUT DRIVE

A. D. Eastman Predicts Budget Will Total $8000
When Pledges Are In

Campaigners in the recent Boy Scout drive are being thanked by A. D. Eastman of 709 North Louise street, president of the Verdugo Hills Boy Scout council.

"Although the campaign was not as great a success as we had anticipated," remarked Mr. Eastman, "it was by no means a failure. Approximately $6000 has been pledged to date and indications are that we will reach the $8000 mark by the time all reports have been turned in."

"There is a great deal of credit due the men who worked on the teams, and especially those who volunteered of their own accord to re-organize and go out once again. That was real service and all of us connected with the council heartily appreciate the value of that service to our boys."

Fish Predict Eruption of Hawaiian Volcano

HONOLULU, March 1.—Old-time residents along the kona (south) coast of the Island of Hawaii are predicting an early eruption of the volcano Mauna Loa. They base this belief on the fact that huge schools of fish have recently been making their appearance along the shore, and they point out that a similar phenomenon occurred in 1919, just before the starting of the Alike flow. In every instance, as far back as can be remembered, it is said, great numbers of fish have appeared close to land prior to an eruption.

Coue Scores Pupils Who Receive Money

PARIS, March 1.—"Charlatans using my methods, and who get money, must not be considered my disciples," said Dr. Emil Coue, famous apostle of autosuggestion, commenting on the arrest of American pupils who are practicing without licenses. "I approve of suppressing all practicing of mental medicine with the idea of extracting money from the people's pockets. My consultations were always free. The only money I obtained in the United States was divided into two parts—half to found an autosuggestion institute in America and the other half to found a similar institution in Paris."

Ex-Kaiser Isictim of High Living Cost

BERLIN, March 1.—According to a dispatch to the Mittag Morning Zeitung, the wolf is barking at the back door of the ex-Kaiser's cold, dark castle at Doorn. So serious has the cost of living become that Princess Hermine, his bride of a few months is planning to take her children to the ex-Kaiser's palace at Corfu, where lower cost of living will permit them to eat more regularly. Wilhelm would like to journey to Corfu so that he could be sure of "three squares" daily, but the Allies won't let him.

The Romantic Interior

by Marjorie Howe Dixon

You know the bleak cold look of a collection of furniture in a store window, where the arrangement is to suggest an interior, and in an effort to heighten the effect, flowers, curtains and cushions are added. What is it that is lacking that makes the whole effect repellent instead of home-like? Well, it just hasn't that atmosphere of being lived in, those individual personal touches that give a really comfortable look to a room. For one thing, there is only an occasional window decorator who will dare scatter books around—it does take a little courage. He certainly could come a little nearer his desired effect if he would remember books or magazines.

The home of the newlywed sometimes has that department store furniture section look. The bride has not yet dared to depart from the conventional and somewhat hard arrangement of all her new things. And things obviously new are hard to arrange, when it comes to that. Their glossiness has to rub off a little before they can be assimilated and a home atmosphere produced.

Question in Furniture

It is sometimes asked, why do people keep going back to periods in selecting furnishings? Why not be ultra-modern? The answer seems to lie in that question of romance, of charm, that quality to which we all respond, that seems so inherent in period furniture rightly used. (Of course, one doesn't have to buy real antiques—for some of us they are quite out of the question. But there are so many good reproductions that no one need be denied these interesting old patterns.)

In this question of using the periods rightly lies a great part of the difficulty. It has been said of some decorators that they create stage settings for their clients, that have no more relation to the owners than the proscenium arch to actors. For Americans the study of the use of periods must necessarily involve the study of the impulses of the time creating them. Entirely foreign to our ideals and modes of living are some of the court periods. The styles of certain periods were evolved from extravagant, over-decorated, and luxurious court life. These periods have been followed by reactions toward severity, which bring out simpler lines and patterns in furniture and are much more in keeping with our natural point of view.

Blending of Periods

In passing let us speak of the Directoire. The qualities of simplicity and sincerity found in much of the furniture of that time find a quick response in our native instincts. Pieces from the Directoire will blend well with our American colonial period, and the two will create a subtle charm—that indefinable air of romance.

Another point to be considered is the modern demand for soft, deeply cushioned chairs, with their luxurious comfort. It takes little skill to fit these pieces into our romantic interior but it can be done. It might be mentioned here that down-filled cushions and spring cushions are in demand for these pieces. Tapestries in colorful embroidery are fitting, or spots of lovely needle point decorate these inviting lounging spots.

The Dining Room

When it comes to cases, color is a vital point in our romantic interior. A dining room that rejoices the eye and the aesthetic sense as well, comes to mind. At first one saw the very interesting glass curtains, not thin nor pale in tint, but full of color, of striped taffeta in lavenders and greens. Chintz draped with black made the long drapes and the valance.

Then one became conscious of the dull walnut furniture—chairs with cane backs and seats, a long, low buffet with a separate unframed mirror above it and a high silver chest. The floor was most unusual, a black and oyster gray checkerboard linoleum. Ivory paneled walls made a quiet background.

For the little touches in this quaint room, long green mats of coarse linen were spread on the table and the buffet, while Spanish pottery set the table.

Speaking of the relation of china to the color scheme brings to mind a rather dignified and formal effect produced in another dining room. Here dull walnut was the wood chosen, and the chairs were covered with a dull red tapestry with great star shaped nail heads on their edges. A window with a long, low window seat was hung with dull red. Then as a last point of emphasis, a service of red glass goblets, plates and so on with a flat centerpiece of artificial fruit and berries, decorated the table.

Romantic Sun Parlor

For living purposes the sun parlor is a room of great attraction these days and more and more originality is being shown in its furnishings. Isn't there the least touch of romance in the India wicker chairs—those great roundly spread backs, reminding one of a peacock's tail? Wicker is only a detail now for overstuffed divans and lounging chairs covered with glazed chintz are a comfortable possibility.

Then in one corner of one sun parlor, one may find a tiny green iron tea table with two iron chairs placed tete-a-tete. And all around, of course, in hangings, in cushions and in table mats one finds splashes of a brilliant cretonne in cerise, black and purple on a cream ground.

From the sun porch to the breakfast room is perhaps just a step. Here painted furniture has its own place, perhaps finding its charm in cream and blue Windsor chairs, set about a similarly decorated table. Blue burial was used for heavy drapes with a valance of chintz, in this particular room and the dull lavender of pottery from France with bands of blue, set the pretty table and the sideboard.

Beautiful Bedrooms

Can you imagine a Georgian bedroom with lavender and emerald green taffeta drapes? You can undoubtedly. A most interesting canopy arranged itself at the head of the bed. It was draped flat against the wall, depending from a gold coronet, and spread out below, finally ending in long drapes to the floor. Heavy looped drapes of the same material hung at the windows. The bed spreads were of changeable lavender taffeta. Another pretty conceit was the hanging of separate mirrors over both the bureau and the dressing table.

Beautiful Separate Mirrors

Speaking of separate mirrors, reminds me of an Adam dining room with ivory walls. Over a wide handsome marble-topped buffet hung such a beautiful mirror, unframed, with beveled edges, and a wonderful design of vines and birds in gold spread over it. The dining table as well as the buffet were of quietly patterned inlaid walnut. About the table stood tapestry seated chairs. Specially interesting features were the two built-in cabinets with open shelves, each finished at the top with a shell. Colored glass in simple and dignified pieces filled the shelves, and stood on the two iron side tables, which, like the buffet, were marble-topped.

And so it comes about that romance is not confined to charging and knights of medieval times, who rode forth to conquest leaving languishing maidens at home embroidering curious designs for their shields. The conquest of romance is still on and the laurel crown and special homage awaits the victor.

Probe Shakedown of Civil Service Employees

LOS ANGELES, March 1.—The special committee of the state assembly in session here investigating charges that civil service employees were virtually forced to contribute to the campaign expenses of former Governor William D. Stephens, prepared to take further testimony from state institution officials and employees in San Bernardino and Los Angeles counties. It is expected that the hearings here will definitely establish the identity of the individual or group of individuals who mailed anonymous letters to employees last August intimating that the wise would "kick in" and the foolish would be "kicked out," to quote a witness.

HABERDASHERY ON THE CALENDAR FOR SPRING

OTTO ENGEL

While there is a tendency to slightly higher prices for men's haberdashery this spring, the advance is partially offset by better quality merchandise. Prices have reached the point of stabilization and the weird fluctuations of war days and post-war days are a thing of the past.

During the halcyon days the cost of men's accessories was just about twice that of today. The $25 shirt, for example, may be purchased for $12 or $13. Neckwear marked at $3 is now down to $1.50 and the range of prices is correspondingly lowered throughout.

White Silk Shirts Popular
While the silk shirt has been making desperate efforts to regain its war-day popularity, the march of progress has been slow in the last two years. The white silk shirts will lead the field, of course, but there is a tendency for plain colored silks to come back in some of the more durable weaves. Among them are baby broadcloths and jerseys. Pleated effects also promise to have a large call.

Madras, oxford cloth and the better grades of cotton shirts, particularly the English broadcloths, will be worn extensively. While the prices are a shade higher than a year ago, the workmanship is so improved that it borders on the custom-tailored variety.

Good Selection of Fiber Silks
There always will be a demand for the better fiber silk shirts, largely due to the fact that they offer a selection that good dressers like—at prices that do not tax one's income.

The collar-attached shirt which reached the height of popularity last year will go ahead with greater advancement than ever, if the prediction of makers is correct. In this special line there is a greater variety than ever, giving the customer a wider scope of selection. And one of the pleasing features is the fact that the workmanship has improved wonderfully—truly making this a gentleman's shirt.

Then, too, there will be shown more shirts with two button cuff band, although the French cuff still leads the procession. Flannel shirts will have quite a following, especially among those dressers who prefer the sort of flannel coming from England and France.

Gayer Effects in Neckwear
In neckwear the subdued color effects of sombre winter will give way to the vari-colored selection that usually blossoms forth in the spring. Silks from foreign fields—England, France, Switzerland and the far eastern countries—have flooded the market, but they are made up in the American styles and fashions. Among some of the shapes are the narrow cravats, adapted for the smaller collars which have become the popular vogue for warmer weather wear.

Because of their serviceability and durability, grenadines and knitted ties will be worn with greater frequency than ever. Many interesting and novel effects have been produced, giving the wearer a variety in selection that has never been offered before.

Matching some of the suit patterns will be tweed effects, which promises to "go across" with great demand. Foreign foulards also will come to the front stronger than ever.

Few Changes in Hosiery
Because of the limitations, hosiery will undergo few changes this year. Good silks, with clocks and other novel designs, particularly the full-fashioned selection, will be as popular as ever. For early spring cassimeres, camel's hair and imported worsteds will get the big play.

Naturally there will be a good selection of silk accordeons and embroidered effects, but the showing promises to be only normal. As for colors the shades and tones of each will be about the same as last season.

Same Story for Gloves
There have been very few changes made in glove styles and colors in the last few years and nothing novel is expected to be displayed this season. Cape, Arabian mocha, and also suede, buck and chamois in the standard or off-stades will furnish the greatest selection. Spear or embroidered backs are about the only ornaments that will appear. The pearl button, however, is replacing the old-time clasp.

The success of middy pajamas, otherwise known as the bachelor or buttonless pajamas, has been unusually tremendous. The ease with which men can slip into and out of such wearing apparel is one excellent reason. While colored effects and stripes had the call in past seasons, the tendency is toward plain colors or white. In silk pajamas the color scheme is prevalent, with frogs of contrasting tones.

Plain or pattern effects of madras, percales, crepes, chambrays, soisette and fiber silk will be among the fabrics in vogue.

Soft Collar Is Favored
The non-wrinkable collar, now made by a number of concerns, have won the popular favor of many a good dresser and will blossom forth much greater than ever this spring. The two-ply hard collar, with a slight roll, will be the chief competitor for popularity.

In other men's accessories, such as underwear, belts, jewelry, handkerchiefs, walking sticks, etc., there have been no decided changes.

PLAIDS AGAIN

After a long period of neglect plaids have suddenly risen to prominence together with the flounce, which is seen everywhere, even on frocks of twill.

MEMORIAL PARK IN IDEAL SPOT

Forest Lawn Carries Out Its Elaborate Enterprise, Wins Public Approval

Forest Lawn Memorial park, with its gray, shaded, quaint Little Church of the Flowers and its massive, beautiful, enduring white mausoleum, located at the south gate of the city, where San Fernando road intersects Glendale avenue, had its inception in 1906 as a country cemetery.

In 1917 its present management saw in it an ideal location for the working of their park idea and took it over. This idea, briefly expressed, is that death and the necessary mortuary requirements should be surrounded by as few symbols of mourning as possible.

The result is that in five years, keeping this idea always foremost, Forest Lawn has been transformed into one of the loveliest burial grounds in America, with cemetery, mausoleum, columbarium, crematory, church, greenhouses, many charming statues, all bearing silent witness to the combined artistic and financial stability of the enterprise.

People Respond

That the people of Glendale, Pasadena, Eagle Rock, Los Angeles, and many points at greater distance, have responded generously to this offering of a supreme expression of what a final resting-place for loved ones should be, is attested by the remarkable growth of Forest Lawn Memorial park.

Ten years ago the holdings were fifty-nine acres, whereas at present there are two hundred and eleven acres in the park; ten years ago there were five improved sections, with a total of nine acres; whereas at present there are fifteen improved sections, with a total of thirty acres; and ten years ago there were 1547 interments, whereas at present 11,000 are resting there.

The Little Church of the Flowers was modeled after that architectural gem at Stoke Poges, England in the churchyard of which Gray wrote his famous "Elegy." Its beauty, its warm, mellow light as the sun shines through the art glass, bespeak a subtle comfort to the heart-weary and desolated, breathing life and hope.

The mausoleum is recognized the nation over as being one of the most magnificent and substantial of its kind. Built of concrete, steel, granite, marble and bronze, it will endure as long as the Pyramids. Its closest competitor is the Rosehill mausoleum, in Chicago.

A word should be said, in closing, of the exquisite statues in Forest Lawn Memorial park.

MODERN WOODMEN ARE ACTIVE HERE

Meetings Held Twice Monthly in K. P. Lodge Room For 110 Members

Glendale camp No. 12886 Modern Woodmen of America numbers an active membership of 110 at the present time. Meetings are held at the K. P. hall, Park and Brand, on the nights of the second and fourth Fridays of each month.

The Royal Neighbors of America, the women's auxiliary to the Modern Woodmen, was organized in August of 1921 and has a membership of 63 at the present time. Meetings are held the nights of the first and third Thursdays of each month, at the K. P. hall. The officers for 1923 number among them the following: Mrs. H. L. Hock, oracle; Mrs. Ida Leach, vice-oracle; and Mrs. Blanche Gemmell, recorder.

Lead Pencil in Phone Booth Causes Havoc

NORWALK, Conn., March 1.—Joseph Smith, local butcher, idled in a public telephone booth while waiting for a call and killed time by decorating the walls with a lead pencil. Smith suddenly went through the closed door and when he came to fire apparatus was clanging up to the door. His pencil had struck the fire alarm circuit and met the lighting circuit at the same time, causing a short circuit that shocked him and sent him out of the booth.

ing, of the exquisite statues in Forest Lawn Memorial park. There are four that particularly stand out—"Merope, the Lost Pleiad," by the great American sculptor, Randolph Rogers; "Mother Love," carved by the Italian, Milo Pontranoli, in Florence, Italy; "The Duck Baby," famous statue at the San Francisco Exposition; and "Babyland," a little bronze child with outstretched arms, breathing a land beyond, of love and growth.

It is significant of the success of the park idea, that many people wander daily over the quiet, shaded walks of Forest Lawn, who have no loved ones laid away therein, but who are lured thither only by the exquisite beauty of the spot.

When Straw Meets Felt

Men's hats for spring showing have undergone but slight changes from the styles shown and worn last spring, although there is an evident tendency toward the conservative type.

The hat problem is a very perplexing one to the woman, because of the rapid and almost overnight change in modes worn, which added to the regular seasonal variations keep them in constant tread to the milliner. Men, on the contrary find but little variation in hats with the exception of the seasonal changes which come not for style but to give the wearer the latest in comfort. With the advent of each season new thoughts for the wearer's comforts are added to those already in vogue until one is prone to wonder when the end will come.

Hats of Extreme Light Weight
The manufacturers have taken the customer into deep concern this spring, and are offering hats of an extreme light weight. This characteristic will prevail in the straws for summer wear as well as in the spring hats. There was a strong tendency in that direction last year, but not until this year has the superb light weightness been so evident and the manufacturers' thoughts been so practical.

Light colors will again lead the field in spring hats. Tans will predominate with pearly grays and light greens following closely. Bands to correspond will be the prevailing mode.

The shapes are virtually the same as those in vogue last year. The Fedora and Alpine shapes are being shown extensively in the older men's hats, while the young fellows will turn to the diamond-shaped and dented in styles—all these, however, in very light weights. Few odd shapes are being shown, the majority having a medium crown and brim.

Straws More Conservative
Straws for summer wearing are following in the footsteps of all other men's wearing apparel—holding fast to the conservative and less freakish type of a few years ago. The light sailor is again slated for a big run. These will come in pure whites, light browns and tans. The rough straws and loose weaves in very light weights are being shown very much. For the most part plain black bands or bands to contrast to the color of the hat will be worn with a sprinkling of the colored bands in stripes and dots.

No Changes in Panamas
Leghorns and Panamas will be worn, of course, and they, too, will come in lightweights in all the new Optimo shapes. And Bangkoks, too, will be worn by the man who likes a real light weight summer straw. The conservative vogue of the season will also be very prominent in these styles of headwear.

The derby is always in good taste and is liked by the young man who wants to look a little aristocratic. The styles this year are splendid in that the odd shapes—small brim, large crown and vice versa—are not in good form and instead we have the conformity to the conservative characteristic of the season.

Phantom Sentry Keeps Guard on Sunken Ship

EASTBOURNE, Eng., March 1.—"Sempter fidelis"—always faithful, even in death—this is the motto of the United States Marine corps, and in spirit it has been the motto of the "phantom sentry" of H. M. S. Ariadne, a British cruiser which has been lying at the bottom of the North Sea for the last five years.

Recently the Ariadne was mined and blown up as a menace to navigation, its hull having risen nearer the surface constantly since it was sunk by a German submarine five years ago.

Dan Homet, a Glasgow diver, went into the depths of the sea to place the dynamite charge which blew up the Ariadne. Homet declares that when he went on the deck of the sunken ship he found a marine, supported by a portion of the ship, standing as though on duty, his rifle, with bayonet fixed, grasped in his hand.

The "phantom sentry" was left undisturbed, and his body probably floated on out to sea with the wreckage of the old cruiser.

Grill Auto Dealers In Hunt for Stolen Cars

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., March 1.—More than 100 local automobile dealers have been questioned in the progress of a police hunt for stolen automobiles which have been disguised with paint and resold. Half a dozen men are held under heavy bond as a result. Many cars were checked by their engine numbers. A widespread auto theft plot is suspected.

SUNSET GROVE

Full Size Lots. $975 up. $100 Cash. $20 and $25 per mo.

HIGHLY RESTRICTED

—The restrictions are $3000 and $3500, and no temporary homes are permitted. The location is ideal, being above Kenneth Road, below Tenth Street, which is a main paved boulevard between Glendale and Burbank. It is one of the best locations in the rapidly developing Northwest section, commanding an unsurpassed panoramic view of the whole valley—water, gas and electricity paid.

No Temporary Homes

—All through the sale of our sub-division FAIRVIEW we have had hundreds of calls for lots with trees on them, and also for lots on which temporary homes were not permitted. At last we are able to supply this demand, and at prices so low that there will undoubtedly be in a very short time remarkable increases in values in SUNSET GROVE.

—The terms, $100 cash, and $20 and $25 per month, afford an opportunity to purchase a lot in a beautiful tract at the low opening prices with a very small cash investment.

For Investors

—We estimate that there has been $150,000 of increase in values in our FAIRVIEW sub-division over our opening prices, and we anticipate that the ratio of increase in SUNSET GROVE will be even more.

—It has been consistently our rule to offer lots at a low price with the idea that we desire our purchasers to make as much money as we do, and our experience in FAIRVIEW has fully justified this position.

Buy a Lot at Opening Prices

—SUNSET GROVE will appeal to people who desire a more exclusive district, and to those who appreciate the great desirability of property in the beautiful Northwest section of Glendale, where development, improvements, increase of population are going ahead with tremendous strides.

—SUNSET GROVE is selling fast, $15,000 worth of property sold first three days. Don't delay. Come at once.

Men "Blossom out in new Spring Styles

Simplification seems to rule the men's clothing industry—simplification in style, in fabric and in pattern. Conservatism, with few variations, appears to have the call this spring and summer. The jazz models, which made such a hurrah last year, and which went strong in some sections of the country, but were rejected in other parts, apparently passed the height of popularity and now are on the down grade. While a few makers, who were successful in putting out the jazz output, will continue along these lines, the better manufacturers have turned down these styles almost completely.

There will, however, be shown a variety of these freakish styles, but the production is so small that it is almost insignificant. No doubt the death knell has been rung.

Three Variations Noted

Two distinct variations—possibly three—will be noted in the new styles for young men. The ultra dresser will wear very fitted models. High waist, high gorge, that is, a short collar, high lapel, high chest effect, slim waist, long vent and long appearing skirts are the principal features. The effect of the longer skirts makes the coat appear longer, which is not the case, as the length is about the average.

Rope shoulders also will be a note worthy characteristic on clothes of this type. Some coats are made with a high outside cash pocket. There will be both notch and peak lapels, but the lapels will be shorter, much shorter than in past seasons. Two and three buttons will be used.

College Type of Clothes
Next comes the college type of clothes, which will be of softer construction than heretofore, with low collars, short lapels, single breasted, rounding fronts, three and four-button coats, worn buttoned. The three-button coat seems to have the call.

This coat is of the same dimensions as the four, except that the buttons are spaced wider. Vests are cut straighter across the bottom and the trousers also are cut straight, that is, the same size at both knee and bottom and worn with cuff.

The third style idea concerns that group known as "regular" young men's models. The coats are semi-fitted, with two and three buttons, both single and double breasted. The rope shoulders will be a prominent feature of these clothes. The vest to these suits will also show a tendency to be cut a little lower at the opening and straighter at the bottom.

Trousers Cut Straight

Such suits also display trousers cut straight. Some, however—those from the best makers—are regular in shape, but there is an outlet on both inside and outside seams, permitting alteration in the event the customer wants them wide from the knee down.

The sport styles, which came in stronger than ever last year, promise to continue in favor with good dressers, particularly the four-piece suits. Such suits are adaptable for both business and sports wear. The business man may wear the suit with the long trousers in going to the office and can change to knickerbockers at the golf club, if he so desires.

Belts and Pleats Again

Half and three-quarter belts are winning the greatest vogue, while spring pleats, like those worn in regular golf suits, also are favored by a certain clientele. There are many variations of the sport styles and all of them have a following.

Patch pockets and plain pockets will be seen on the majority of the suits, while the crescent pocket, which had quite a play several years ago is regarded as a back number.

In patterns, stripes have become almost as staple as the Chesterfield is in the overcoat family. Stripes in shades of blue, oxfords and grays will be more noticeable than ever. The fact that most of the fabrics in which stripes appear are light in weight makes clothes made of such fabrics wearable almost twelve months of the year, and hence there is an added reason for their success.

Checks to Have Following

Checks, which came into vogue several years ago with a rush, will have a large following and many of these patterns will be found among the sport suits, as well as among the more conservative styles. Shepherd plaids, herringbones in blue, brown and gray stripes, Glen Urquhart, Tartan checks and overplaids will command a large following.

Despite the fact that diamond weaves were shown more than ever last season, makers are coming forth with another selection of them this year in the hope of forcing popularity. It is rather questionable whether men will seek such patterns as the thing for spring.

Palm Beach in Lead

Palm Beach promises to lead the procession in midsummer fabrics, as in other years. The cheapness of such material, together with "approved" styles has helped put this fabric across as a greater force than ever. For a time Palm Beach cloth was on the wane, but better makers secured this fabric, put their skilled journeymen to work and turned out unusually fine clothes.

The increasing vogue of discarding the heavier woolen suits for something light and airy has also helped other cool-weather fabrics. Among them are mohairs, homespun, lightweight flannels, crashes, rich pongees, shantung, together with a long list of fabrics possessing especially coined names.

The top coat for spring will show a leaning toward the box of full drape, with set-in sleeves. Then, too, the topcoat with the raglan shoulders, forty-four inches long, with belt all around also will win great favor. The first coat mentioned will be shown in both button through and fly front. The third group consists of the always present Chesterfield.

In raincoats the popular gabardine leads the field, in plain or belted models.

In Addition

To presenting the features, there must be in a portrait some expression of the personality; the likeness should grow upon the observer the longer it is studied. The success of Ralph W. Browne lies in his ability to study his subject's features under all favorable conditions—to catch that subtle expression about the mouth and eyes—to reveal that elusive personality that makes a portrait so pleasing and praiseworthy.

PARIS SPEAKS IN MANY TONGUES

Virtually Any Language Can Be Heard In Numerous Little Restaurants

PARIS, March 1.—Paris is gradually becoming the most cosmopolitan city in the world.

There are cafes and restaurants where it is even embarrassing to order in French. In a well-known "bar" of the Faubourg Montmartre a dialect of the Orient is the official language. Just across the street from this little restaurant, which calls itself "The Algeria," you will find the rendezvous of Israelites from Constantinople. In another one the knowledge of Italian is necessary, and in many others Spanish is spoken fluently.

In the bar of the Chaussee d'Antin the garcon scarcely understands French, but he will speak to you in perfect "Anglo-American." Visit the little eating-corner near the Madeleine and you will be obliged to speak Russian. If you wish to eat chop suey in the tavern near the Sorbonne prepare yourself to speak in Chinese.

There is a restaurant for each and every nationality. One need never feel lonely at mealtime in the French capital. There is no excuse for not chatting in your native tongue.

The actual number of foreigners in Paris has not been officially calculated since 1917, when the figure given out was 294,431. Since that date the number has certainly been sensibly increased.

PHONE IS ALWAYS BUSY IN CHICAGO

Figures Seen to Indicate That 'Romeos' Spend Much Time Calling 'Sweeties'

CHICAGO, March 1.—Either figures lie after all, or else there are more per capita sweeties to male Chicago than most other big crossings.

A dazzling cavalcade of numerals just paraded before the Illinois Commerce Commission by William H. Crum, telephone Engineer of the city of Chicago, seems to indicate that the line is nearly always busy.

Maybe it's nearly all business conversation. Maybe it's just polite persiflage. Or airy banter. Or weighty argument. But the figures hint that it's more than likely a couple of thousand sweet girls being called up and cooed at incessantly by swaggering Romeos who keep four or five on the string all the time.

Anyway, Crum said Chicagoans used the instrument more than New Yorkers. On the other hand, San Francisco, Atlantic City and Washington use it more often in proportion to population.

Chicago has twenty telephones to every 100 persons.

Well, what number do you want?

Of course, the country dwellers and suburbanites live out-of-doors as much as they possibly can, weather permitting. While the city dwellers do their best to imitate them by adding porches, balconies and sun parlors to their apartments, and spending on them most of their leisure time.

The decoration and appointments of these sunny living rooms afford an excellent opportunity for the use of gay color. Now that things are coming swift and fast from abroad, many are finding in the peasant pottery of the old country, the very color notes they desire.

Pottery from Many Countries
You may choose as you please from foreign countries. Spain sends candlesticks, vases and jugs. France sends plates and pitchers and gayest of all, the cretonne patterns on pottery from Czechoslovakia.

Free hand drawing of an amusing type is characteristic of the Spanish ware. One can imagine the artist potter softly chuckling to himself, as he paints his weird blue animals prancing over the sides of a tall vase, or winds a hunting scene up the rounded sides of a yellow twisted candlestick, spotted here and there with brown. Then again he seems to abandon drawing altogether and paints another candlestick and its thin strap handle with all sorts of gay colors, not attempting, even at this same ware a cake plate on a pedestal but just a play of colors.

Delightfully Shaped Pottery
And as for jugs and pitchers, the peasant pottery of each country has its own specially delightfully shaped bits. From Quimper, France, a soft lavender glaze is sent forth on a round jug splashed with a blue and red design resembling carnations. In this same ware a cake plate on a pedestal may be bought, similarly decorated. And, oh, not to be forgotten for an instant is the stiff little milkmaid on each piece, carrying her milk jug on her head.

A sandwich plate from Czechoslovakia shouts aloud in color, with a bright red vine traveling over it and small handles of black. Black seems to be a favorite note, for the handles and tops of some pitchers from this country are also black. An all-over pattern resembling cretonne of vari-colored daisies completes these bits of pottery. In a room with plain hangings, such pieces would add a special little thrill.

Italian Jugs of Variety
In Italian pottery, one may find jugs of all shapes. A tall blue one with a flat handle comes to mind. This pitcher has a curious long, thin nose and is covered with a solid matt glaze. Quite opposite in contour is another flat jug of putty color with a wide smiling lip. An amazing bird struts across the front of it. Cream color is very popular in Italian pottery, and fruit dishes, candlesticks and pitchers are often entirely of this color. There are all gradations in Italian wares from the crude rough pottery of the peasants to the chaste beauty of the severe classic lines. A lattice effect appears in many of the latter pieces, a stunning fruit dish being contrived for the joy of some of us. This dish is oval in shape and flares slightly at the top. All of lattice work, it stands on four small feet. Rarely does a single dish combine such dignity and charm. One can vision it heaped high with red apples, oranges and trailing purple grapes with a pair of cream candlesticks on either side to guard its riches.

Then, to light you to bed after a long day, comes a low Dutch candlestick with its rounded handle. It fairly asks to be picked up and carried about. All dull green are its garments patterned with rose and blue in soft tones. Positively restful and sleepy are its very colors. And so, as Peppy says, "Good night, and to bed."

RAILWAY TRAFFIC FIGURES GROWING

Passenger Business On P. E.
Passes 1922 Mark By Over $19,000

Glendale is humming with activity and even the trains are moving. Over $19,000 worth of passenger business more was done last year than the year before by the local branch of the Pacific Electric. H. L. LeGrand, local agent for this interurban line, recently called attention to a steady increase in travel over the red line.

The Southern Pacific now causes eighteen passenger trains a day to pause in Glendale. The Owl, Lark and Sacramento Limited are the only trains now which do not stop at the local station. In the opinion of C. L. Thedaker, local agent, it is only a question of time before even these trains will be compelled at least to hesitate in the Fastest-Growing-City-In-America.

Plan New System
The Southern Pacific Railroad company is understood to be planning a magnificent new station for Glendale. This will be located on the company's property in Southern Glendale about a block west of the present station. The new site will be more accessible from Brand boulevard and the Pacific Electric. It will be convenient to Los Feliz and San Fernando roads. Travelers to and from Hollywood, Pasadena and portions of Los Angeles are expected to use this new station in preference to braving the traffic about the terminus in Los Angeles.

For the accommodation of passengers on evening trains, the local station is kept open until 10:30 p. m. The agent is prepared to sell Pullman tickets so that passengers can board their sleepers right in Glendale.

Tickets to all parts of the United States are now being sold at 121 South Brand boulevard in the office of the Pacific Electric. Accommodations there include the sale of Pullman reservations and through tickets over all eastern railroads.

Tail Lights for Horse Drawn Vehicles, Plan

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 1.—"It is a bill to require tail lights on horses," was the word passed around the House of Representatives when Representative Harvey Z. DUTY OF CHURCH TO SCOUTS TOLD

Pastor Tells Relation of Religious Bodies to Training of Boys

"The church that is alive today takes an interest in every institution and organization that is striving in any way for a better world," today declared Rev. Charles M. Calderwood, pastor of the First Congregational church and member of the Verdugo Hills District Council, Boy Scouts of America. In a statement to The Glendale Evening News in which he sets forth the value of the Boy Scout Movement to the church and the church's duty to the movement which is making such a great effort to develop boys' characters and train them for citizenship. The balance of Rev. Calderwood's statement follows:

"We in the church are not so vitally concerned as to the methods used so long as the people learn to know and obey God, and thus their characters are developed. We want a better world and we believe that we can not have it if people do not know and obey God and if no attention is given to the development of sturdy character."

Must Recognize God
"It is made clear in Section I of Article III of the National Constitution that the Boy Scouts of America maintain that no boy can grow into the best kind of citizenship without recognizing his obligation to God. It reads: 'The Boy Scouts of America maintain that no boy can grow into the best kind of citizenship without recognizing his obligation to God. In the first part of the Boy Scout's oath or pledge the boy promises, 'On my honor I will do my best to do my duty to God and my country, and to obey the scout law.' The recognition of God as the ruling and leading power in the universe, and the grateful acknowledgment of His favors and blessings, is necessary to the best type of citizenship, and is a wholesome thing in the education of the growing boy. No matter what the boy may be—Catholic or Protestant or Jew—this fundamental need of good citizenship must be kept before him. The Boy Scouts of America therefore recognize the religious element in the training of a boy, but it is absolutely non-sectarian in its attitude toward that religious training. Its policy is that the organization or institution with which the Boy Scout is connected shall give definite attention to his religious life."

Supplements Work
"Boy Scout work supplements the work of the church by its emphasis upon clean living. Physical and moral cleanliness are insisted upon. A scout keeps clean in body and thought, stands for clean speech, clean sport, clean habits, and travels with a clean crowd. A youth trained in such living will be a man of a type that is much needed in the churches today. Religion is more than morals, but it must not be dissociated from morals."

"Our church teaches the necessity of being of service to others by doing good. The Boy Scouts take this teaching and strive to do the daily good turn. We should welcome the organization that trains boys to do during the week the things that we teach them on Sunday."

Make Use of Scouting
"The churches of all denominations can make great use of the scout program in the furtherance of boys' work and in attracting and holding the boys of the parish. The last report of the Boy Scout organization to the Congress of the United States showed that 10,078 Boy Scout troops were connected with and actually being sponsored by the churches of this country. More than two-thirds of the entire membership of the Boy Scout organization is under the active direction of church leaders. We should hold more of the boys in the church if we trained them by doing in addition to teaching them by precept. It is not enough to tell boys to be good and live clean lives. We must show them how to give expression through doing these things. The things we hear we may forget, but the things we do put an indelible impression upon minds and character. Habits are formed, not by hearing but by doing."

"We in the churches welcome the Boy Scout movement and we are glad to give it a place in the definite activities of the church, because we want our boys to be prepared, we want them to learn their place in patriotic enterprises, to learn the value of the 'daily good turn,' to live clean lives, and to have their lives stimulated by such wholesome reading as is recommended by the Boy Scouts of America through its library department."

Shaved Mustache Gets Man Out of Jail Term

LOOK IT! SPRING Styler IN BOYS' CLOTHES

by Raymond S. Schults

"Ma, get me a suit like the one Jerry got, will yuh? I don't want any of that kid stuff, because I'm getting too old, now."

The young fellow of today—the scamping, husky boy—will not have to say this to his mother this year, because the suits clothiers are offering this spring surely make the young fellow look like a man. And rightly, too, because he's beginning to take on a serious atmosphere in his school life and his social functions.

Every boy has his father before him as the ideal of manhood, and so he wants to be like him, and to accommodate him father has even compromised and let his styles come down to such a place that models are very, very similar.

Tendency to Plainier Styles.
Fod the high school lad manufacturers have prepared some stunning and sensible clothes. The "freak" styles will, of course, be worn by the young fellow who wants to be eccentric and out-of-the-ordinary, but the suits offered this spring have such beautiful lines and are fashioned so perfectly that there will be no desire for these models with frills and odd little trimmings all over.

When the young man steps into those first trousseurs he wants to lose all the specialties of the short pants suits; he wants to look like Dad, so he looks for the plain-fashioned garments. These he will find in beautiful stripes, which will be the popular vogue this spring, and a varied selection of tweeds—which will run a good second to the stripes.

Juveniles Demand Style.
Even the little fellows of knicker age are becoming "finicky" about their styles and they, too, have come in for a share of the manufacturer's cunning. The clothes this spring will certainly make the younger boys "feel like a million dollars."

They have all the fineness that the garment maker puts into the men's clothes, the rugged wearing qualities—which, of course, mother looks for—just enough style, classiness and dressiness to make, not only the little wearers feel proud, but to make Dad look at his boy with thoughts of "I wish I had had clothes like that when I was a kid."

Norfolk will naturally be the prevailing model for the boys, but they'll come in many, many attractive varieties. However, they will all have one thing in common, the ever-prevailing bells, yokes, backs, panels, box and knife pleats as well as plain or patch pockets.

For the Little Fellow.
Wash middies get the call this year for the little fellow. Garment makers all over the country and in every line are realizing the great value of putting practicality into their products. They have never been so lavish with it as they are this year in the wearing apparel for the little ones.

Fabrics of the strongest material have been used for the wash suits and middies, in very attractive colors and designs—just the thing for the sturdy boy who romps and plays—and would just as soon tear a lace suit as well as any other.

The Oliver Twist and Tommy Tucker suits are being shown in many models as well as many one-piece suits with washable sateen waists and black and dark colored straight pants.

Little Change in Headwear.
There is little change in the style of headwear for the juveniles this year, although hats to match the suits of wash fabrics are becoming predominant. These are all in fast colors and washable, too—again illustrating the practical thoughts of the manufacturer. For the older boys caps of fine-woolen fabrics, in the light spring colors will be the vogue. Caps of tweed material are also very evident, due to the demand for sport clothes of tweed material. The one-piece, large tip cap seems to be the thing. Hats in light greens and tans will be worn for dressy affairs.

Low Shoes Popular.
There is a steady trend in shoe fashions, in the youngsters as well as the older folks, to the oxford. Low shoes of strong wearing quality seem to rule the field this spring. For the little fellow there are many models in plain oxfords in black and tan.

Heavy shoes for rough use are, of course, on the market, and with greater workmanship put into them and long lasting leather. For the young fellow there is a turn to the lighter weight shoe without the fancy trimming of the brogue. A certain smartness is presented in the oxfords of this season that sets off the young fellow with a springy atmosphere.

HANDKERCHIEFS.
Gay colored bandanas worn by many are known as Peasant Handkerchiefs. They first saw the light of day at Deauville, France, and are now beginning to see the light of evening, since they are worn everywhere. She who intends a new way to wear them acquires both fame and chic.

DEMANDS OF VOGUE.
The low round neckline and the flounce about the hips are features of the moment in the the vogue.

HOSIERY VARIES FOR SPRING WEAR

Shops Provide Plenty to Interest; Gay Colors, Sober Ones, Too

The bewildering array of count less styles which are placed before us in such profusion nowadays make it possible for a woman to use so much more artistic imagination in expressing her personality as well as her taste. And of these, greatly varied offerings, hosiery is far from being the least.

The plain black silk stocking which was worn for so long by the smartly dressed woman is scarcely ever seen nowadays. Children with its fine, sheer beauty is seen whenever a plain stocking is worn, and strange as it may sound if you wish black do not buy black. The clever woman chooses gun-metal. This shade looks black when it is worn, but it makes the hose seem much more expensive.

Stockings Should Match.
If your frock be any shade of gray or tan, the stockings should match it even when they are worn with black shoes. If your shoes are of colored suede or have must inserts, of course, the hose must match the shoes. With a very dark dress it is far better to have the hose of a lighter shade than the frock. And these colored hose are quite correct with a black street frock. For the ideal of the mode is still the fawn colored stocking.

For dressier wear the lace check, though plain chiffon hose are appropriate at all times.

For Sport Wear.
For sports wear the silk have given way to the imported English silk and wool stocking. They are much more practical for summer than the all wool and, being much softer, many women find them far more comfortable. And in such fascinating colors can these hose be found, that our ankles are going to be more charmingly clad than ever. These colors offer ample opportunity to have our hose match either our sweaters or our sport frocks. For the fad for the matching of hose is carried into the world of sports. But if you do not choose to wear these gay colors, you will look perfectly stunning if you pick out those with large diagonal checks of all shades of gray or tan. At times these silk and wool hose are clocked or else they have drop-stitch stripes. Seldom are they perfectly plain.

Of course, with the silk sports frock or sports skirts the silk hose must be worn either in white, light gray or fawn, with matching shoes. But, on the golf links or tennis court, wool is the thing.

COLOR PRINTS OF RUSSIA FEATURE

All Tones Imposed With One Impression; Process Is Government Secret

BY ADELE PARKER
For International News Service
MOSCOW, March 1.—A new color process which applies any number of colors by means of a single impression is a Russian invention now becoming popular. The process is a secret of the soviet government. The factory which manufactures the product operates in Petrograd.

The inventor is Professor Nikolai V. Turkin, of Petrograd, and a co-inventor is Madame Astra Ivanovna Sahr, also a resident of Petrograd. The shops which are devoted to the exclusive sale of manufactures of this product are named "Tursahr."

Goods Are Popular.
The Moscow shop, "Tursahr," contains all sorts of manufactures of paper, linen and silk stamped by the new process. There are lamp shades, table covers, boxes, pictures, postcards, calendars and notebooks. The designs are made by approved artists and the goods have a really brilliant effect. A silhouette of Lenin by the celebrated artist, S. V. Checonina, was a recent feature.

The goods are very popular and judging from the prices the process is very economical.

Says Men Are Worst Gossips in the World

BOSTON, March 1.—Men are the greatest gossips in the world, according to Robert A. Woods, South End settlement house worker, speaking to the students of the College of Liberal Arts of Boston University. "Gossip is the tremendously human and vital medium of neighborhood communication and is not necessarily an evil," he declared, adding "the greatest thing is to keep the gossip sweet."

COLOR SCHEMES

It seems as though a wave of green had engulfed the imagination of all the designers. As for more staple shades, light tones of brown will be good, but not widely popular; gray and beige appear in every collection, with particular emphasis on gray; navy blue and black come in for their perennial attention.

FOR THE SUMMER

Everything points to a strong season of cotton and crepe prints for summer.

Your Shoes, Sir for Spring.

Simplification and standardization explain the situation in the shoe industry today, as far as men's footwear is concerned. The novelty and freak of other years are among the relics that one sees in the museums—and today few businesses are as happy as the one in which the men's shoe merchant is the devotee.

In men's commodities the price of footwear was among the last to show a decrease. While materials entering in the making of shoes and oxfords took a tumble several years ago, the greatest item in the production of footwear—labor—was the last to be decreased. Now that wages are lowered a bit—not a great deal at that—and styles have been simplified, prices of the finished product have decreased, too.

The idea of cutting down on the number of styles has reduced the task of both manufacturer and retailer. As a result both are in a happier frame of mind, as "left-overs" have been cut down to the minimum.

The vari-colored tops and the two-toned effects of past seasons have been shelved for the time being with little promise of a return for a long, long time to come.

Naturally, there will be a few freakish lasts to satisfy some extraordinary whim, but such footwear is far in minority. Black low-wear with tan or brown uppers have gone into the discard, while the single-toned shoe or oxfords will lead the van.

Cordovan leather, which once was the vogue, also has taken a back seat, despite its wonderful quality of service and durability. The non-porous condition of this leather is said to have been the cause of much foot trouble. But the cordovan shades, however, will be retained, as they found popularity among the younger men.

Dark browns promise to get quite a play this spring and summer, but there, too, will be the lighter tan shades. Blacks, of course, will have quite a following, as will coco-brown, mahogany, russet and Havana brown.

Gunmetal finishes will go strong as usual, with vic kid and glossier finishes second in the race for popularity.

The narrow English custom toe last and the medium ball shapes will continue in favor among the younger fellows, while the wider and more comfortable lasts, with plenty of toe room, are for the older men, who prefer to sacrifice style to comfort.

Brogues will be worn extensively but the winged tips and perforated toes will drop off a bit in general appeal.

Spats for the ultra dresser will continue in favor and the colors will be much like last year, when tans, grays, fawns, browns and black sold in the majority.

When Old Sol beats his fiercest the canvas oxford will come forth strong. The Palm Beach shades will be worn more extensively than the white. White bucks will have the call for formal affairs.

SKIRTS FOR AFTERNOON

Skirts on most of the afternoon dresses are just above the ankle, though an occasional point or curve carries the line lower. Crepes are the most popular of all the fabrics for this type of dress. There is much satin and charmeuse to be seen, too; satisfied moire and faille are also good. There have been hints of the re-introduction of taffeta.

MUCH EMBROIDERY

Day and evening costumes are elaborately embroidered.

S. BERMAN CITY'S PIONEER TAILOR

Builds Up Large Clientele During His Twelve Years In Business Here

S. Berman, merchant tailor, 410 South Brand boulevard, is one of the pioneer business men in Glendale who has seen the city grow from a small town to an enterprising city. Likewise, he has prospered and today his business is proportionately bigger.

Mr. Berman, however, does not sacrifice quality to quantity and as a result he has built a clientele among the business and professional people who require superior tailoring to meet the demands of their vocation.

It is interesting to note that Mr. Berman has had many patrons for the twelve year period and he keeps them dressed in the very latest style, although his clothing wears through two seasons usually, which is a compliment to the tailor's foresight.

The new spring and summer woolsens now are on display at his store, 410 South Brand boulevard and already some classy garments have been completed for spring wear.

THREE-PIECE SUITS

Three-piece suits are more versatile than ever before. There is the favored dress and coat model and the skirt-blouse-and-coat costume of equal importance. They vary the length of the coat in three ways. Three points, however, are adamant as to rule, the skirts must be from eight to ten inches from the floor; whether pleated or tiered or plain, they must give the effect of slenderness; and every back must be as flat as possible.

FROM OVERSEAS

From overseas comes the message that Paris puts on its short jacket for another season.
